COUNTRY EYES MAINE ELECTION RESULTS TODAY

Pick Governor and 3 Congressmen.

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Sept. 11.—[Special.] — "As goes Maine" tomorrow "so goes the Union" next November—maybe.

Ever since Maine "went hell bent for Gov. Kent" back in 1840, Maine, which elects its state officers and congressmen two months before the national election, has been widely regarded as the political barometer of the nation.

Although Claude E. Robinson of Columbia university in a brochure on the subject arrived at the conclusion that "the September returns from Maine cannot be seriously regarded as an omen of the national election outcome," popular superstition continues to clothe them with significance and both political parties endeavor to influence the result in that state with a view to capitalizing the effect upon the electorate at large.

Rivals Sure to Make Claims.

If the Republican candidate for governor of Maine, Burleigh Martin, should be elected tomorrow, even by less than the normal Republican plurality in Maine, the national Republican leaders will proclaim the result a sure indication of the reelection of President Hoover in November. If the Democratic candidate, Louis J. Brann, should win the Democratic national committee will go into paroxysms of joy over the political barometer's indication of the election of Franklin D. Roosevelt.

If in Maine, which generally goes Republican, the Republican candidate for governor wins by less than the normal Republican margin the Democrats will pronounce the result proof certain of Republican defections giving assurance of the election of Roosevelt with Republican votes. And in such circumstances the Democrats will allow themselves great latitude in the calculation of a normal Republican plurality in Maine. Since women began voting the Republican plurality has varied considerably. In 1920 Maine Republicans elected their governor by a plurality of 65,000, in 1924 by 37,000, and in 1928 by 82,000, which was high water mark.

Hope for 25,000 Majority.

According to the most reliable information from Maine the Republican leaders will consider themselves lucky if they can elect their candidate for governor by as much as 25,000, while the Democrats will be as much surprised as anybody if their candidate should sneak through.

What the Democrats have most reason to expect to win is the congress seat in the Second district, which is a new one resulting from the redistricting of the state as a result of the reapportionment reducing Maine's congressional representatives from four to three. The Democratic candidate is Edward C. Moran Jr., a good vote getter who has twice run for governor. His Republican opponent is Representative John E. Nelson, who has had one appointment and five elections but is handicapped by the redistricting and by the independent candidacy of F. H. Bonney.

All the Democratic candidates are wet and most of them are pressing the issue, standing on the repeal plank of the Democratic national platform. The Republicans, most of whom are dry, are avoiding the issue as much as possible, being embarrassed by the fact that the Republican state platform, adopted before the Chicago convention, was dry. The manner in which the Republican party in its Chicago platform and President Hoover in his acceptance speech, even more so, ran out on the prohibitionists caused consternation among the Republicans of the pioneer prohibition and bootlegger state.

Spellbinders Invade State.

With a view to influencing a result so widely regarded as a barometer of the outcome in the presidential election the Republican and Democratic national committees have sent troupes of their leading spellbinders into Maine during the canvass. The Republican pleaders include Secretary of the Treasury Ogden L. Mills, Mrs. Dolly Gann, sister of Vice President Curtis, and Representative Robert Luce of Massachusetts. Among the Democrats were Gov. Ritchie of Maryland, Gov. Ely of Massachusetts, former Gov. Nellie Tayloe Ross of Wyoming, Senators Wagner and Copeland of New York, and Gene Tunney of Connecticut.

FINDS RADICALS AND CRIMINALS IN BONUS ARMY

Mitchell Reports to President.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Sept. 11.—[Special.]—The bonus marchers whom federal troops drove from the capital on that riotous day of last July 28 represented no fair cross-section of ex-service men, but constituted probably the largest aggregation of criminals ever gathered in Washington at one time.

WM. D. MITCHELL. [U. & U. Photo.]

This was the central theme of the report which Attorney General William D. Mitchell made to President Hoover, and which the President published to the country tonight on the eve of the American Legion's annual convention at Portland, Ore.

Majority Law Abiding.

Most of them were honest, earnest, law abiding, said the department of justice investigators concerning the marchers who began to trickle into Washington last May in order to persuade congress to give them their bonus money.

But a large number, nearly a quarter, perhaps, were criminals; many were radicals; many were arrant fakers; and the worst stayed the longest, said the federal agents of the veterans who fled two months later amid clouds of tear gas and flames of burning huts, leaving two of their number killed and others, together with several policemen, injured.

Hoover Sums It Up.

In his statement transmitting the attorney general's report the President summed it up as follows:

"In giving out the report which shows the character of many of the persons assembled, the incidents and character of the instigators of the riots, I wish to state emphatically that the extraordinary proportion of criminal, communist, and nonveteran elements among the marchers as shown by this report, should not be taken to reflect upon the many thousands of honest, law abiding men who came to Washington with full right of presentation of their views to the congress.

"This better element and their leaders acted at all times to restrain crime and violence, but after the adjournment of congress a large portion of them returned to their homes and gradually these better elements lost control. This report should correct the many misstatements of fact as to this incident with which the country has been flooded."

Seen as Strong Argument.

The President's statement, the attorney general's report, and, above all, the evidence gathered by the federal investigators, were looked upon here tonight as the most forceful argument the administration could send the Legion convention, where a vote for payment of the bonus is virtually certain to be cast and where an effort to censure the admisistration for its treatment of the bonus marchers is almost sure to be made.

As to his own summing up of the facts and interpretations detailed in the report Attorney General Mitchell declared:

"This experience demonstrates that it is intolerable that organized bodies of men having a grievance or demand upon the government should be allowed to encamp in the city and attempt to live off the community like soldiers billeted in an enemy country. Attempts by such groups to intimidate or coerce congress into granting their demands hurt rather than help their cause, and can only end as this one did, in riot and disorder.

Criminal Element Increases.

"The available facts demonstrate that the bonus marchers who remained in the city after congress adjourned represented no fair cross-section of ex-service men. Prior to the adjournment of congress law abiding ex-service men dominated this gathering and preserved order. Afterwards the proportion of disorderly and criminal elements among the men steadily increased. Such of their

ANOTHER KIND OF CANCELLATION

City Schools Open Today for 511,000

Dolls and ball bats will be exchanged for blackboards and textbooks today when the doors of the Chicago public schools are thrown open for a new school year. Approximately 511,000 pupils, an increase of 11,000 over last year, and 14,000 teachers will enter the classrooms.

Seat shortages will be the immediate problem confronting the principals in the 400 school buildings. Don C. Rogers, director of research and building survey, said yesterday that the shortage this year would amount to 72,000 seats, an increase of 3,000 over that in the previous school year.

Plan to Meet Problem.

The problem will be met according to the resources of the various schools, Mr. Rogers said. It will be necessary to take care of the congestion in some schools by transferring portables from others. Other remedies will be an increase in the number of class periods, reaching sometime as high as 12 a day, and the establishment of branches.

The only new school building to open will be the Smyser, at Montrose and Melvina avenues, which will have a pupil capacity of 1,116.

The seat shortage in the elementary schools, however, will be less than in the junior and senior high schools, according to officials.

A bulletin from Supt. William J. Bogan urging boys and girls to stay in school rather than hunt for jobs during the depression will greet pupils upon their return to the classrooms.

Introduce New Methods.

New methods of education and discipline will be launched by Supt. Bogan and his assistants this year.

The new Smyser school will be conducted along experimental lines that have proved successful in the Joyce Kilmer and Lewis Champlin elementary schools. Stress is placed upon individual effort of "learning by adventure," the phrase coined by James E. McDade, assistant superintendent of schools, who is in charge of this work. Four other schools will be operated on the experimental basis during the year.

Penmanship will be taught through the use of a new handwriting scale, developed after two years' experimentation and study by Miss Rose A. Festa, assistant superintendent. "The scale is made up in language sufficiently simple for a third grade pupil," Miss Festa explained. "Always the children have before them samples of good and bad penmanship. When the child compares his writing with that of others he can correct his faults."

A basic social science course, designed to teach children of primary school age the rudiments of good citizenship, will be inaugurated by Supt. Bogan. The first grade pupils will learn of the school, home, grocery store, neighborhood, and observance of holidays.

When the pupil reaches second grade he will study the parks, library, postoffice, and functions of the farm. In third grade the pupil will start on the functions of government and some fundamentals of international relationships.

The teachers will go back to school with the board of education owing them $10,345,000 for back salaries this year, according to Harry Brackett, school auditor. They have been paid in cash up to April 1. The school board has been giving 1931 tax anticipation warrants to teachers in payment of their salaries for May, June, July, August, and December of last year.

Time Bomb Set in Auto Hood; Car Wrecked

A time bomb was exploded under the hood of a sedan parked in front of 3316 North Crawford avenue five minutes before midnight last night. The bomb was believed to have been set for Max Meltzer, vice president of the Milford theater, 3317 Crawford avenue. The explosion came shortly before Meltzer was to leave the theater in the car. The blast wrecked the automobile and shattered windows in the neighborhood.

Meltzer told Lieut. Daniel O'Hara he knew of no motive for the bombing. He said he had had no trouble with union and other employes of the theater. During the evening, Meltzer said, a newsboy came into the theater and told him some one was tampering with the car, but he forgot about the report in the press of business.

The car is owned by Jack Becker, 4840 Drexel boulevard, a brother-in-law of Meltzer and owner of a filling station at 48th street and Cottage Grove avenue. Police were satisfied the bomb was not directed at Becker, as no one knew his car had been borrowed by Meltzer.

The explosion came as several hundred people were viewing the last reel of the feature picture in the theater. Sol Meltzer, brother of Max, calmed the theater audience by stating the bomb was outside of the theater.

$250,000 IN RUM SEIZED BY U. S. ON YACHT AT BOSTON

Boston, Mass., Sept. 11.—(AP)—A liquor seizure, described as the largest made in New England on a boat, took place in Dorchester bay today as customs men uncovered 1,500 barrels and sacks of contraband valued at $250,000 in the 122 foot yacht Prudence, and arrested its captain, Norman McWilliams, and crew of seven.

At first a thorough search of the vessel revealed nothing. When the customs men had about given up examination of the craft one of their number found a peculiar electric light fixture in the main saloon. When he touched it the bulb fell into his hand and disclosed two cords inside.

A tug at the cords, officers said, caused a panel, 8x6 feet, to open on a hatchway. The customs men entered the secret passage which, they said, led them to forward holds where they found the liquor.

Eight in Plane Being Hunted Off Greenland

ANGMAGSALIK, Greenland, Sept. 11.—(AP)—The trans-Atlantic Sikorsky amphibion City of Richmond, whose eight passengers included George R. Hutchinson, his wife and two daughters and a crew of four men, sent distress signals today from the dangerous ice packed waters off eastern Greenland. Then its radio suddenly became silent.

Signals from the plane described it as having been forced down at the position of 65 degrees 28 minutes, north latitude, and 38 degrees 45 minutes west longitude, or in Kjoge bay, 30 miles due southwest of Angmagsalik. After an hour, however, the signals ceased.

The British steam trawler Lord Talbot picked up the SOS at 3:10 p. m. Greenwich mean time [10:10 a. m. Chicago daylight saving time]. It immediately raced for the spot, 25 miles away. The signals kept coming and were confirmed by the Angmagsalik government wireless station.

Find Only Ice.

At 4:23 p. m. [11:23 a. m. Chicago time] the wireless station and the trawler could not raise the City of Richmond. The Lord Talbot reached the distress position at 7:22 p. m. [2:22 p. m. Chicago time], about four hours after first hearing the calls. There was nothing but ice in sight.

Three hours later the trawler was still circling the spot, her searchlights playing over the floe choked waters, while the governor of Greenland, Knud Oldendow, set rescue forces at work from this port.

Earlier in the evening a motor boat was sent out with orders to search the coast line area to the south and west. Preparations were made to send other boats into the dangerous area tonight and tomorrow.

Fear All Lost.

There was some disposition here to entertain fears that the plane had sunk with all its passengers aboard. The thrusts of the ice floes against the pontoons could have been responsible for this, it was argued.

Gov. Oldendow was more optimistic.

"Everything will be done to rescue the American flyers if rescue is possible," he said. "Unfortunately the Danish cruiser usually in east Greenland waters is at Reykjavik.

"Since the motor ship of the famous explorer, Knud Rasmussen, has left Greenland waters the search thus must be limited to motor boats and kayaks [Eskimo canoes]."

Besides Mr. and Mrs. Hutchinson and their daughters, Kathryn, 8, and Janet Lee, 6, the amphibion carried as a crew Peter Redpath, navigator; Joseph Ruff, engineer; C. J. Altfillisch, radio operator; Norman W. Alley, cameraman.

STARTED AUG. 23.

The Hutchinsons started from New York on Aug. 23 on a flight to Europe by easy stages. They stopped at St. John, N. B., Port Menier, Anticosti island; Hopedale, Labrador; Godthaab, Greenland, and Julianehaab.

Before the hop from Labrador to Greenland the Danish government, deeming a flight with a woman and children in that area as too risky, forbade Hutchinson to alight in Danish territory.

The aviator ignored the order and was fined the equivalent of $180 shortly after his arrival at Godthaab. The Danish government then requested him not to fly across the Greenland ice cap, where rescue operations would be exceedingly difficult. Hutchinson complied with this request.

REPORT SHOWS BORROWING OF UTILITY ASSETS

Losses of Far Flung System Revealed.

The receivers of the Insull utility and investment corporations, who have been in charge for nearly five months, are about ready to make reports. The book audits have been completed, and it is expected that the reports will be filed this week, one, perhaps, today.

La Salle street, which is credited with collecting considerable information, says that the report of the Mississippi Valley Utilities Investment company will be "astounding."

An Item of $400,000.

A high light in the "accounts receivable" is an item of $400,000 to Marshall E. Sampsell. Sampsell was head of the Central Illinois Public Service company and an executive and director in several other Insull corporations.

Another item is $168,000 due from Martin J. Insull, brother of Samuel Insull, the utility builder. Samuel Insull has retired on a pension and is now living in Paris.

The Martin Insull loan is technically in good form. The company has his notes for the amount of his indebtedness.

Sampsell in Retirement.

The Sampsell money is more involved. So much so, according to La Salle street, that the receivers asked Mr. Sampsell to retire from all connection with the Insull properties, and he has complied.

The receivers, however, feel that they know, it is said, just how Mr. Sampsell obtained the money and exactly what disposition he made of it. Mr. Sampsell is reported to be spending his time in his Highland Park home.

These transactions are looked upon as incidents in the enormous properties of the Insull group. The Mississippi Valley Utilities Investment company, organized in March, 1926, purchased securities which are said to have cost more than $45,000,000.

Some Are Making Money.

At present prices they are worth considerably less, but some of them are in utilities and industries which are reported to be making money in these times.

The Corporation Securities company is in a different position. Its investments of $145,455,000 book value, which were appraised at a market value of $33,970,000 on last Dec. 31, are reported to be all incumbered.

It is understood in La Salle street that the receivers—Patrick J. Lucey and Raymond J. McNally—will say in their report that they have no unpledged or unloaned securities, but have about $30,000 in cash on hand. That is probably enough to pay the expenses of the receivership, for a time.

Report of Last Dec. 31.

On Dec. 31 this corporation represented that it had unpledged 5,234 shares of Middle West Utilities common stock, 4,823 shares of Middle West $6 preferred stock, 1,031 shares of Midland United company common, 212 North American Light and Power common, 5,000 participation certificates of the Public Service trust, and 2,500 of the capital stock of the Second Utilities Syndicate, Inc.

Now La Salle street hears that all of these stocks have been pledged or loaned.

Insull Utility Investments, Inc., of which George A. Cooke and Calvin Fentress are the receivers, will report some securities on hand, according to the report in La Salle street, but the amount will be relatively small.

This company paid out $252,278,000 for securities, which were valued last New Year's day at $77,975,000. No one was found along the street who had a list of the unpledged securities of this corporation, but it was said by several that the aggregate value of them is comparatively small.

There is said to be a possibility yet, however, that owners of debentures may get something out of this corporation. These debentures were issued under a contract that the security behind them would not be decreased, or that the owners would have equal security with others who might lend the company money.

It is contended by the note holders that the banks made loans to Insull Utility Investments with knowledge of this provision in the notes. But the banks have the great bulk of the securities and at present the debenture owners have what is left in the hands of the receivers.

Middle West Utilities.

The receivers for Middle West Utilities, Edward N. Hurley and Charles A. McCulloch, will report that they have some good underlying utilities in the organization.

Regarding the Middle West, one prominent banker is said to have told a friend: "If Samuel Insull could have gotten $20,000,000—$10,000,000 to meet notes due June 1 and the other $10,000,000 for other purposes—it is my guess that he might have saved Middle West."

The balance sheet of Middle West for Dec. 31 shows assets of $304,193,000, but the company controlled utilities of much larger value. The receivers will probably give some indication of how the 343,000 stock holders of Middle West and its subsidiaries may fare later on. La Salle street is not hopeful of the immediate future.

$40,000,000 Investment Gone.

The $40,000,000 invested by Middle West in the National Electric Power company is gone. One man, in reasonably close touch with the situation, said that this $40,000,000 investment is not worth more than $40 now. The National Electric is in the hands of a receiver. That subsidiary holding company and the operating companies it controlled appears to have been lost to Middle West Utilities.

The National Electric represented the Insull interests in New England, New Jersey, Florida, other sections of the Atlantic seaboard, and the east part of Ohio. Its importance may be indicated by the fact that it had about 802,000 customers out of the aggregate of 1,740,000 customers of Middle West.

Another Eastern Investment.

Another eastern investment of $27,000,000 now seems to have been ill advised. This cash was put in textile and paper mill plants. One report in La Salle street is that Insull paper mills have been selling newsprint to three New York City daily newspapers. Martin Insull is credited with making the $27,700,000 investment in the New England industries.

Middle West Utilities controlled the National Electric Power company, which in turn controlled the New England Public Service company, which in turn controlled 99 per cent of the stock in eleven utilities of New England. The more they earned the more Middle West Utilities would eventually obtain in earnings.

New England Industries, Inc.

Some one conceived the idea that New England Public Service should give financial aid to industries so that they in turn would be able to use more electric power. A little was lent to one and then to another until several millions had been put in these industries and then New England Industries, Inc., was organized as a subsidiary of New England Public Service.

Last March the New England Public Service company reported that it had invested $27,728,900 in New England Industries, Inc. Of this sum $7,012,385 was provided through the purchase of stock and $5,226,000 through bank loans—a total of $12,237,385.

The remainder was provided principally by an affiliate company, which had invested $8,696,090 in the shares of various textile companies, of which the chief ones are Androscoggin Mills, Bates Manufacturing company, Edwards Manufacturing company, Hill Manufacturing company, and York Manufacturing company. To these mills $5,148,650 was loaned by affiliate corporations.

Money in Paper Plants.

In addition $13,848,531 was invested in newsprint companies. The Maine Seaboard Paper company is credited with getting $11,860,000. This company started commercial operations on Jan. 1, 1931, at 80 per cent capacity. At the end of the year it had earned 6 per cent on the company investment before depreciation, and is still operating at a profit, according to local information.

With one exception the textile mills are said to be operating "in the black."

But control of these industries, three of which owned valuable water power privileges, seems to have slipped away. However, some of the stocks of New England Industries are still owned by the Mississippi Valley Utilities Investment company.

Mississippi Valley Company.

How the Mississippi Valley company made its appeal to investors is hardly understandable. It is a subsidiary of Middle West Utilities and has purchased securities from various companies in that system.

The Mississippi Valley company contracted, however, to resell to these companies any securities at the price paid for them, so that it looks to an outsider as if the other companies were in the better position to make profits on the sale of securities.

The Mississippi Valley at the beginning of the year owned 450,642 shares of common stock in New England Industries and 103,385 shares of preferred stock. It is understood that the Mississippi Valley still has a large block and that the receivers, E. V. R. Thayer of Chicago and Ohe Nowland of Wilmington, Del., have had a survey made of the industries.

Dividends Paid Last Year.

Mississippi Valley paid dividends last year despite the opinion in La Salle street that the earnings did not justify it. One story going the rounds is that the company declared a dividend because of the appreciation in the market value of the securities it owned, but lacked the cash with which to pay. So, according to this story, it borrowed $8,000,000 or $10,000,000 from Middle West Utilities to pay the dividends and gave its notes for the loan.

All of the common stock of Mississippi Valley is owned by Middle West, so Mississippi Valley paid back to Middle West $8,000,000 in dividends. The securities of the Mississippi trust have since depreciated in value, the alleged basis for paying the dividends, and Middle West has the $8,000,000 back again, together with the Mississippi Valley notes.

The last dividends paid by the company were $1.50 on Feb. 1, 1933, on the prior preferred stock, of which 44,800 shares are outstanding; and $1.75 on March 1 on the preferred stock, of which 65,273 shares are in the hands of the public.

In Many Lines of Business.

The public has the impression that Middle West Utilities supplies electric, gas, water, ice, heat, railway, and bus service. It has also been shown that the company was in the textile and newsprint business in New England.

Near Kansas City it was in the real estate business. The Mississippi Valley company has a large real estate development in which it has spent $500,000. Yet the project was not developed as completely as the promoters desired, so $200,000 was borrowed from a western bank.

The bank took a first mortgage and the Mississippi Valley company took a second mortgage on the property. The receivers are said to look upon this "asset" as either a "loss" or a liability, if it is determined that the property must be disposed of.

Irrigation Project Planned.

The Mississippi Valley was also planning to go into the irrigation business in Mexico. The American Central Utilities, of which the Mississippi Valley owns 74,881 prior preferred shares, is in control of several utilities in Mexico. It was proposed to increase the capacity of those utilities by water power and part of the water was to have been utilized for irrigation purposes.

No information has leaked out concerning the intention of the receivers of these properties, except that they are said to be negotiating with an operator for their management. Part of the money for this investment was advanced by Middle West Utilities and part by the Mississippi Valley company.

The receivers are reported to be at the point of agreeing on a division of ownership and of income from these properties. One of the protective committee is protesting against the proposed division.

60,000 Spectators See Two Racing Planes Collide at American Legion Air Meet

BY HUGH SEXTON.

Rounding the home pylon at a speed of more than 100 miles an hour at the end of the second lap, two planes racing for the Lear Radioaire Sportsmen pilot's trophy collided yesterday afternoon in view of 60,000 spectators at the American Legion charity air meet at Sky Harbor flying field, near Northbrook.

Ed Voras, piloting a Waco F biplane (Warner motor), one of the planes in the accident, pulled his ship up sharply over the clubhouse despite a flapping right wing. He skidded it back and forth to kill speed and altitude and landed near the northwest corner of the field.

Rolls Toward Spectators.

His plane still had too much speed and as it rolled along the ground toward a crowd of spectators at the fence, Voras kicked his rudder and sent the machine crashing into the fence through a hole in the crowd. The plane struck an empty automobile and somersaulted into the air, landing on its back on top of the car. The car was crushed, the plane was wrecked, but Voras was not injured.

The other plane, flown by C. D. (Dean) Owsley of Evanston, a Stinson Jr. monoplane (Lycoming motor), pulled up out of the collision with both ailerons gone and a large gash in the wing, where the fabric had been torn away by the right wing of Voras' plane. It continued around the course to the southwest and landed safely at Curtiss-Reynolds airport in Glenview, three miles south of Sky Harbor. Owsley was not injured. Aviation experts, after examining the damaged plane, were enthusiastic in praising Owsley's skillful flying.

The collision occurred a few minutes after six planes had taken off in a racehorse start, flashed around the scattering pylon east of the airport and back over the port to start the first lap. The race was to be four laps of the five-mile triangle.

Owsley Takes Lead.

Owsley was leading at the end of the second lap when his large monoplane banked to round the pylon. Voras cut his smaller biplane beneath Owsley's plane in an effort to pass him and gain first place. Suddenly Voras' plane seemed to climb and the wings locked. Then the planes broke clear.

Voras, of Elkhart, Ind., is 29 years old. The plane he was flying was owned by Earl Brillhart of Goshen, Ind., he said. The automobile his plane wrecked had just been vacated before he crashed into it by Mrs. S. R. Meck of 810 Vernon avenue, Glencoe, and her two children, Jean and John S.

The race was won by Eldon Cessna of Wichita, Kas., flying a Cessna monoplane [Warner motor], in 10 minutes 47 seconds; second, Dr. C. W. Trowbridge, Stinson Jr. (Lycoming motor); third, James Mattern, Oklahoma City, Stinson Jr. (Lycoming motor); fourth, C. L. Clabaugh of Waukegan, Stinson Jr. (Lycoming motor).

Traffic Blocks Roads.

The air meet drew such large crowds that roads for more than five miles in every direction from Sky Harbor were blocked with traffic by 2 p. m., an hour after the afternoon program of races had started. At noon it was estimated there were 30,000 spectators on the field and the large space reserved for auto parking already was more than half filled.

Maj. R. W. Schroeder, chairman of events, directed the program of races from a "crow's nest" atop the tower of the clubhouse. Using a watch, a program and a button connected to a large red beacon, he opened the field to landing planes, and closed it to allow new events to commence. The heavy program went off without a hitch and with few delays.

Ong Wins Tribune Trophy.

Bill Ong of Kansas City, flying the small white racer Ike, built by Benny Howard, Chicago mail pilot, powered by a Menasco inverted in-line motor, flew the fastest lap of any plane entered in the events and won THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE speed trophy. Ong attained a speed of 217 miles an hour on the fourth lap of the fifty mile free for all around the five mile closed course.

Ong got away slowly on the race horse start with Johnny Livingston of Aurora, flying his yellow monocoupe [Warner motor] in the lead. Livingston won the race by a hair, after Ong fought for the lead on every one of the ten laps after closing the distance that separated them. At the finish, they were almost neck and neck. Livingston won the Daily News trophy, his time being 15 minutes 2 seconds. Ong's time was one-half second slower.

Flies Sporting Race.

E. M. (Matty) Laird, Chicago plane designer, flew a sporting race with his lesser powered racer (Ranger motor), to finish third and win the Vincent Bendix award. Homer Hamer of La Salle flew his Laird (Warner motor) to win fourth place, and the Paul Brown award.

Harold Alford of 730 Lincoln place, River Forest, established a new endurance record for light planes during the day. His unofficial time was 11 hours 12½ minutes. The old record, held in Rumania, was 8 hours 17 minutes. Alford flew a Taylor cub (Continental motor) and took off from the airport at 5:24 a. m., with 36 gallons of gasoline and six quarts of oil, a total load of 547 pounds.

A squadron of five Curtis helldivers [Wasp motors] in command of Lieut. Joseph Bauer, from Great Lakes Naval Training station, flew over the field, changing formation as they cruised at 150 miles an hour. Suddenly they dived on the crowd. At 250 miles an hour they swept over the heads of spectators and to within 10 feet of the ground.

Eight parachute jumpers competed for the Nu-Enamel trophy and prizes. The winner was Rodger Don Rae of Lansing, Mich., who landed 18 feet 4 inches from the marker in the center of the airport. Rae appeared in a dual rôle, as he had already won the light plane race for the Horner trophy.

FIVE MILE HORNER TROPHY RACE FOR SMALL PLANES [with motors of less than 350 cubic inches displacement]—First, Rodger Don Rae of Lansing, Mich., Heath [Continental motor]; second, C. L. Clabaugh, Waukegan, Heath [Heath motor]; third, Duke Muller, Niles, Mich., Heath [Heath motor]; fourth, Walter Franklin, Kankakee, Church Midwing [Church motor]; fifth, George F. McCarthy, Janesville, Wis., Church Midwing [Church motor], and sixth, W. F. Morsalis, Chicago, Eagle [Szekely motor]. Time, 19 minutes 54 seconds.

L. B. MANNING TROPHY RACE FOR STINSON PLANES—First, Jimmie Mattern of Oklahoma City; second, Dr. C. W. Trowbridge of Chicago; third, C. L. Clabaugh of Waukegan. All three of the ships were cabin monoplanes powered with 220 horse power Lycoming motors. The race was for three laps of the closed five mile course.

SPORTSMAN'S PILOT RACE FOR DAILY TIMES TROPHY—First, Eldon Cessna of Wichita, Kas., flying a Cessna monoplane [Warner motor]; second, James Mattern of Oklahoma City, flying a Monocoupe [Warner motor]; third, Fred Strine, La Grange, flying a Waco [Wright motor]; fourth, B. M. "Matty" Laird, Chicago, flying a ship of his own design powered with a Wright motor. Time, 7 minutes 7 seconds for 15 miles.

AFRICAN PURSUIT RACE [three circuits of the closed course, in between each of which the contesting pilots were required to land and blow up a toy balloon]—First, Vic Lindemann, Chicago, Fleet [Warner motor]; second, Dr. Sydney Walker, Chicago, Argo [Warrior motor]; third, Fred Strine, La Grange, Argo [Warrior motor]; fourth, Dick Granere, Chicago, Monocoupe [Warner motor].

The Midland club trophy in the national outdoor model airplane championship contest was won by Robert Pekelsma, Chicago, whose model plane stayed aloft for an average of 222 seconds in three flights.

STABS MAN DURING ARGUMENT.

NEW AIR BOARD GIVES LICENSES TO 800 PILOTS

Maj. Landis Reviews Work of State Commission.

During its first year of operation which ended this month the Illinois aeronautics commission, of which Maj. Reed G. Landis is chairman, licensed approximately 51 airports, 500 aircraft and 800 pilots. The department of commerce, aeronautics branch, has licensed 1,117 pilots and 432 aircraft in the state and reports that there are 206 aircraft unlicensed by them.

The licensing of airports, planes and pilots, Maj. Landis said at the recent meeting of the commission, is in line with its duties to regulate aviation for the public safety and to encourage the development of aviation.

"The safety of aviation, we have found, depends largely upon three things," Maj. Landis said. "First, the pilot must be properly trained and must keep in practice and in good physical condition. Second, aircraft must be properly designed, built and maintained. Third, the airports must be kept in a safe condition."

In a communication to city officials, Maj. Landis has revived plans for a lake front airport. His proposal, to anchor a seadrome off Grant park, is being studied by Corporation Counsel Sexton and Col. A. A. Sprague, commissioner of public works.

ROBBED TWICE IN A DAY AND SLUGGED, TOO

Gus Chapin, 67 years old, retired lake skipper, left his room in the Reed hotel at 102 West Lake street yesterday and went for a short trip to the west side. Before he got back he had been robbed twice by separate gangs of bandits and had been beaten by one group.

"I was in the 2100 block on Lake street," said the captain last evening, "when three men with pistols forced me into a doorway and took all my money—something over $20.

"That left me without carfare and I had to beg a ride in an automobile. Pretty soon a couple of fellows came along and said they'd drive me to the hotel. But they turned over to Halsted street and Grand avenue, drove into an alley, and took everything the first bunch of robbers left me. They got my watch, my spectacles, my knife, and even my chewing tobacco, and they slugged me when I called them a pair of dirty crooks."

POLING FLIES TO CHICAGO TO AID IN ROBINS HUNT

Dry Leader Admits He Has No Definite Clews.

Dr. Daniel A. Poling, head of the allied dry forces in New York, arrived in Chicago early this morning by plane from Portland, Ore., to aid in the search for his friend and associate, Raymond Robins, dry leader and social worker, who disappeared after leaving New York a week ago to keep an appointment with President Hoover.

Dr. Poling was one of the last persons to see Mr. Robins before he vanished. They had lunch together in New York on Sept. 3 and conferred on their work. At the luncheon Mr. Robins told Dr. Poling he was leaving the next day to see the President.

The search for the dry leader was centered in Chicago last week when three persons who knew him reported seeing him in the loop Thursday. Yesterday three more persons who did not know him reported seeing him near Blue Island Friday.

Here to Aid in Hunt.

"I have no information which could be regarded as important," Dr. Poling said in his room at the Palmer house. "I have come merely to give my aid in the search. I have kept in touch with the situation by wire and phone since the disappearance was reported.

"I hope that Col. Robins is merely the victim of amnesia and that he will shortly recover from the lapse. I fear, however, that he has been abducted by Florida rum runners because of the success with which he challenged them and delinquent officials on the west coast of Florida."

Doubts Chicago Identifications.

Dr. Poling said he was not convinced by the identifications reported by friends of Col. Robins and dismissed those made from photographs as hardly worth investigation. He said he will confer with officials here today and talk to those who reported seeing Col. Robins. He said he believed the persons were mistaken.

Dr. Poling canceled a speaking engagement in Portland to fly here to join in the search. He arrived at the airport shortly before midnight and went directly to his hotel.

The three new identifications were made by Mrs. Ruth Corey, 2125 West Vermont street, her daughter-in-law, and a neighbor, Fred Fouts. They said a man, whom they later believed to be Col. Robins because he resembled newspaper photographs of the missing man, stopped at the Corey home Friday morning and inquired about a saloon at the corner of Homan and Burr Oak avenues, just west of Blue Island.

Talks of Closed Saloon.

"He said he believed the saloon on the corner was closed, and I told him it was," said Mrs. Corey. "He said, 'Well, it won't be long until they're all closed.' He then went back to his car about 150 feet from the house."

Attorney Harold Ickes, friend of Col. Robins, said he did not believe the story. He stated that Robins never engaged in private investigations of the liquor traffic.

Friends believe Col. Robins is a victim of amnesia or kidnapers, and also hold it possible he is on a secret investigation. On previous investigations he has notified his wife. Mrs. Robins, who is at Southwest Harbor, Me., has not heard from him in the present instance.

Prohibition agents at Washington, aiding in the search, had abandoned the theory that Robins was a victim of bootleggers, but yesterday started working anew on the possibility. They said an informer had reported hearing men connected with an alleged liquor conspiracy which Robins had investigated "talking about Robins" a few days before his disappearance.

Car Strikes Child

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

VIENNA, Austria, Sept. 11.—Anna May Wong's motor jaunt through Europe came to a sudden end tonight when she and her traveling companion, reported to be Rudolf Friml, American songwriter, were arrested at Wiener Neustadt, 30 miles from here.

Late tonight they were released from jail and permitted to spend the night at a local hotel.

Police said they are holding the Chinese actress of Hollywood films and her friend because they ran over and seriously injured a child while driving through the village of Langenwang, 50 miles south of Wiener Neustadt, this morning. The couple returned towards Vienna, but the country gendarmerie telephoned ahead and asked police to halt the motorists and arrest them.

The alert police of Wiener Neustadt spotted the expensive car with an American license number. Miss Wong, who was driving at the time of the accident, was booked on a charge of driving without a license, a serious offense in Austria. If the child dies she will be charged with manslaughter.

CIVILIAN RIDERS TO COMPETE AT FORT SHERIDAN

Seven events are scheduled for the military show each evening. Winners in the competitions on Friday nad Saturday nights will meet in the finals Sunday night.

Artillery batteries will participate in a target competition, in which they will fire shrapnel at targets anchored in Lake Michigan.

Police Question Widow and Girl Friend of Slain Man

Kansas City, Mo., Sept. 11.—(AP)—Julius Genova, 35, was shot and killed in his garage late last night. The body was found this morning. His widow and Frances Gibbs, a young woman friend, were questioned, but not held. Miss Gibbs told police she had been threatened by the widow, whom she quoted as saying: "If I ever catch you and my husband together I'll kill you both if I swing for it."

Two Youths to Start on 1,500 Mile Canoe Trip

Two youths at 6 o'clock this morning will start on a 1,500 mile cruise in a folding canvas canoe that will take them up the Mississippi river and its tributaries into Canada. They are Henry Thuemler, 21 years old, 2103 Eastwood avenue, and John Lauzendorf, 19, of 1434 Washburn avenue. The youths will start from the north branch of the Chicago river at Wilson avenue. They expect to be gone 30 days.

CALIFORNIA CLUB LEADER KILLS HER HUSBAND, SELF

Los Angeles, Cal., Sept. 11.—[Special.]—Mrs. Edna Porter Killian, 35, club woman, shot and killed her husband, Howard F. Killian, owner of extensive ranch and orchard lands at Elmonte, Cal., and then slew herself. Worry over financial losses is blamed for her act.

Both graduated at University of California and Mrs. Killian had been chairman of the literature section, California Federation of Women's clubs, here.

Killian was 39 and was the son of the late Scott Killian, banker and pioneer southern California fruit grower, who at one time owned the largest walnut acreage in the world.

Killian formerly had been a school teacher, and when they met financial reverses applied for and received appointment to a principalship in Elmonte schools, which open tomorrow. The couple never was known to quarrel, according to attendants on their ranch and members of both families.

Housewife Fatally Burned as Paraffin Catches Fire

Mrs. Elizabeth Darmstodt, 58 years old, 936 Marengo avenue, Forest Park, was fatally burned yesterday when paraffin caught fire while she was h ting it on her kitchen stove preparatory to canning. Neighbors extinguished the fire and took her to the Oak Park hospital, where she died.

FIRE DESTROYS EXCLUSIVE CLUB, ROUTS DANCERS

Darien, Conn., Sept. 11.—(AP)—Several hundred wealthy revelers, clad in nondescript clothing of a "shipwreck party," escaped safely early today as fire destroyed the exclusive Tokeneke club, valued at $100,000.

The blaze could be seen for more than ten miles along the shore of Long Island sound. Nearly 200 yachts collected in the harbor to watch.

Among those at the festivities were Edward C. Wilson, vice president of the Empire Trust company of New York, and Mrs. Wilson; Donald McCabe Blodgett, vice president of the National City bank; Robert E. Allen, vice president of the Central Hanover Trust company, and Mrs. Allen; Donald Curran, sculptor; Walter D. Hines of New York, with Mrs. Hines, and other New York business leaders.

The party, the last of the season at the club, started with a "shipwreck," or the explosion of a makashift vessel at the beach. Several hours later as the "survivors," in clothing designed to give the impression of having been hurriedly seized, danced in the main clubhouse. Servants found the flames shooting up from a row of unused frame bathhouses in the rear.

Speaks at Dedication of Marne Memorial.

BY EDMOND TAYLOR.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, Sept. 11.—France, standing at its diplomatic Marne in Germany's onslaught against the treaties of peace, today received unexpected reinforcements on the actual battlefields where eighteen years ago former Kaiser Wilhelm's army was turned back on its march to Paris.

WALTER E. EDGE.

In an unofficial address by Ambassador Walter E. Edge at the dedication of a monument given by America to commemorate the victory on the Marne — erected on the heights above the little town of Meaux where the German artillery was stationed in 1914—France was assured that the American people will never consent to an alteration of the French frontiers or any other country's frontiers by force.

A Fundamental Axiom.

"Americans are wedded to the fundamental axiom," the ambassador said, "that a nation's primary right is to be free from the fear of invasion. Faith in the justice of this principle is so deeply ingrained in the American people that when they see a territory overrun they are aroused and, as this monument testifies, instinctively resolve to throw their moral and, if need be, their material weight on the side invaded."

This was considered as an application to Europe of the official doctrine upheld by the American state department regarding Manchuria.

From the French point of view, if the speech can be accepted at face value, it would mean that America underwrites the present frontiers of Alsace-Lorraine and the Polish corridor, and would come to France's aid if Germany tried to change them by force of arms.

Significantly, Mr. Edge in referring to the monument as a manifestation of the force of public opinion said:

"The guarantee which it postulates should not be ignored. It is a symbol of the undying unity, the firm and constant friendship, which forever link the United States and France."

Invasions Rouse Americans.

"This memorial," he continued, "is a poignant and permanent reminder that no deed moves the American people more deeply in its sympathies and more definitely to action than the sight of a nation freeing its territory, its hearth and its homeland from foreign invasion. This concept they and other peoples of the world wrote into the law of nations by the general acceptance of the Kellogg-Briand pact."

Again, in quoting Secretary of State Henry L. Stimson's recent statement that "public opinion is the sanction which lies behind all international intercourse," the ambassador said:

"Before us here is visible evidence that mass opinion will invariably align itself behind the cause that is just and the principle which is right, thereby commanding the course of governments."

The eighteenth anniversary of the first battle of the Marne, the decisive phase of which raged around Meaux between Sept. 5 and 10, 1914, was turned this year into a ceremony commemorating and renewing Franco-American friendship. Among those present were Premier Edouard Herriot, President Albert Lebrun, Marshal Henri Petain, Gen. Henri Gouraud, Gen. John J. Pershing and Senator David A. Reed of Pennsylvania.

Ceremony Is Impressive.

The actual ceremony dedicating the monument on Varedes heights, which the French infantry charged with bayonets for three days before finally dislodging the Germans, was impressive.

But the dramatic significance attaching to the ceremony at this moment on account of the new tenseness of Franco-German relations was only dimly brought out. Minister of War Joseph Paul-Boncour, who presided at a luncheon, it is true, made a rather belligerent address, declaring that France did not intend to let the fruits of victory be snatched from her hands. Every time the name of Aristide Briand was mentioned in the official addresses there were loud hisses and shouted insults from the representatives of the war veterans' associations.

But Premier Herriot's speech was the essence of mildness. It was mostly a rhapsody on Franco-American friendship and an eloquent defense of France against the charge of being militaristic.

"All honest and independent minds will understand our anxiety over certain dangerous demonstrations," Herriot pleaded. "It is not contradictory to our horror of war. It expresses simply our modest desire to live in peace in our own country. It leaves us enough coolness to address an appeal for reconciliation to our former enemies."

Note to Germans Mild.

This mildness and the news that the French reply to the German demand for equality in arms, which reached Berlin today, is much milder than originally expected is attributed here to pressure from England and the United States.

According to indications tonight, the French note does not even refuse to enter into private conversations with Germany about modifying the military clauses of the treaty of Versailles, but merely insists that any such conversation must be within the framework of the league of nations.

France, it is said, further recognizes Germany's right to ask a reduction in armaments of other powers, but only in proportion to their individual security requirements.

The body was recovered several hours after the drowning. The victim and a companion, Kveta Miskovski, 16 years old, 2709 South St. Louis avenue, were caught in the undertow and carried out beyond their depth. The Machacek girl disappeared under the water before help could reach her. The Miskovski girl was brought to shore safely.

A $250,000 suit for alienation of affections against Miss Beulah Johnson, 659 Wrightwood avenue, will be filed in the Circuit court today by Mrs. Mae Wieland of 1111 Sheridan road, Wilmette, estranged wife of Charles J. Wieland, millionaire president of the Wieland Dairy company.

The declaration prepared by Attorney Charles C. Cooley will charge that Wieland met Miss Johnson on Sept. 18, 1918, and that since then the latter "has been scheming, conniving, and wickedly intending to injure the plaintiff and deprive her of the society and affection of her husband." The bill also will charge that Miss Johnson "contrived to deprive the plaintiff herein of her just and equitable share of her husband's estate."

Sues for Divorce.

On Sept. 1 Mrs. Wieland filed suit for divorce in the Circuit court, charging her husband with adultery and naming Miss Johnson co-respondent. At that time she obtained an injunction from Judge George Fred Rush restraining her husband from disposing of any of his property and from entering his Wilmette home.

In her alienation suit Mrs. Wieland charged that her husband gave Miss Johnson a large automobile, an apartment building, real estate, jewelry, stocks, bonds, and cash. All the gifts, the bill charges, were the result of Miss Johnson's scheming. The bill will charge that Wieland invested thousands of dollars in the stock market in Miss Johnson's name, giving her the profits.

The suit also will charge that Wieland paid the rent in various apartments in which Miss Johnson lived during the last 14 years. Mrs. Wieland will charge that Miss Johnson induced Wieland to drive her to Miami Beach, Fla., in February, 1931. During this trip, the bill will state, Wieland "ignored the existence of his wife." The bill will allege that the couple took other trips to Kansas City, Excelsior Springs, and New York City.

Employs Her Relatives.

Through trickery, the suit will say, Miss Johnson compelled Wieland to hire her mother to act as manager of an apartment building which he holds in joint tenancy with his wife. Later, the bill will allege, Wieland hired Ralph Johnson, brother of Beulah, as an employé of the Wieland Dairy company.

The final count in the suit will charge that despite her pleas for him to remain with her Wieland deserted his wife on April 9, 1932, while she was seriously ill, for Miss Johnson.

The Wielands were married in 1904 and have two grown children. Mrs. Wieland is 48 years old and her husband 55. In her divorce bill Mrs. Wieland said that her husband has an income of $48,000 a year and received $3,000,000 as his share of the $19,000,000 purchase price when the Borden interests bought out the Wieland company. In 1915 Mrs. Wieland filed suit for divorce, charging her husband with adultery and naming six co-respondents. This suit later was dropped.

THREAT WRITER TO FACE SOCIETY ACCUSERS TODAY

Father of Bride Will Prosecute Diez.

Chief William O. Freeman of the Evanston police yesterday was seeking other victims of the scheme of Rudolph Diez to extort money from the parents of society girls who were about to become brides. Four such victims already have been revealed and Diez has told the police he wrote seven death threat letters in all.

One father whose daughter was threatened and who put a few dollars in a decoy package that brought about the capture of Diez is ready to appear in court today and prosecute the prisoner. Two other fathers have agreed to sign additional warrants if necessary, Chief Freeman said.

Ashcraft to Prosecute.

Edwin M. Ashcraft Jr., 1144 Asbury avenue, Evanston, millionaire corporation lawyer, whose daughter Ann was married on Saturday to Raymond Otis Mitchell of Minneapolis, is the complainant in the charge on which Diez and his wife, Bertha, will be arraigned today before Magistrate Porter in Evanston.

It was Ashcraft's package that Diez had picked up when he was arrested early Saturday at the service door of an apartment building at 4427 North Ashland avenue, across the street from his home at 4420 North Ashland.

William Southworth Miller of 647 Spruce street, Winnetka, vice president of the Northern Trust company, and Ernest High Noyes, 1242 Lake Shore drive, will assist in the prosecution, either as witnesses or complainants, Chief Freeman said.

Threats Precede Weddings.

Both fathers received letters threatening the safety of their daughters. Mr. Noyes' daughter, Florence, was married last Thursday to George T. Senseney of St. Louis. Mr. Miller's daughter, Mary, is to wed Charles N. Proctor of Boston tomorrow.

An extortion letter was also received by George B. Harrington, president of the Chicago-Wilmington-Franklin Coal company, whose daughter, Sophie, is to marry Jacob Bischof on Sept. 22. The Harringtons, whose home is at 232 East Walton place, have been residing at 945 Maplewood road, Lake Forest, during the summer. Mr. Harrington may be a witness in the trial of Diez, Chief Freeman said, but probably will not be a complainant.

YOUTH DIES AS AUTOS COLLIDE.

Vincennes, Ind., Sept. 11.—[Special.]—Charles E. Arterburn, 20, of Bicknell was fatally injured early today when his automobile collided with the machine driven by Ruil Swan of Vincennes. Swan was arrested.

REICHSTAG WINS CHANCE TO ACT IN POLITICAL CRISIS

Von Papen Seeks Majority for Economic Program.

BERLIN, Sept. 11.—(AP)—The junker government of Chancellor Franz von Papen will give the reichstag a chance to debate Germany's internal political situation.

An official statement tonight declared that those in power would not shut off discussion of the government's reconstruction program by "premature dissolution." On the contrary, the Von Papen cabinet announced it wished to neglect no opportunity to find a reichstag majority for its program.

This program contemplates relief through tax refunds and other measures, and risks some $500,000,000 on the return of prosperity.

Gives Reichstag a Chance.

Until today's statement there appeared only two possible ways of averting dissolution of the reichstag immediately after it reconvenes tomorrow. These were the elimination of Chancellor Franz von Papen, or a tacit toleration on the part of the Catholic Centrist-National Socialist coalition which controls the lawmakers.

The chancellor will have the power of dissolution by virtue of a decree signed in blank by President von Hindenburg. The president agreed, however, to meet the presidium of the reichstag, headed by the Nazi, Wilhelm Goering, tomorrow, after the government makes its statement of policy.

Looks Forward to Debate.

On this point today's government statement said:

"The impression is erroneous that the government wishes to prevent political debate in the reichstag by premature dissolution. On the contrary, the government looked forward to such debate with great interest because it believed the debate will furnish useful clarification of the situation for the nation, and because it wishes to neglect no opportunity to find a reichstag majority for its program."

The French reply to Germany's aide memoire demanding arms equality was handed today to the foreign minister, Baron Konstantin von Neurath, by the French ambassador, Francois Poncet, but official comment was withheld.

In authoritative quarters, however, there was a tendency to emphasize that "Germany's claims to equality are so well based that she can pursue her previously announced policy with a clear conscience."

This was generally interpreted to intimate that Germany would absent herself from the disarmament conference unless the French reply leaves a door open to settle Germany's claims before the convocation of the adjourned conference.

Hitler Creates "Defense Body."

MUNICH, Sept. 11.—(AP)—The Nazi leader, Adolf Hitler, announced today he had created special departments in his Fascist organization to handle matters of defense and colonies. Gen. Franz von Epp was placed in charge of the defense department. The Nazi chieftain said that "the problem of Germany's defense is pressing for solution, and the nation expects the National Socialist party to regain the fatherland's lost military security."

BATTLES THIEVES IN SPEEDING CAR; CAPTURES THEM

Standing on the running board of an automobile being driven at fifty miles an hour through south side streets, Policeman Joseph Leonard of the Stockyards station last night fought with two alleged thieves until they shut off the motor and submitted to arrest.

Riding in a police car, Leonard first forced the youths to the curb at 47th and Elizabeth streets. As he stepped over to their car the driver started north at high speed. Leonard, who had his pistol in his hand, just had time to jump on the running board of the car. He refrained from shooting but beat the driver on the head. The car stopped at 45th street.

The youths are Tony Lisuda, 18 years old, 4735 South Elizabeth street, and Joseph Adanek, 18 years old, 1234 West 48th street. The automobile was stolen a week ago in Peoria.

FILIPINOS ABSORB U. S. CULTURE, BUT REMAIN FILIPINOS

Era of American Influence Is Passing Away.

BY PHILIP KINSLEY.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

MANILA, P. I., Aug. 23.—[By Mail.]—Manila's skyline is becoming Americanized, but the color and quality of its basic life remains unchanged, distinctly Filipino. The American epoch is passing, as the Spanish occupation passed. There is a flowering now into something new and nationally adventurous, a blending of east and west, perhaps the beginning of a new Japan.

Life has been traced here as far back of 5,000 years, about the time the Black Sand man sat by his camp fire on the Illinois river. It exists today in different stages of evolution, from the primitive mountain tribes to the scholarly debaters in San Tomas university, from savagery to as fine models of family life as the world affords.

The American impact is but a flicker in time against this majestic molding process, but it has produced a generation articulate, intelligent, ambitious, eager to test its mettle.

Americans Are Strangers.

One feels here he is in the presence of something very old, which is taking on new form rapidly. The American influence has been absorbed in many ways, yet Manila has not, like Honolulu, become an American city. Its English is still halting and strange and there is talk of going back to the Tagalog language for primary education.

Americans are the strangers in the street, marked and watched in curiosity. In the government buildings, in the courts, schools, and state university, Filipinos have taken control. About all that is left for them to take is the throne of Malacanang palace. American are on the fringe of things, hanging on where, in all respect and gratitude, they are not really wanted much longer.

There is no ill feeling against Americans. On the contrary, they are received everywhere with smiles and courtesy and a desire to show the best. This is one oriental country where even in the back provinces a white man is welcomed and is safe. This is not due to American police control, for that, too, is in the hands of the Filipinos and even the command of the constabulary is expected to pass soon to them.

State of People Improved.

The Philippines of today are under the control of the public school generation started under American tutelage. The thousands of American school teachers sent out on American transports now have dwindled to hundreds, and even these feel that Filipino teachers are ready to take their places.

From the educational and political standpoint the work has had great results. The health and material well being of the people has been vastly improved. They have doubled in population. From the pagan tribes of the hills, who cherish beads found in burial grounds as something belonging to the gods, to the modern jazz age youth of the university, is a far cry, but the period has encompassed it, with all its mixture of the trivial and the enduring, the dross and the gold.

Manila still speaks of the life close to the soil, luuxuriant life, but hard to control. Bare arms and legs reveal powerful muscles, a lean fitness. Physically they seem closer to the Japanese than to the more indolent people of the southern Pacific isles.

Crowded Like Chinese.

They crowd together as the Chinese do, chickens, dogs, and children all mixed up in the gardens and living quarters of the poorer quarters, which sometimes abut in amazing contrast to the business section and new apartments. Rice paddies are close to the suburbs and the mouse colored water buffalo, or carabao, the work animal of the islands, wallow through the mud, guided by rope and nose ring.

There is little machinery used in agriculture and manufacturing is something left largely to the outside world. The children have a close affinity with the big, mild looking animals and stories are told of white men who have been driven to climb a tree by the menacing horns of the buffalo, only to have a 4 year old brown child lead the animal away and then climb on its back for a ride.

The workers are poor, but there are no great depths of poverty and destitution. The life of the city quickly melts into country and small village or barrio life and the imposing boulevard runs into the country road bordered by the nipa shacks of peasant life.

Built on Stilts.

These are built on stilts, and in groups. Underneath the house is room for animals, workshop, tools, perhaps a loom for weaving the gay cloth of the district. It is a cool and comfortable way to live in a tropical land.

In the city the most favored houses are of the Spanish type, many of them built close to the sidewalk, the interior around a courtyard of flowers and shade trees and the high rooms open to the wandering breezes.

In every barrio there is a schoolhouse, for the passion of the Filipinos is for education. The last census showed 7,486 elementary schools with an attendance of 1,097,978. There are not enough schools and Gov. Gen. Theodore Roosevelt recently inaugurated a system of double classes in districts where there is not enough room for all the children. Under this plan some go in the morning and the others in the afternoon.

Foreigners Control Business.

There are 27,000 teachers, the profession to which the greatest number of Filipinos has been attracted. Next to this come the lawyers, the budding young politicos and government employés. The government employs about 28,000 persons. Physicians and pharmacists come next. There is little in the way of professional attainments to which the Filipinos do not aspire. They are on the Supreme court, heads of hospitals, teachers and leaders in sciences.

The big business establishments are still in the hands of foreigners, for the Filipino has not emerged yet as capitalist, industrialist, and developer of his country. He is also behind in the arts.

The lack of business initiative is explained by some observers as due to the centuries of training in the attitude that the spiritual life must be had at the sacrifice of striving for material wealth. It was the creed of the poor and simple man tilling his soil, supposed to be the antithesis of the American creed. Today this same poor man is working to educate his sons beyond the necessity of manual toil, and the work on the land has grown to be regarded as ignoble.

An educational effort is being directed against this attitude now from university quarters, where more emphasis is being placed on training for agriculture and engineering and the training of lawyers and doctors is being limited. There are too many dentists, for instance, and not enough men who know how to get the most out of the soil.

This is one country where one hears little of depression, except from the legislators who are forced to trim their budget. Driving along the country roads the temper of life is cheerful and prosperous. There has been a vast increase in the rice acreage during recent years, and the sight of men and women working together in the fields, the rhythm of their motion marked by song, their bright colored clothes making a rich contrast with the vivid green of the young crops, is a memorable one.

Women do their family washing in the wayside streams as of old. The barrios under the deep shade of acacias and mangos are scenes of peaceful and happy life. The rice crop may be small, but one can always borrow. Life has elasticity greater than in the colder countries, or in a people more rigid in their social classes. Here the city dweller may lose his job or income and step back to the life of the field and the village with hardly a ripple of surprise. Fish and rice are the main articles of diet.

City Life Is Simpler.

Life is more simple, too, among the middle class in the cities. They do not need roast beef, expensive woolen clothes, cocktails and heated houses. They have become hard workers because they want to show their white brothers that they are capable of great things. They drink lightly and the home is still the center of life.

And in the home the woman, wife or mother, is supreme. The Filipino custom of the children kissing the hands of their parents and elder brother at bedtime still survives. The women are the financial managers and their advice is sought and followed in most affairs. They run most of the little stores in the villages and are active leaders in the city in social and professional work, even in medicine.

It is but a matter of a few years when they will be given the vote, in all probability, and their influence will be felt in all the political evolution of the islands.

LONDON GOSSIP SEES U. S. FIXED FOR MORATORIUM

[Copyright: 1932: By the New York Times.]

LONDON, Sept. 11. — There is a widespread impression in London tonight that the British government has received assurance from Washington, D. C., that a moratorium on war debts will be granted before Dec. 15 if Great Britain keeps quiet on the subject until after the November elections.

The British, it is reported, have agreed not to embarrass President Hoover's administration during the election campaign, and so far are loyally carrying out their undertaking. In return they are relying on winning a postponement of their next war debt payment some time before it becomes due on Dec. 15. The impression is so strong it amounts to conviction in many informed quarters and there are many reasons for believing it is correct.

While officials are careful to issue no statement one way or the other there is nothing but confirmation on all sides of the fact that the British are not going to ask a partial postponement of next December's payment before Thursday, when the time limit expires.

GOVERNORS ASK FEDERAL LOANS TO AID FARMERS

Picketing Is Resumed on Iowa Highways.

Sioux City, Ia., Sept. 11.—[Special.]—Representatives of nine central west states meeting here today outlined a proposed federal program for financial aid to farmers. Among other things they proposed tariff revision to protect farm products, "sound" expansion of currency, Reconstruction Finance corporation loans to farmers, a moratorium on farm mortgage foreclosures and crop surplus control legislation.

The conference was called as a result of the farmers' holiday strike which assumed its greatest proportions in Iowa and Nebraska. The governors of North and South Dakota, Iowa and Minnesota, and representatives of the governors of Nebraska, Wyoming, Ohio, Oklahoma and Wisconsin attended.

Picketing Is Resumed.

While the conference was in session today picketing of all Iowa highways leading into Sioux City was resumed, with the result that no farm produce of any kind was entering the city.

Picketing of Nebraska highways leading into this city will be resumed Sept. 20, J. F. Kriege of South Sioux City, Neb., acting president of the Farmers' Holiday association in Nebraska, declared. All Nebraska market centers also will be blockaded, he said.

The highway picketing has been attended by acts of violence on a number of Iowa and Nebraska highways and has waxed and waned in intensity at intervals.

Tariff Revision Urged.

The report adopted by the governors said:

"1. We recommend to the President and the congress of the United States that the tariff system be revised to give equality of protection to agricultural products and to lessen the burden of foreign competition with our farm products including fats and oils.

"2. A sound expansion of the currency, which will do justice between debtor and creditor and enhance commodity prices.

"3. That the national agricultural credit system be reorganized so as to refinance the American farmer at a lower rate of interest.

"4. That the Reconstruction Finance corporation immediately extend its credit facilities to the American farmer.

Surplus Control Legislation.

"5. Surplus control legislation to elevate the domestic price level of agricultural products.

"6. That the President of the United States of America forthwith direct all federal administrative officers in charge of the department of agriculture, federal reserve banks, federal farm land banks, federal intermediate credit banks, national banks and all other federal controlled credit agencies to refrain from foreclosure of mortgages on farm property until congress assembles to act upon the matter. That the President then recommend to the congress of the United States that it authorize and direct all the federal officers and agencies above referred to, to refrain from foreclosures on farm property for a period of one year or until an effective plan may be worked out so that during this period of extremely depressed farm prices the property of farmers who have an equity in it may be preserved to them. That a copy of this recommendation be forthwith forwarded to the President of the United States of America.

Ask Seed Loans Moratorium.

"We further recommend:

"1. That the United States department of agriculture refrain from any attempts to collect the feed and seed loans during this emergency period and until such time as the farmers' income can be restored to a basis that will enable him to pay. That a copy of this recommendation be forthwith forwarded to the secretary of agriculture of the United States of America.

"2. That the owners of mortgages on farm property refrain during this emergency period from foreclosure or eviction proceedings against distressed farmers for nonpayment of interest or taxes, unless the farmer fails or refuses to pay what is equal to a landlord's share of the produce of the farm. In the event that such owners of farm mortgages fail to extend reasonable leniency to distressed farmers, we recommend appropriate state legislation for their protection be enacted.

"We have been urged to place an embargo on the shipment of farm produce out of the states here represented. There is no legal precedent to sustain the attempted power of an embargo on food products by the governor or legislature of a state, for the purpose of raising the price thereof."

KANE COUNTY MAY TRIM SALARIES AN AVERAGE OF 14½ PCT.

An offer by elected officials of Kane county to take a 10 per cent cut in salaries has been rejected by the finance committee of the Kane county board of supervisors. This was disclosed yesterday by L. C. Clyne, chairman of the committee. He said the committee feels the officials should take a larger cut to meet the 20 per cent reduction in 1932 real estate assessments recently granted by the board of review.

The recommendation of the committee will be presented at a meeting of the board tomorrow. The board is expected to adopt a retrenchment program including reduction of operating expenses of all departments and salary cuts averaging 14½ per cent. Cuts are to be made on a sliding scale according to salary, the largest at 17½ per cent. Few salaries below $100 a month are to be reduced.

The officials who volunteered to take the 10 per cent cut are: County Treasurer L. L. Urch, County Clerk Charles Lowry, Circuit Court Clerk Charles Farmlee, Recorder Charles Doetschman, Sheriff Harry Crawford, Auditor George Chapman, Probate Court Clerk Bert Galbraith, County Judge Olney Allen and County Superintendent of Schools E. E. McCoy.

BERN'S NOTES TO MISS MILLETTE FOUND IN A BAG

One Contains Pledge to Supply Funds.

San Francisco, Cal., Sept. 11.—(AP)—The Examiner said today it had located a handbag belonging to Miss Dorothy Millette, the missing "other woman" in the life of Paul Bern, film executive who committed suicide and that the bag contained letters from Bern.

The letters, facsimilies of which were published by the newspaper, spoke of Miss Millette's plans for leaving New York for San Francisco and of a financial arrangement involving Bern and Miss Millette.

Missives Found in Trunk.

The Examiner said the letters were found while police were searching a trunk left by Miss Millette in a San Francisco hotel just before she left suddenly and vanished on a Sacramento bound river steamer in the early hours of Sept. 7, after Bern had committed suicide in Hollywood.

The trunk contained an expensive wardrobe and toilet articles, but police said there was nothing that would throw a direct light on the motive for the suicide.

However, on a writing pad in Miss Millette's effects was a single word "justification," in reverse, as if made by blotting.

Whether this word was part of a note that might help to clear the mystery of why Bern should kill himself two months after his marriage to Jean Harlow, screen star, still was not apparent.

Refers to Trip West.

One letter, dated March 29, 1932, addressed to Miss Millette at the Algonquin hotel, New York City, said:

"Dear Dorothy:

"I was very happy to get your letter of March 17.

"I have been desperately trying to get away from here for both vacation and change of scene for the last year, but so far it has been quite impossible.

"I read with great interest that you are contemplating a trip to San Francisco. Of course I cannot give you any advice because you yourself can be the only person to know what is best. If you do go I hope that it will be a happy change.

"I understand that the Plaza hotel [where the baggage was left] is a fairly reasonable and attractive one.

"If you do change to any other place we will find some way of supplying you with funds in a manner convenient for you.

"My love and best wishes always.

"PAUL."

"P. S.—The Clift hotel is, I believe, quite fashionable and not very expensive."

One from Secretary.

A letter signed with the name of Irene Harrison, Bern's secretary, indicated the producer had a definite financial arrangement with Miss Millette.

The letter, also on Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer stationery, and addressed to Miss Millette at the Plaza hotel here, follows:

"Dear Miss Millette:

"According to the arrangements agreed upon, I am enclosing a money order for one hundred and sixty dollars, due on May 14.

"Mr. Bern has already left on his vacation, but I am at the office in the meantime, and if I can help you in any way at any time, please don't hesitate to ask me.

"I hope you are comfortably and happily settled in your new home.

"Sincerely yours,

"IRENE HARRISON,

"Secretary to Mr. Bern."

Wardrobe Expensive One.

Contents of the trunk opened by police indicated Miss Millette was accustomed to supplying herself from the finest dress and lingerie shops.

Gowns, suits and shoes had been purchased in the most exclusive shops of New York and San Francisco. A dozen pairs of handmade shoes, heavy silk and satin pajamas and other apparel were found.

The handbag, bearing a few letters, receipted bills and the writing pad containing the single word, was found at a San Francisco checking station. It apparently was left there just before Miss Millette left aboard the steamer Delta King for Sacramento.

The following morning a watchman aboard the craft found Miss Millette's shoes and coat on the observation deck. In her stateroom were her hat, a handbag and a purse.

Whether she plunged to death in the river or made her way ashore unobserved when the vessel made stops has not been ascertained. Police have been watching the river for possible recovery of the body.

Still Silent on Motive.

Hollywood, Cal., Sept. 11.—[Special.]—Henry Bern held a two hour conference with Jean Harlow, film star widow of his dead brother, today but their exchange of confidences left them still too far from a common ground in their views on Paul Bern's self-inflicted death for either to issue a statement.

At the conclusion of their conference at the home of Miss Harlow's parents, where she has been ill since her husband committed suicide a week ago, Henry Bern walked out the front door past a group waiting to talk to him, and said, simply:

Has Nothing to Say.

"I have nothing I wish to say at this time."

Asked if his silence indicated a conflict of views with the 21 year old widow of the self-slain film executive, Bern declined to comment. He likewise refused to state whether the survivors in Bern's immediate family, himself and his sister, Mrs. William Marcus of Los Angeles, were preparing to lodge claims to inheritance from Paul Bern's moderately wealthy estate, as had been reported here.

No steps will be taken regarding Paul Bern's Los Angeles will, it was said, until the instrument is removed from the dead man's unopened safety deposit box on Tuesday or Wednesday.

Marino Bello, Miss Harlow's stepfather, attended the conference, but confined himself to a listener's rôle, it was reported.

FALLEN LEADERS OF ITALY FIGHT SCANDAL MONGER

Whispering Campaign Hits Ousted Fascist Chiefs.

BY DAVID DARRAH.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

ROME, Sept. 11.—The recent changes, somewhat excessive in scope, of personalities in Benito Mussolini's government and in the fascist hierarchy, both centrally and locally, have been followed throughout Italy by a "whispering campaign" to blacken the character of those who lost their jobs. The fascist press is deprecating and characterizing the campaign as "cannibalism."

According to the press, as soon as one of the fascist leaders falls from the pedestal he is subjected to ruthless verbal assaults and besmirching criticism.

"This is supremely immoral," one Roman newspapers said today. "Those who criticize leaders who fall with military honors will end by besmirching the entire fascist régime, because its enemies make no distinction between fascism and the men identified with it."

Aim Attacks at Leaders.

It was indicated that the "cannibalism" has been practiced chiefly in the provinces and locally. It also appears to have been directed most ferociously against a few of the recently discharged men who once were powers in the central party organization.

"The voices of the piazza" have been especially truculent against the recently removed minister of corporations, Giuseppe Bottai. Rumors were circulated about an investigation of his department and directorate. With equal truculence they were directed against the former party secretary, Augusto Turati, who for the last two years has been director of the Turin newspaper Stampa until he was precipitately removed a month ago. He was party secretary and Mussolini's right hand man for five years until 1930.

Charges of immorality were leveled against him and an official communique even announced that he had been committed to a hospital for mental disorders. Now it appears that this was in complete error and that Turati is only confined to live in and not leave a pleasant watering place in the Mediterranean.

Chieftains Getting Even.

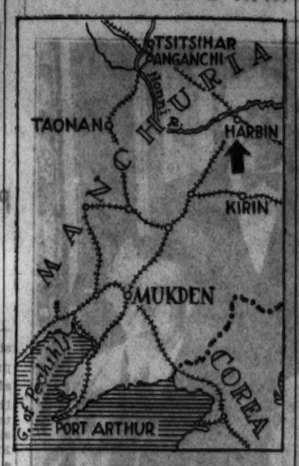
To the man in the street, the general impression is that rival chieftains are getting even. On the other hand those who deplore the "political cannibalism" and its perniciousness assert that there is nothing unusual in the shifting of personnel and "rotation of the guard."

"If a party leader were removed from his post for unworthy actions he would be immediately subject to the rigors of the law," says the Facist newspaper Cronica Pre-Alpina, doubtless referring to several articles attacking Turati. "It is not permissible that eternal malcontents should attack him with anonymous verifications of unprovable charges when he has acted in good faith.

"Changing the guard of ministers and of Fascist confederations is merely a secondary act of administration. Men pass but the revolution continues.

"When the hour sounds, members of the hierarchy must be ready to retire without complaint, happy to have served Il Duce who alone is irreplaceable. But when chistains leave posts of command they ought not to be persecuted like criminals."

TRAIN DERAILED



Arrow points to approximate spot where more than 100 were killed and injured when bandits wrecked the Changchun-Harbin train 40 miles southwest of Harbin.

BANDITS DERAIL HARBIN TRAIN; 100 KILLED AND HURT

Kidnap Some Survivors; Rob 600 Others.

HARBIN, Manchukuo, Sept. 11.—(AP)—More than 100 persons were reported killed or injured, about 600 robbed, and an unknown number kidnaped when bandits derailed the regular Changchun-Harbin train last night near Situn, forty miles southwest of here. Doctors, nurses, and first aid supplies were rushed from Harbin today to the scene of the wreck. The train left Changchun at 8:34 p. m. yesterday.

Henry Hilgard Villard, son of Oswald Villard, editor of the Nation, New York magazine, was a passenger, but escaped unscathed and today reported his safety at Changchun. He was on his way to college in England, traveling by way of Moscow.

Plunges Down Embankment.

Authorities, rushing aid to the train, found a section of rails had been removed. The locomotive and the first six passenger coaches smashed into the wrecked section of tracks, afterwards crashing down a steep embankment.

The accident is believed to be the worst in the history of the railroad.

After derailing the train, bandits captured many of the survivors of the wreck and looted from the passengers and the train. The passengers who were captured were reported to have been removed from the scene by the bandits.

Attack Consul on Golf Links.

Another bandit band attacked George C. Hanson, United States consul here, with a party of American and British on the local golf course and to have seriously wounded two of the British. Five brigands with drawn revolvers attacked the golfers, who fought them off with clubs. The wounded were a Mr. Melish, bank manager of Shanghai and Hong Kong, and his assistant, Mr. Nansei.

The bandits fled in a waiting automobile. The British consul general has taken up the matter vigorously with Japanese advisors of the native police.

Tibet in Arms for Freedom.

[Copyright: 1932: By the New York Times.]

TOKIO, Sept. 11.—Tibetan forces, mobilized with British assistance, tonight are advancing on Yunnan and Kokonor with the object of declaring independence of Greater Tibet, according to Asahi's correspondent at Peiping. Half of Kokonor, it is reported, is already occupied. As Kokonor has always been Tibetan territory, the accuracy of the report is questionable.

PROBES 'JOKER' IN I. C. TRACK DEPRESSION LAW

Ald. Barnet Hodes [7th] revealed yesterday that for a month he has been conducting an investigation to determine who nearly nullified a city ordinance which he was instrumental in having the city council approve. The ordinance is one requiring the Illinois Central railroad to depress its suburban tracks in 71st street and Exchange avenue.

The depression of these tracks has been sought by aldermen from the 7th ward for several years. After taking office in April, 1931, Ald Hodes succeeded in having an ordinance approved by the council on July 28 of this year.

As approved the ordinance contained a paragraph stating that it would be void within 60 days unless the Illinois Central officials agreed to do the work.

The ordinance was several pages long, and this paragraph escaped the attention of Ald. Hodes at the time, he said. Other interested parties, however, caught the provision and at the meeting of Aug. 4 the "joker" paragraph was deleted.

"I do not understand how that provision could have been written into the ordinance," said Ald Hodes. "There is no doubt that the joker was inserted to make the ordinance an idle gesture."

ROBBERS LOOT HOTEL SAFE.

4 NATIONALITIES IN CHICAGO AREA HOLD FESTIVALS

Thousands of persons of Italian descent in Chicago and suburbs gathered yesterday to celebrate Italian day at La Follette park, Laramie avenue and Hirsch street. The event was sponsored by the Italian Field Day association and John Dolce, president of the association, was in charge of the arrangements.

Norwegians participated in a program on the Navy pier to celebrate their annual Leif Ericson day. The festival, which started at 2 p. m. and continued until midnight, included aquatic sports, folk dancing, speeches, and the annual Viking ball. Members of yacht clubs and the naval reserve in Chicago participated.

The Swedish National Society of Chicago, assisted by other Swedish organizations, presented an historical pageant in Wrigley field in commemoration of the tricentennial of King Gustavus Adolphus of Sweden and the bicentennial of George Washington. More than 1,000 persons took part.

2 Are Killed, 3 Injured When Ambulances Crash

Los Angeles, Cal., Sept. 11.—[Special.]—Two were killed and three injured when two Los Angeles police ambulances crashed today. Both drivers sought to swerve to avoid a bewildered motorist caught between them. Dr. Daniel Burgerson, 38, police surgeon, and Mrs. Elizabeth Weatherhead, 58, a spectator, were killed. The injured are Arthur Thorup, police driver; Robert Tayne, police driver, and Dr. L. L. Fisk, police surgeon.

CHRYSLER HEADS VICTORY FUND OF CRUSADERS

New York, Sept. 11.—(AP)—Walter P. Chrysler, automobile manufacturer, announced today he had accepted the general chairmanship of the Crusaders' victory fund campaign in New York City because he believed prohibition was a "failure." The Crusaders are an anti-prohibition organization.

Mr. Chrysler said he had accepted the post at the invitation of Fred G. Clark of Cleveland, commander in chief of the Crusaders, and that this organization appeared to be an "effective" medium for altering the prohibition laws.

"I feel that it is an opportunity to give a service in behalf of temperance," he said. "For many years, both before and after the eighteenth amendment, I favored prohibition. It is clear that prohibition is a failure. It has done the nation more harm than good. Prohibition is doomed, but we must seal that doom as quickly as possible."

SON, WOUNDED BY FATHER, HELD ON ROBBERY CHARGE

John Patrick, 26 years old, 1130 South Whipple street, was shot and seriously wounded by his father, Morris Patrick, during a quarrel last Wednesday in their home. Yesterday, as he lay in the county hospital, young Patrick was identified as a robber by Iver M. Hanson, 802 South Oak Park avenue, Oak Park.

According to Hanson, Patrick was one of four men who forced his automobile to the curb at Harrison street and Home avenue on July 1. The robbery was frustrated by the approach of two policemen, who pursued the bandits and captured two of them, Frank Bigman and Frank Fleming.

Charges of attempted robbery and assault to kill were placed against the wounded Patrick, who has a previous police record. His father, who is a custodian in the office of the Municipal court bailiff, is under arrest for the shooting.

Kills Son of Landlord After Quarrel Over Rent

Detroit, Mich., Sept. 11.—(AP)—As the tragic climax of a quarrel over unpaid rent, Mrs. Ada McCune shot and killed Edward Saharuk, 12 year old son of her landlord, today, the shotgun charge also wounding the slain boy's 17 year old brother, John. Authorities exonerated Mrs. McCune who, they said, had believed her life in danger when the elder brother began firing a toy pistol, loaded with blank cartridges, outside the house.

HORNER TO TELL HIS POLICIES IN SPEECH TONIGHT

Judge Will Invade G. O. P. Camp at Rockford.

Choosing enemy territory for his first assault on the reign of Republicanism in Illinois, Judge Henry Horner, Democratic candidate for governor, will open his speechmaking campaign in Rockford tonight.

Most of the major recommendations which Judge Horner would put into effect as governor, and which he will expand in the next five weeks of intensive downstate campaigning, will be presented to the voters of northern Illinois in the first address. His appearance in Rockford will mark the first occasion in years that a Democratic nominee for head of the state government has felt so certain of victory as to begin his tour in G. O. P. territory.

Judge Horner's speech will be broadcast and his Democratic adherents in the region have made arrangements to accommodate a crowd of unusual proportions.

A Champion of Economy.

A champion of reduction in the costs of government and of prohibition repeal since his entrance into the primary race last spring, the nominee is expected to amplify former pronouncements on these issues, as well as to give his plan for the future conduct of the state.

Judge Horner's advisers have purposely routed him through northern Illinois for the first week. Straw votes tell them, they say, that sympathy with the Democratic cause, and particularly the Horner candidacy, is growing stronger daily, even in this Republican area.

The chances of winning this section for the entire state and national ticket will be enhanced if opportunity is afforded the voters to be the first to hear Judge Horner's platform, the Democratic managers believe.

Party to Tour State.

The Rockford address inaugurates a tour which will carry Judge Horner and his traveling companions—John C. Martin of Salem, candidate for state treasurer, and Martin A. Brennan of Bloomington, candidate for congressman at large—into virtually every county in the state before its conclusion on Oct. 23.

Tomorrow the Horner party will visit Oregon, Dixon, and Sterling; on Wednesday they will be at Galena and Freeport; on Thursday at Mendota and La Salle; on Friday at Geneseo and Moline, and on Saturday at Monmouth and Galesburg.

Next Sunday will see the judge back in Chicago to participate in the Democratic picnic and rally at Riverview park.

FARMER KILLS HIMSELF.

James Finley, 42 years old, killed himself yesterday with a shotgun on his farm a mile east of Antioch in Lake county. He had been worrying over ill health and poor crops, relatives said.

HENRY BONNEMA CHOSEN HEAD OF WRIGHT CAMPAIGN

Henry W. Bonnema, it was announced yesterday, will be Cook county campaign manager for Harry G. Wright of De Kalb, Republican nominee for state auditor. He is secretary of the Allied Bank Depositors' committee and secretary of the 18th Ward Regular Republican club.

"The thousands of depositors in closed banks," said Bonnema, "are vitally interested in the election of the next state auditor. The amount we will receive from our deposits depends entirely upon the manner in which the state auditor liquidates these banks. We are already assured of the support of many depositor organizations throughout the state, regardless of party lines."

Mr. Bonnema will be in charge of the Wright headquarters in the Morrison hotel adjoining those of Len Small and the other Republican candidates.

POMERENE TURNS DOWN INVITATION FROM ASSEMBLY

Can't Leave Washington, R. F. C. Head Says.

With the general assembly meeting tomorrow morning for the second week of its special session, the legislators will depart for Springfield again this afternoon and evening still at sea as to methods of raising the $36,673,000 which the emergency relief commission says it will need for disbursement durthe approaching winter.

Hope that Atlee Pomerene, chairman of the board of the Reconstruction Finance corporation, would be able to dispel some of the confusion surrounding the relief situation by explaining the loan policies of the federal corporation to the legislators in person was given up last evening. Washington dispatches said Mr. Pomerene, who had been invited to address the session tomorrow, would not appear.

Unable to Leave Work.

The dispatches quoted Chairman Pomerene as saying that he "appreciates the compliment" conveyed by the invitation and "regrets very much that he finds it utterly impossible" to leave his work in Washington. His formal letter declining the invitation will be dispatched today, it was said.

Even before the receipt of this information there was said to be an inclination among Chicago legislators particularly to hold off on definite action on relief measures until the situation has been surveyed by the committee on state and municipal revenue of the Chicago Association of Commerce.

The committee is to begin its task today, but its report will not be made public at least until after a meeting of the executive committee next Friday.

Under these conditions the pessimism that prevailed at Springfield last week began to take on a new form. This time it was a belief that the extraordinary session will drag out beyond Oct. 1, the date announced by the relief commission as the time when its present funds will be exhausted.

While there is a slight possibility that this week's sitting of the assembly may be extended to Friday, it is considered probable that it will not go beyond Thursday. And next week will be an idle one because all available hotel space in Springfield for that period has been reserved for the annual convention of the G. A. R.

Fear Further Delay.

This delay will carry the session up to the last week in September and there is a fear that final action on measures for new revenue cannot be had during that week. Such subjects as the sales tax are controversial and, even if eventually a two-thirds support may be accumulated for such a measure, that is not considered at all likely during the few days of this week's sitting and the few days of the final week of the month.

There is a much more hopeful prospect for the housing commission bills sponsored in the senate by Senator James J. Barbour of Evanston and in the house by Minority Leader Michael L. Igoe of Chicago. There is still some doubt about the repeal or revision of the N. S. F. check law.

G. O. P. WOMEN'S CAMPAIGN BOOK IS OFF THE PRESS

A presidential campaign manual prepared for women by women is off the press. It will be distributed on behalf of the candidacy of President Hoover by the women's division of the Republican party, under the direction of Mrs. Ellis A. Yost, from her section of national Republican headquarters in the Palmer house.

"The outstanding development among women in this campaign," Mrs. Yost asserted yesterday, "is that the feminine mind, heretofore intent upon social conditions, is concentrating on economic issues. All the literature being prepared by the women's division reflects this viewpoint.

"Whether the women be from the farm, the professions or the home, she wants to know how the tariff is affecting her own and her husband's income, what the Home Loan bank system will do for her, how the Reconstruction Finance corporation touches her. She is more interested in facts about government than in generalizations about social welfare."

RUSSIAN GRAIN FIGURES SLUMP; THRESHING DOWN

MOSCOW, Sept. 11.—(AP)—With the grain harvest still much behind the 1931 figures, the soviet government today faced the new problem of a poor threshing record, which, as of Sept. 5, amounted to 24,200,000 hectares. (A hectare is 2.47 acres.)

This was equivalent to only 36.3 per cent of the sown area, and 5,500,000 hectares less than on the same date last year.

The latest figures gave a total of 66,901,000 hectares harvested to Sept. 5, which was 31.3 per cent of the sown area. This compared with 74,400,000 hectares harvested last year.

New Economies and Improved Efficiency Have Sharply Lowered the Prices

All the best known patterns—Autumn, Ming, Florida, Evanston, Harwood, Mandarin, Colonial, Sheraton, Pekin and others of wide reputation—are now repriced at 10% to 30% less than their recent levels.

These new prices bring Lenox china within the reach of many more homes. The quality is absolutely the same that has made Lenox famous. Dinner plates are now as low as $30 a dozen.

Guess We Started Something With Our Draped Suits

When we offered, a year ago, the first draped suit, ready-to-wear, we felt that a good many men—young men particularly—would understand it; and would welcome the chance to buy that kind of a suit at ready-to-wear prices. But we had no idea that the whole clothing industry would seize it with such glad acclaim as the indispensable "new idea." Now many of the best manufacturers are making and pushing "London Drape" suits. You'll see a lot of their advertising this fall.

However, we have examined a great many of these suits, and it is our sincere conviction that our own Deerpath model is the most successful ready-to-wear drape suit there is—because we have been making and selling them for a whole year—and have been able to improve and refine them as a result of an unequaled experience.

So—see all the Drape Suits, if you like—but try on ours before you buy.

NATION WATCHES MAINE ELECTION OUTCOME TODAY

two parties there is an intensely practical reason for the outlay of funds on efforts to influence the Maine barometer. If a result can be procured in Maine lending itself to interpretation favorable to the success of the party in the presidential election the forecast of victory in November can be exploited to great effect in influencing "band wagon jumpers" and others whose chief interest is to get on the winning side.

Once Democratic State.

Prior to 1840 Maine had been consistently Democratic and the Whigs in the state election that year entertained no hope of success. To their great surprise their candidate for governor, Edward Kent, was elected. They promptly proclaimed the overturn in Maine a forecast of an overturn in the nation at large in the ensuing presidential election. Whig rallies resounded with the song:

O, have you heard how Old Maine went?
She went hell bent for Gov. Kent
And Tippecanoe and Tyler, too!

And, sure enough, in November Tippecanoe and Tyler, too, the Whig ticket, were elected, carrying 19 out of 26 states. That established the prophecy: "As goes Maine, so goes the Union."

The prophecy has been fulfilled to the extent that in 16 out of the 23 quadrennial elections since 1840 the party electing a governor in Maine elected the President two months later. Mr. Robinson in his brochure says this merely is "a reflection of the fact that both Maine and the United States have been predominantly Republican since 1856." He points out that 18 of the 19 Maine governors elected in presidential years and 14 of the 19 Presidents were Republicans.

To demonstrate that Maine is an unreliable barometer Mr. Robinson presents a table comparing plurality percentages in the Maine and national elections, a method which eliminates the factor due to fluctuations in the total vote cast. He also excludes years in which either party was split in state or nation. The table follows (R. signifying Republican, D. Democrat):

PLURALITY PER 100 VOTES CAST FOR GOVERNOR IN MAINE AND FOR PRESIDENT IN THE UNITED STATES.

Year.	Governor.	President.
1856	Noncomparable
1860	Noncomparable
1864	R. 17	R. 10
1868	R. 15	R. 3
1872	R. 13	R. 12
1876	R. 11	D. 3
1880	Noncomparable
1884	R. 14	D. 1
1888	R. 12	D. 1
1892	R. 10	D. 3
1896	R. 39	R. 4
1900	R. 28	R. 6
1904	R. 20	R. 19
1908	R. 5	R. 9
1912	Noncomparable	D. 3
1916	R. 9	R. 23
1920	R. 32
1928	R. 39	R. 17

This table, Mr. Robinson says, demonstrates the "lack of correlation between the size of the Maine gubernatorial margins and presidential pluralities in the nation." The barometer, he adds, is not consistent, oftentimes promising rain when there was snow and sun when there were clouds."

GEORGIA VOTES WEDNESDAY

Atlanta, Ga., Sept. 11.—[Special.]—Georgia voters will go to the polls on Wednesday in one of the most momentous primary elections in the state in a decade.

With the race for the United States senate between Gov. Richard B. Russell Jr. and Congressman Charles R. Crisp holding chief interest, the selection of a governor and of candidates to fill sixteen other state offices, will be made. In addition, the ballot, one of the largest in the state's history, includes candidates for ten congressional posts.

United States Senator Walter F. George is unopposed for renomination, which is equivalent to election in Georgia.

Candidates Assail Each Other.

The campaign between Gov. Russell and Mr. Crisp for the senate seat, made vacant by the death of Senator William J. Harris, has been one of the bitterest in the annals of state politics.

Mr. Crisp and Gov. Russell have vigorously assailed each others records, and charges and countercharges of misrepresentations, false statements, and abuse have emanated.

FEWER BOMBINGS THIS YEAR BUT DAMAGE MOUNTS

A decrease in the number of bombs thrown and an increase in the average amount of damage is noted in the report of the Chicago Employers' association for the first nine months of 1932 as compared with a corresponding period in 1931. The last year also saw a radical change in the type of places bombed. Prohibition bombings, for the first time in a ten year period, fell to a negligible number.

So far this year there have been 79 bombs placed as compared to 109 during the first ten months of 1931. The average damage last year amounted to $950 as compared with an average of $1,420 this year. If the present average is maintained for the balance of the year 1932 will not be extraordinary in either the number of bombs placed nor the amount of damage caused.

The largest single classification of bombs placed during the first nine months of this year was in the cleaning and dyeing industry, with six dynamite or black powder bombs. There were but five prohibition bombings this year compared to ten in 1931. Only two bombs have been directed at theaters this year compared to fifteen last year during the motion picture operators' strike.

SAVES PAWNSHOP FROM ROBBERY.

Jacob Bloom, proprietor of the New York Loan bank, 349 South State street, saved his pawnshop from robbery yesterday when he grappled with a lone bandit who attempted to hold up the place. After he had knocked one gun from the robber's hand, the man drew a second and knocked him over the head, but fled when Bloom yelled for help.

BOSTON REPORTS SMITH TO SPEAK FOR ROOSEVELT

New York, Sept. 11.—[Special.]—Reports from Boston of an announcement there that former Gov. Alfred E. Smith would speak for the Roosevelt-Garner ticket in Boston in October were met with diplomatic denials by the friends of the former governor here today.

The Boston report, published in the Sunday Advertiser, attributed the announcement to De Witt C. De Wolf, secretary to Gov. Joseph B. Ely of Massachusetts, one of the most enthusiastic Smith supporters at the Chicago convention.

In informed quarters here today the announcement of the Boston speech was received with credence, despite the denials, because of the belief that if Mr. Smith is going to speak for the Roosevelt-Garner ticket at all, the place where it will do the most good is Boston, and Massachusetts generally.

Weather Cool, President Skips Mountain Retreat

Washington, D. C., Sept. 11.—(AP)—For almost the first time this summer President and Mrs. Hoover made the White House their week-end residence. Because of the comparative coolness of the weather here, the President decided against his customary week-end trip to his Blue Ridge mountain retreat. Both the chief executive and first lady this morning attended the small gray stone Quaker church near Connecticut avenue.

GOV. ROOSEVELT READY TO START WESTERN JAUNT

Plans to Study Conditions in Various States.

BY JOHN BOETTIGER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Hyde Park, N. Y., Sept. 11.—[Special.]—Except for the few last minute duties he will wind up tomorrow, Gov. Roosevelt was fully primed tonight for his extensive foray after the votes of western America.

The governor declared that his 8,900 mile journey through twenty-two states on which he will depart from Albany tomorrow night, has a double barrelled purpose, with each purpose considered by him equally vital.

"Of course," he said, "I am going to carry my ideas personally to the country, and I intend to discuss the issues of the campaign frankly and fully. I also expect to talk over the details of the campaigns in the various states with the local leaders. In this sense, my journey into the west is political.

Wants to Know Facts.

"But of equal importance is my determination to make a thorough study of conditions in every part of the nation at which we stop. I want to know the facts as they are known to the best informed citizens everywhere. We who have studied intensely this economic problem, have our definite ideas as to what are its causes, results and most of us have practical proposals for relief. But the broader our knowledge on the question, the better we will be able to cope with it and to make certain that our remedies will suit the needs of the entire country."

The governor has not yet fully completed his speech on agriculture, which is the first major speech he is to make on his western tour and which is to be delivered at Topeka next Wednesday. An endless stream of visitors filtered through the governor's study at his home here, many of them bearing burdens of purely local conditions affecting Dutchess county, in which the governor has never lost interest or ever failed to give his advice and help.

Cummings Among Callers.

Former Senator Homer Cummings of Connecticut, once chairman of the Democratic national committee, conferred with the governor on the New England situation. He said it would be foolhardy to make definite claims that the Democrats will capture his own state, but he was confident that the citizens all over the country are demanding a change, and that this feeling may be strong enough to swing the voters even of the strongly Republican states like Connecticut, Vermont and Maine.

G. O. P. LAUNCHES A POSTAL POLL OF 'WHO'S WHO'

Republican national headquarters, through Henry J. Allen, director of publicity, has begun a postal poll of men and women whose names appear in "Who's Who in America," express their preference in the presidential contest.

HENRY J. ALLEN.

Inclosed in letters signed by Mr. Allen, former Kansas governor, is a postcard—bearing no mark of identification and not requesting a signature—containing the names of Herbert Hoover and Franklin D. Roosevelt and a blank line for a possible third choice. The voter also is requested to tell which party he supported in the election of 1928.

"The seriousness of the situation surrounding the coming presidential election," reads the form letter signed by former Gov. Allen, "makes it important that the well informed and thoughtful men and women of our country express their views upon the issues and candidates to direct the thought and action of the great numbers of people who look to them for advice and counsel."

"The newspaper is an institution developed by modern civilization to present the news of the day, to foster commerce and industry, to inform and mold public opinion, and to furnish that check upon government which no constitution has ever been able to provide."

FOR BETTER JUDICIAL SELECTION.

No candidate habitually associated with the defense of gangsters in our courts should be considered for nomination to any judicial office. All persons charged with offenses against the law are entitled to legal counsel, but it does not follow that this professional activity qualifies the practitioner for the bench. The public has had too much of the professional criminal lawyer of the modern variety and knows by this time that, whatever exceptions may exist, the unscrupulous tactics resorted to persistently by lawyers who make a business of serving professional criminals and undesirables are a serious obstruction to justice, and no lawyer with associations or affiliations with the world of moneyed vice or crime can be nominated by any party convention without stultifying the party. The ramifications of big gangster influence in politics are a subject of very serious consideration in this community and much more should be known of them. They are well covered, but the judiciary should be especially guarded from their invasion.

Every judicial primary and election emphasizes, we think, the need for better methods of judicial selection. The recent annual meeting of the American Judicature society tackled the problem and the discussion disclosed differences as to the best methods of selection, but none of importance as to the need for improvement. Space is not here available for discussion of these general views, but it is to be hoped that the interest shown will infect the legal profession in Illinois and move it to energetic effort for well considered legislation. Politics and professional Bourbonism will resist, but they can be overcome if the bar and press have a proper sense of responsibility.

Meanwhile we suggest that some attention be given the views on judicial selection reached by a commission formed in Georgia to draft a new constitution. On the subject of judicial selection, the chairman said that Georgia had tried election by popular vote, election by the legislature, and appointment by the governor. The deliberate opinion of the committee is that whatever method is in force is the worst method, but that the method of selection by popular vote, now in force, is intolerable. The committee therefore proposes a return to appointment by the governor and confirmation of the legislature, but with special conditions. That is, the bar would select five men from whom the governor must select. This for the high court. The method for the District courts would be the same except that the district bar would name three from whom the governor would make selection.

We are not proposing this method for outright adoption in Illinois. But it is worthy of consideration along with other methods of escaping from our present system of almost unchecked political control under the fallacious guise of popular election. What we have first to realize is that popular election does not bring about popular choice. We share the wholesome instinct for keeping some popular control over the judiciary. But direct primaries and popular elections do not insure it or in practice result in it. Apart from the power exercised by bosses and political organizations in popular elections, laymen must acknowledge that they are not prepared to make wise selections in the field of judicial fitness. That is a job for the specialist in law. This is recognized in the establishment of the bar primary which in the main voters are disposed to accept as a guide. But bar primaries need to be greatly improved, and perhaps this leads us into the larger question of the improvement in the personnel of the legal profession. The bar primary at any rate is a step toward efficiency and responsibility in judicial selection.

The first need, we repeat, is a recognition that an unchecked general selection of judges is gravely unsatisfactory and that the best thought of the bar and the community should be devoted to a better method of selection. For the sake of preserving some popular control it has been suggested plausibly that appointment shall be for a reasonable term, whereupon the incumbent would submit to election by the voters. But to avoid the danger of irresponsible or undesirable competition it is proposed that he shall run not against other candidates but solely upon his record. That is, the voters would be limited to his retention or rejection. If defeated his place would be filled by appointment as in the first instance.

This is the plan proposed for Georgia and if adopted will be well worth watching. In the meantime we hope our legal fraternity will study the whole subject of judicial selection broadly and thoroughly and prepare definite proposals for public consideration at the earliest practicable time.

ORGANIZATION FOR PUBLIC ECONOMY.

Reports to General Chairman Rossetter of the Organization to Reduce Public Expenditure give encouraging evidence of the spread of the demand for government economy. Michigan, Tennessee, South Carolina, Alabama, and Florida are being actively organized. In Michigan 25 state organizations and 15 other important associations are in the movement. C. G. Gilbert of Nashville, Tenn., selected by farmers, business men and bankers to organize the state, has 163 organizations assisting him. Virtually every local chamber of commerce in Alabama is at work, and congressional candidates are being pledged on retrenchment. South Carolina is organizing on the county basis under Niels Christiansen, president of the Farmers and Taxpayers' league, and R. G. Grassfield, general manager of the Florida Chamber of Commerce, is directing a vigorous movement in that state.

Our readers are aware that we cherish no optimistic illusions as to the task of retrenchment, but reasons for encouragement are multiplying. The test is now effective organization. There is a general sentiment for public economy. The conditions of the depression have raised and invigorated it. To make it effectual against the resistance of political, bureaucratic and other special interests it must be definitely organized in every state and community for local, state and federal economy. Pressure must be concentrated upon the spending agencies, the pressure of definite political consequences.

The rapid spread of organization throughout the country promises early results and is one of the most heartening signs of the time. It represents the common sense of the American people and their capacity for working out their own major problems through their own initiative and voluntary coöperation. It should not only raise the incubus of inordinate taxation by forcing retrenchment upon all public agencies but arrest the growth of bureaucracy and paternalism and restore government to its proper place in the American system.

GOOD WORK AGAINST SPEED TRAPS.

State's Attorney Swanson is to be congratulated upon the effectiveness of his effort to break up speed traps. Mr. Hayes and Mr. Braun of the Chicago Motor club have taken an active part in this campaign and the results have been prompt and very satisfactory. Motorists will be grateful.

Unfortunately, reforms of this sort do not stay put. The local profits in speed traps and other inflictions of pretended regulation are a permanent temptation. They may be the chief source of revenue for a village strategically situated on a great highway. The state's attorney has broken up the most flagrant of these schemes in Cook county, but they or others like them will spring up as soon as pressure is relaxed. It will be necessary to maintain vigilance and discipline until extortion under guise of enforcement has been thoroughly discouraged.

SCOTT'S LAST POEM.

[New York Sun.]

Because this is the centenary year of Sir Walter Scott's death, readers of the Waverley novels and the poems of the border will welcome any new scrap of information about the author. A correspondent of the London Times submitted to that newspaper the manuscript of what, on account of the author's failing health, must have been Scott's last poem. It was written in Naples on April 15, 1832, only five months before Sir Walter's death. As a poem it is inconsiderable; there are devotees of Scott who will wish that the manuscript had never been found. But if it adds nothing to his stature as a poet it throws fresh light on his character.

On April 14, a hundred years ago, a persistent Russian woman, the Countess Wallendoff, accompanied the Rt. Hon. Henry Baillie and several other persons on a visit to Scott and his daughter, Anne, in their rooms at the Palazzo Caramanico. Countess Wallendoff begged Sir Walter to write some lines for her album; he sadly declined, on the plea that his writing days were over. On the following evening Baillie and other friends again visited the Scotts, whereupon Sir Walter sat down at his writing desk and after a few minutes' scribbling handed a page of manuscript to his daughter, saying, "These are for your Russian friend." The lines were these:

"Lady, they say thy Native land
Lives, like the Minstrel's northern clime,
More stern than this clime of fruits and flowers;
And Beauty's powers of Empery
Grow feeble mid decaying bowers;
And lips like thine a boon may ask
Too heavy for our frozen powers—
In vain weak mortals, says the text,
Seek grapes from briars or fruits from thorns,
And vain fair Wallendoff expects
Fruits from a withered northern thorn.

"Time once has been; but once o'er past,
Its date returns not now again;
The shadows on the dial cast
Proceed, but pass not back again,
Yet in this realm of softening [day],
Where April wears autumnal hues,
Loved visions can awake at times
And mingle with forgotten dreams
The image of an earlier day.

"The genial breath of waking day
Wakes the chill limbs and torpid hand;
And the Poor Bard attempts to show
What sparks remain in Life's decay.
Fashion, fair Dame, at thy command
A sample [of] my earlier hand."

Sir Walter's daughter, taking the verses and reading them, said: "Why, she left Naples this morning and I don't know her address—even if I did, they are much too good to be wasted on that tiresome Russian, who probably wouldn't understand them. Mr. Baillie, you can have them." It was then that she turned to her father and asked, "Why did you trouble about that old bore?" Sir Walter's answer was a noble one: "My dear, as I am good for nothing else now, I think it as well to be good natured!"

The uneasy, persistent Countess Wallendoff, so unflatteringly described by Sir Walter's daughter, by her presence in the Palazzo Caramanico on one evening and her absence the next gave Sir Walter the opportunity to say something fine and revealing, as the lines give to others the opportunity to see the compelling agony of a great writer with the shadows closing around him. The "Verses Written to the Countess Wallendoff" were penned on the eve of the sad journey back to Abbotsford, when Scott went home to die.

Though Lockhart, Scott's son-in-law and biographer, knew of the existence of these verses, he was unable to communicate with Baillie, then traveling in the east, and the lines did not appear in the famous biography.

PARROTS are awfully stupid and old fashioned after all. They are nothing like as imitative as they are generally supposed to be. This being a campaign year we expected yesterday to hear the parrot sitting out in front of a bird store to keep shouting: "No, sir, no! I don't want to lose my vote." Instead of that the silly bird just looked at us and croaked: "Polly wants a cracker."

NEW JERSEY is boosting a movement to get people everywhere to give up their expensive cars and ride bicycles. Yes, you save money on gas and the hitch-hikers don't wriggle their thumbs at you. And bicycles never try to beat the train to the crossing and do not stop in the middle of the road to pump up the left hind tire. However, they are given to propelling their car by standing up on their pedals with their heads thrown forward and quite indifferent to where they are headed; a thing which contributes greatly to the increase of profanity among motorists and consequently is deeply deplored by the truly good.

ANOTHER CAUSE OF FOOT ERUPTIONS.

ACUTE skin disease, affecting the feet, is complained of more in hot weather than at other seasons. It is the fashion now to call this disease athlete's foot. In most instances where there is itching, some weeping and cracking, and maybe some blisters, athlete's foot is probable. The person who guesses that to be his trouble and uses remedies to kill the ringworm parasites locally will not make a mistake.

In very hot weather a fair proportion of such cases will be pompholyx rather than athlete's foot. Especially is this true if blisters are the outstanding symptom, and if heat and friction during the day have been much in operation.

In a certain proportion of the acute skin troubles of the foot the cause is exposure to dyes used in shoes and socks. In many of the shoe dye cases the symptoms are more constitutional than local, and the change in appearance of the skin of the foot is not due to blisters, oozing, and cracking. It is a duskiness—a change in color.

Physicians report a fair number of such cases, especially when the individual has had his shoes freshly dyed and wears them without letting them air for several hours.

The shoe trade has spent considerable effort in investigating the possibilities of poisoning the feet from shoes. They do not take much stock in dyes as a cause of foot poisoning. However, they think it possible that some cases that are called athlete's foot may be due to sumac poisoning. Sumac belongs to the poison ivy family. Cases of this poisoning, with symptoms somewhat similar to ivy poisoning, are encountered. Considerable leather is tanned with sumac. In fact, it is one of the popular tanning agents.

In hot weather, when the feet are wet with sweat or when a person has been in the rain and his shoes are wet through, some of the sumac left in the leather in the tanning process goes into solution and is brought in contact with the skin. The solution of sumac is never a strong one, and it is less poisonous than poison ivy. Nevertheless, the exposure may be continued for several hours.

The eruption caused resembles that of poison ivy, or is a cross between that and ringworm of the foot. It passes away without much treatment if the sumac tanned shoes are discarded and others are worn. However, simple, soothing remedies are helpful. Probably ointments may spread the poison, as they do when applied to the weeping surfaces of poison ivy.

The manufacturers advise that shoes made of sumac tanned leather should always be lined. A good, heavy, cotton cloth lining, such as is used in shoes, will prevent the sumac from reaching the skin in dosage large enough or strong enough to cause an eruption. At least their experiments lead them to think it does.

TIRED OF TATTOO.

J. A. W. writes: I have a small tattoo on my arm. I would like to have it removed. What is the safest method of doing this?

REPLY.

Tattoo can be removed. It requires what might be called a local skinning. This is a surgical operation and should be done by a surgeon of some experience.

HEART LEAKS.

Mrs. L. S. K. writes:

1. What are the symptoms of a leak?
2. How long can one live with a leak?
3. Can he get about as well as one with this trouble, or how should he take care?

REPLY.

1. Usually there are none, so long as compensation is maintained. Heart leaks are generally discovered by accident. A physician listening to the chest hears a heart murmur.
2. Men with leaks have been known to live with the trouble for a long time, say, more than threescore and ten.
3. If there are no symptoms other than the murmur he should live about as well balanced men of good habits do. Care of such cases can easily be overdone.

FROM THE TRIBUNE'S COLUMNS

16 YEARS AGO TODAY

SEPTEMBER 12, 1916.

PORTLAND, Me.—Maine, whose verdict in the state elections is regarded as the forecast of the national result in November, today returned a decisive victory for the Republican party. The majority for the head of the ticket—governor—was approximately 13,000. That great mystery—the Progressive vote—is no longer a mystery. Figures from the returns indicate that an overwhelming percentage of the Moose vote was cast for the Republicans, who elected a governor, two United States senators and all the congressmen. It was a straightaway contest, in which the Wilson administration policies were the issue.

NEW YORK.—With surface lines transit virtually at a standstill in Manhattan, the Bronx, Yonkers and parts of Westchester county, and with subway and elevated facilities affected more than at any time since the Interborough Rapid Transit strike was called on Sept. 7, the traction situation here assumed a more serious aspect. The first demonstration of a sympathetic strike came when union teamsters quit their posts rather than haul sand to the New York Railway company power houses. Hugh Frayne, an organizer of the American Federation of Labor, predicted that a general sympathetic strike would be called within a week. Patrolmen were rushed to Harlem at midnight for duty on roofs of houses along the Third Avenue elevated after one train had been fired upon and several others were bombarded with missiles.

LONDON.—There is a ministerial crisis in Greece. Premier Zaimis has resigned. Every effort is being made to persuade him to retain his portfolio. An Athens dispatch says that a prominent Greek official declared: "If the entente and anti-Venizelist factions can only keep quiet for ten days and not embroil the situation, Greece's entry into the war on the side of the allies will be a settled fact. If not, it is the end of Greece."

LONDON.—The allies have taken the offensive on both wings in the Balkan field and have inaugurated a general offensive with the object of crushing Bulgaria and breaking the communications between the central empires and Turkey. The British army has forced its way across the Struma river in the face of heavy Bulgarian opposition and occupied four towns which were wrested from the enemy. Along the Black sea coast a furious battle is still raging between the Russians and the Rumanians on one side, and the Bulgarians on the other. The Russian troops are reported to have cut the Varna-Dobrudja railway, while the Russian fleet is shelling Varna.

LONDON.—Repeated attempts of Germans to retake positions recently won by the allies in the Somme river district have resulted in complete failure: Preceded by gas and flaming liquids the Germans twice attempted to storm Ginchy but were beaten back by the British. Five times last night the enemy advanced against the positions won by the French between Berny and Chaulnes, to the south of the Somme. They were stopped by French artillery fire with heavy losses.

BERLIN.—Russian attempts to capture the town of Halicz on the Dniester in Galicia, regarded as the key to the defense of Lemberg from the southeast, have been frustrated by the Teutonic forces, the war office announced. Troops under Count von Bothmer brought the Russian efforts to naught. Russian attacks in the vicinity of Stare-Czerwiczce on the Stokhod, forty miles northeast of Kovel, also were repulsed.

CHICAGO.—William H. Jones, who died in Pasadena Sept. 1, bequeathed $100,000 to the Chicago Boys' club, an organization for uplifting the boys of the streets. Mr. Jones formerly lived in Evanston and was connected with the International Harvester company.

CHICAGO.—In three different forms opposition appeared to the proposal that the name of Clark street from Diversey parkway to 22d street be changed to Broadway. The objections came from business men on the street, from representatives of the Chicago Historical society, and third from some Broadway folks who opposed having the name extended through the downtown district. Ald. Henry D. Capitain was the spokesman for the Broadway residents.

OVERCROWDED HIGH SCHOOLS.

Chicago, Sept. 8.—Mr. Bogan is bewailing the overcrowded condition of Senn High on the north side. There is a simple solution.

Swift, Hoyt, Field, and Gale elementary schools have from two to eight empty classrooms each. This statement is based on investigation, not hearsay. If Mr. Bogan will move his first year Senn pupils back into Sullivan Junior High, the seventh and eighth grades there can be moved back into the above mentioned elementary schools with much profit to the pupils.

It is a fact that high school teachers give far more praise to pupils entering from regular eight grade schools than to those coming from junior highs. The latter are overstimulated and badly governed.

Regarding empty elementary classrooms, the public should know that many principals send a dozen pupils into a closed classroom for one period a day and then report it to the board as "in use." This accounts for discrepancies in reports of empty classrooms. R. R. R.

MUTUAL SAVINGS BANKS.

Chicago, Sept. 8.—In reporting the address of M. A. Graettinger, executive vice president of the Illinois Bankers' association, THE TRIBUNE omitted one of the most important suggestions. This was to the effect that consideration be given to the establishment of mutual savings banks in this state. The mutual savings banks of eastern states have an enviable record of stability and safety. In Brooklyn, for instance, and Queens, no depositor of a savings bank has had to worry about the safety of his savings for the past hundred years. And there are plenty of other banks of the same type in other eastern states that have just as good records for soundness, safety, and efficiency. Mutual savings banks have about 13½ million depositors and they hold about 10 per cent of the 11½ billion dollars of railroad bonds outstanding, to say nothing of utilities, municipals, U. S. bonds, and real estate mortgages. They're a vital element in the financial structure of the nation. We could do with a few of them here.

I. M. FIDUCIO.

AT THE HOOVER DAM.

Fort Sheridan, Ill., Sept. 2.—In this morning's TRIBUNE I've read the article on the Hoover dam expenses and it is flagrantly unfair and unjust.

The Hoover dam is the best project ever undertaken in this country. It does not cost the government one penny, for its entire cost is covered by a bond issue to be paid off by guaranteed returns on power and other values it produces. The houses you refer to will be a permanent investment. If you had ever lived in that vicinity you would praise the good judgment of the government in providing good quarters for the men for whom you have no consideration.

A. R. MORRISON.

PUBLIC SERVANTS AS TENANTS.

Chicago, Sept. 2.—I am the owner of numerous residential properties in and about Chicago and in the past I have rented to a large number of city and county employés and have considered them among the best risks as tenants.

Recently, however, this class of tenants has become the poorest risk on my books, not so much because of the fact that their pay is somewhat behind but because of the fact that many of them are taking advantage of the fact that there is nothing that a landlord can do to enforce collection of rents by garnishment or other legal proceedings directed against their salaries. Many of them are openly defiant and say that they know that the landlord can do nothing to them. They move out of my homes owing several hundred dollars and when I try to collect the money they refuse to pay.

The result is that I have adopted the attitude of not renting to any city or county employé and I am convinced that other landlords who have had my experience will do the same.

I believe that the city and county governments should have some way of forcing their employés to pay their just debts, inasmuch as they prevent the creditors from making collections through the courts. If there was some bureau organized with which just claims could be filed and that would see to it that the employés would meet such claims by holding out a certain portion of their salary each week, I would once again be willing to rent to city and county employés.

The superintendent of the federal postoffice would not permit any postman to take advantage of the fact that he cannot be garnisheed for just debts and if the superintendent is notified by the creditor he will see to it that the debt is paid. I certainly feel that the city and county governments could learn a lesson from the federal government in handling the affairs of their employés.

THE GREETER IN THE LOOP.

Chicago, Sept. 6.—At this time, when the police are hauling in motorists by the thousands for minor infractions of the rules, an incident which I witnessed today shortly before noon deserves attention.

At the intersection of Clark and Adams streets, while the traffic was moving north and south, the shining white sport car of our own Greeter Gaw, coming from the south, suddenly made a left turn against the oncoming traffic. As the officer stationed at that intersection made an attempt to stop the car Greeter Gaw himself and his retinue gave him a big laugh and sped on west on Adams street.

To my knowledge, the ordinance prohibiting left turns in the loop has not been abrogated in favor of our famous greeter. E. MAUTNER.

HOW TO ADDRESS BUSINESS NOTES TO FOREIGN LAND

Use Native Spelling to Please Recipient.

BY GENEVIEVE FORBES HERRICK.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Sept. 11.—[Special.]—If you're sending a letter from Chicago to the capital of Austria, should you address it to Vienna or to Wien?

Should Yugoslavia's capital be written Beograde or the more familiar Belgrade? In Italy is it Naples or the Lyric Napoli?

The answer depends largely on the sort of letter you're mailing. If it's a perfumed note to your American sweetheart studying art in Italy, she'll feel more at home if you write it Naples, not Napoli. But if it's a typewritten letter to a business firm in Yougoslavia you're more likely to land that fat contract if you go native and address your letter to the foreign looking Beograde.

Advice to Letter Writers.

This, in essence, is the advice which Uncle Sam, through the United States geographic board's first report on foreign geographic names issued today, gives American letter writers. The advice is particularly designed, however, for government departments, consular and diplomatic offices, army and navy correspondence and other federal mail bags, where a mistake might be serious, or at least, very impolite.

The use of local official forms of geographic names on letters and publications intended for foreign countries is sure to create the little booklet points out, "a good impression which is favorable to the transaction of business."

That's the government tip of writing the name of a foreign city on an envelope. When it comes to writing the name of the country to which the letter is going an entirely different problem is involved. Here it is not so much a question of flattering the vanity of the recipient, although that would be good policy, but of getting the letter quickly and accurately dispatched out of the United States and that is really better policy.

Use English for Country.

In this instance the experts' advice is to give the name of the foreign country in its English spelling. That is, write it Poland instead of Polska. Don't write it Suomi for the mail carrier in the United States would be frightfully puzzled. Write it Finland, and he'll dump it into the right bag the first time. Whatever discourtesy there might be in writing the name of the country in our accepted English terms, will be more than made up by the speed with which the American postal authorities get the letter to the right dock, the right boat and the right country.

Once over in that country, it's up to the native postmen to deliver it to the proper city or town. That's one more reason in addition to the practical business or diplomatic reason for writing the local address in the local manner.

Take it the other way round. If a native Italian is writing to a resident of Salt Lake City, he might very well use the Italian name for the United States. But his letter, the booklet reminds us, would cause a lot of confusion if addressed to Citta del Lago Salato.

List of Don'ts.

And there are a lot of "don'ts."

Don't spell it Jugoslavia; the proper spelling is Yugoslavia. It's not Cape Town; it's Capetown. It must always be Tokyo; never Tokio; and pronounce it in two syllables, if you please. There is no such place as Esthonia; it is Ectonia.

Baile Atha Cliath is the new Gaelic for Dublin. But since Dublin is also of Celtic origin, it's just as well, the book suggests, to keep the old name. But it's not very polite to address a letter to Cologne, Germany, since Cologne is a French name and the German name is Köln.

Don't ever talk about the Si Kiang river over in China, for Kiang means river. Similarly, the linguists who got out the book caution against such "illiterate duplication" as Rio Grande river, since Rio means river.

But these are really only the lighter moments of the volume. There are pages of accents and transliterations and diacritical marks from Arabic to Bantu dialects.

The chairman of the erudite board is Frank Bond.

And the report was prepared by Mr. S. W. Boggs, geographer of the state department, and Dr. Helen M. Strong, geographer of the bureau of foreign and domestic commerce of the commerce department. It contains 2,500 decisions as to the official spelling of foreign geographic names.

PARAGUAY ARMY RENEWS ATTACK ON CHACO FORTS

Fight Rages in Jungle Area, Bolivia Reports.

LA PAZ, Sept. 11.—(AP)—The army headquarters announced today that reinforced Paraguayan troops had launched a third attack on strategic Fort Boqueron in the Chaco Gran forest early today, and that the battle continued throughout the daylight hours. The Bolivian troops were stated to be "resisting vigorously at last advices at 6 p. m."

It was also asserted that the Paraguayan forces had renewed their attack against the nearby fort, Agua Rica, and that desperate fighting was in progress. The first attack on Boqueron was made Friday, and another was launched last night. The Bolivian government communique said both were repulsed after the Paraguayans had sustained severe losses. Army headquarters also reported a previous Paraguayan attack on Agua Rica at 4 p. m. yesterday.

Charge of Befogging Opinion.

The communique regarding last night's Boqueron attack said about 3,000 enemy troops returned to the fort and renewed the attack there at 6 o'clock last night and were turned back mainly by a counter attack.

"This third attack," the army communique said, "serves to explain the insistence of the Paraguayan government in befogging opinion with the purpose of seeing confirmed its hopes for victory. This general staff will not incur such ridiculous exhibitions even should it be faced with a major catastrophe."

Paraguay Claims Victory.

ASUNCION, Sept. 11.—(AP)—A war ministry bulletin today said Paraguayan troops continued fighting successfully against Bolivian forces last night after ousting them from Fort Boqueron in the Gran Chaco borderland. It claimed prisoners were being captured, but did not state how many. Government authorities considered the conflict as the most important engagement in recent weeks.

OAK PARK WOMAN SHOT AS POLICE BATTLE THIEVES

A woman hiding in an automobile was shot and slightly wounded in a battle between two Oak Park policemen and two men fleeing in a stolen car late last night. Dominic Cinciarula, 26 years old, 1418 North Lockwood avenue, was arrested when the fugitive car crashed into the home of Martin Mauritzen, 900 North Harvey avenue, Oak Park. Cinciarula's companion escaped. The woman, whose head was grazed by a bullet, was Mrs. Hortense Snead, 27 years old, 1013 North Mayfield avenue, who was riding with her husband, George, and Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Meinsen, 214 South 21st avenue, Maywood.

The stolen car was taken from D. Dowling, 7353 Eberhart avenue, at 72d street and Vernon avenue, two hours earlier. Dowling also was robbed of $14.

Policemen Lambert Barsema and Harold Rentner of Oak Park were in a squad car at Harlem and Division streets when the stolen machine passed. They gave chase, firing as they went, with the fugitives returning the shots. The Snead machine came into the line of fire.

FINDS RADICALS AND CRIMINALS IN BONUS ARMY

Mitchell Files Report on Case with Hoover.

leaders as were well-intentioned lost control over them entirely.

"It is appalling to think of the disorder and bloodshed that would have occurred if darkness had fallen on the city with the police hopelessly overwhelmed at the scene of the disturbance and the balance of the community without police protection. The prompt use of the military to outnumber and overawe the disturbers prevented a calamity.

"The principal reason why the federal government was given exclusive jurisdiction over the capital city was to enable it to preserve order at the seat of government and to protect the congress and other public officials from unlawful interference while in the discharge of their duties. The right peaceably to petition congress for redress of alleged grievances does not include assemblage of disorderly thousands at the seat of the government for purposes of coercion."

The number of bonus marchers in Washington when congress adjourned, July 16, was somewhere between 8,000 and 16,000 the report stated. The number on the day of the riot was perhaps 6,000 or 8,000, and of that number, the attorney general informed the President a considerable portion had not been in military service during the world war.

He set out to show what portion were imposters.

Without Service Records.

Out of 362 veterans arrested for various offenses prior to the riot, 51 had been fingerprinted, among them those arrested for attempting to gain entrance to the White House. Of the 51, the report declared, 16 had no service record.

The early arrivals among the bonus marchers signed a muster roll. A total of 3,656 had signed up to June 12, when it was discovered that the names were being checked against the service records and the veterans, said the report, stopped signing. Out of the 3,656 names checked 877 could not be linked to a record of military service.

"It is possible," said Mr. Mitchell, "that some of the 877 were ex-service men and could not be identified because of meager information but the bulk of them were evidently imposters."

Denial Made for Hines.

The attorney general denied that Veterans Administrator Hines ever stated that 90 per cent of the bonus marchers were ex-service men.

The same 51 marchers who were fingerprinted by the police also figured in the evidence brought forward by Attorney General Mitchell and his investigators to show that if many bonus marchers had no service records, many of them did possess criminal records.

Seventeen of the 51 had such criminal records, said the report, which then went on to reveal the "more striking result" obtained by the bureau of criminal identification when it checked the 4,723 bonus marchers whose fingerprints were taken in order that they might prove their right to loans on which to travel home.

Out of the 4,723 marchers identified as veterans Mr. Mitchell stated, 1,063 or 22.6 per cent were found to have police records and of that number 829 or 17.4 per cent were shown to have been convicted.

Homicide Charged to 13.

As recorded in the attorney general's report, the findings were as follows:

	Totals.	Disposition pending. or unknown.	Charges dismissed.	Convictions.
Assault	46	2	7	37
Auto theft	32	0	6	26
Burglary	88	1	21	66

Driving while intoxicated	24	0	0	24
Drunkenness	98	1	2	95
Embezzlement and fraud	52	1	13	38
Felonious homicide	13	0	6	7
Forgery and counterfeiting	48	0	4	44
Gambling	4	0	2	2
Larceny theft	167	2	27	138
Liquor laws	61	3	9	49
Military offenses, desertion, etc.	84	2	2	80
Miscellaneous	41	4	5	32

Suspicion and investigation	63	0	49	63
Traffic and motor vehicle laws	4	0	0	4
Totals	1,069	20	220	829

Of those convicted, the report said, 140 had one prior conviction for some offense, 49 had two prior convictions, 28 had three prior convictions, and 26 had more than three prior convictions.

Points to Criminals.

The attorney general declared:

"When it is realized that the men who applied for loans to go home after congress adjourned were the most sensible and the least disorderly, that many with criminal records no doubt refrained from disclosing their identity for any purpose, and a considerable portion of the bonus army were not ex-service men and included communists, radicals, and disorderly elements which always congregate under such conditions, it is probable the bonus army brought into the city of Washington the largest aggregation of criminals that had ever been assembled in the city at any one time."

The report then came to the investigation of communist agitation, told how the Reds had sought to foment the movement and induce radicals to join the march on Washington.

The arrests of John Pace, James W. Ford, colored, now communist party candidate for Vice President, Clair Cowan, Walter F. Eicker, and Sylvester G. McKinney were told. All were described as the owners of radical records. Communist meetings were held in Washington.

Incendiary Speeches Reported.

"The files of this department," Mr. Mitchell told the President, "contain voluminous reports of these meetings at many of which incendiary speeches and plans to stir the bonus army to violence and bloodshed were made. During the various disorders, including the final riot, persons identified as radicals and communists were observed among the disturbers. There is irrefutable proof that a very large body of communists and radicals, some ex-service men and some not were in the city as part of the bonus army, circulating among them and working diligently to incite them to disorder."

Congress adjourned, but a majority of the marchers stayed on. The quality of the men in the bonus army, said the report, "steadily deteriorated."

"With congress gone, no possible excuse existed for remaining in the city," Mr. Mitchell wrote. "No one here had authority to grant their demands. Many of the better elements left, but small groups of trouble makers augmented the forces. The army was repeatedly asked to disband and vacate government property, but refused. It circulated around the city individually and in small groups and even in large bodies, asking or demanding money and supplies.

Report Women Intimidated.

"Many reports have been received that they practically levied tribute on small merchants and intimidated housewives when their demands were refused. Some of them boarded running boards of cars driven by women and were disagreeable and insulting. It was quite impossible for such a body of men to be in the city without violating a variety of laws and ordinances. They were living in partly dismantled buildings which they had seized and on vacant tracts in shacks constructed of debris. It was impossible that the conditions could continue."

An excerpt was included from the district health officer's report in which the filthy condition of the camps is described.

The report detailed the efforts made to remove a comparatively small group of veterans from a tract of government property on Pennsylvania avenue where old buildings were to be demolished and the ground leveled, as part of the program of developing the Mall.

Finally on the morning of July 28 the police were called and the marchers ejected, only two or three offering forcible resistance.

The the report went on:

"While this was taking place speeches of an incendiary nature were being made at Camp Marks, an open area across the Anacostia river, on which a large bonus camp had been established. About noon when the situation on Pennsylvania avenue was well in hand and entirely peaceful, the bonus marchers from Camp Marks started across the Anacostia river to the Pennsylvania avenue tract in large numbers by trucks and other means.

"They gathered in the street area near the property, then in the possession of the treasury department, which was being guarded by 75 policemen and their numbers increased to 2,000 or 3,000. Suddenly during the noon hour the mob that had come from Camp Marks rushed the policemen and attacked them with bricks and rocks. Some of the police were felled with clubs. The police had revolvers, but had orders not to use them and did not do so. This attack finally subsided.

"Thousands of persons were attracted to the scene. The crowd of bonus marchers assembled at this point increased to numbers estimated at 4,000 to 6,000. With the bystanders, the crowd increased to an estimated number of nearly 20,000. The situation became more strained, and many of the bonus army were walking about with clubs and bricks in their hands. This continued until the middle of the afternoon with continuous talk about attacking the police and driving them out. Some lawfully inclined veterans attempted to calm others, but made no impression.

Two Bonus Marchers Shot.

"Finally the mob of bonus marchers again attacked the police with bricks, lumps of concrete, and iron bars. Two of the bonus marchers were shot by police who had been set upon and were in danger of their lives. The entire mob became hostile and riotous. It was apparent that a pitched battle on a large scale might start at any moment. Practically the entire police force of the city were called from their posts and assembled at this point, but they were outnumbered 10 or 15 to 1. Notwithstanding the large number of irresponsible persons in the city the rest of the city was stripped of police protection. Many of the policemen had been on duty all night.

"It was obvious that the situation was entirely out of the control of the police and that when darkness arrived appalling scenes of disorder would follow during which the rest of the city would be without substantial police protection except a few scout cars."

Decision to Call Troops.

It was then that the decision was taken to call the troops. Affairs until the troops' arrival "steadily grew worse," said the report and went on:

"There is no difference of opinion about the fact that the presence of troops was necessary to and did prevent further disorder and bloodshed. In their absence further rioting would have occurred with further bloodshed among bonus marchers and police, and possibly innocent bystanders.

"The troops arrived and with the use of practically no weapons except tear gas restored order and cleared the area and put an end to the disturbance."

Then came a series of denials of the various charges and accusations that have been made.

Shot "in Self Defense."

"Two bonus marchers were killed in the disturbance," Mr. Mitchell stated. "They were shot by police in self defense, not by troops. A full investigation by a coroner's jury established that the police shot in necessary self defense to save themselves from threatened fatal injury. After the troops arrived no serious injuries to any one followed. A few of the troops were stoned and slightly injured and one bonus marcher had his ear cut but no other casualties were suffered after the troops came. Stories published in some quarters that the troops shot or seriously injured bonus marchers are utterly without foundation. The published reports that the infant child of a bonus marcher named Myers died as a result of tear gas are false. The records at the Gallinger hospital show that the child died of intestinal trouble contracted and diagnosed before the riot."

The troops, the report claimed, did not set fire to the marchers' shacks, but after the fire had broken out troops did set fire to the remaining shacks and debris.

"The principal group of women and children in the bonus army was located in the communist camp, which was not disturbed by the troops but was voluntarily evacuated by the marchers," said the report. "The Red Cross promptly offered and furnished assistance and transportation to all women and children in the bonus army and to their men folks, and actually did furnish transportation to 221 women and 247 children. There is no evidence whatever that any women or children were injured or ill treated."

As the concluding item the attorney general explained why it has not been possible to bring to justice more than the small numbers of bonus marchers recently indicted. No detectives were present at the Camp Marks meeting at which the bonus army was incited to march over and attack the police, he said. In fact, the police had been ordered to stay out of the camp area.

"Consequently," Attorney General Mitchell declared, "in the confusion and absence of this detective service it has been impossible to identify and bring to justice some of the principal inciters of the disorder. It is always the case under such conditions, that the radicals and disorderly elements who incite such action do so warily and sometimes fade from the scene when the trouble commences."

DEMAND CASH BONUS, B. E. F. COMMANDER'S APPEAL TO LEGION

New York, Sept. 11.—(AP)—Walter W. Walters, commander of the bonus expeditionary forces, announced today he had wired an appeal to the American Legion convention in Portland, Ore., to go on record in favor of immediate payment of the bonus.

Waters said that he had been unable to obtain expenses to attend the convention "without obligating myself and my cause," and that he had wired instead to Commander Henry L. Stevens of the American Legion and to Congressman Wright Patman.

"I urge the national convention of the American Legion, now assembled in Portland, Ore., to demand immediate payment of the bonus for the benefit of more than a million destitute veterans," his message read. "These men are in dire need and are looking to their comrades on this occasion to demand relief by the payment to them of a just obligation.

"Another important matter that should be called to the official attention of this convention and millions of veterans of this nation is Gov. Roosevelt's stand on the bonus. We know President Hoover is against it, but I find that thousands of veterans are under the impression that Roosevelt is for the immediate payment of the bonus. The Democratic platform ignores the issue and Gov. Roosevelt has failed to make a statement as to his stand."

Waters reiterated he was fighting only for the veterans, and "not in the interests of any political organization."

MITCHELL'S CHARGES MINUS FACT BASIS, BONUS LEADER AVERS

New York, Sept. 11.—[Special.]—Walter W. Waters, commander of the bonus expeditionary forces, in a statement issued tonight through an aid, said:

"Mr. Mitchell's charges are absolutely without foundation in fact. The grand jury failed to find they had any basis, so they returned only three minor indictments against men who could hardly be called representatives of the bonus army.

"The statement is only a rehash of all the charges that have been made and published by the administration since the eviction of the B. E. F. In these charges they have failed to state both sides. It was Mr. Mitchell's job to furnish this information and he did the best he could.

"I regret that this statement was timed for the American Legion convention, as it will only antagonize thousands of veterans who had begun to forget what took place in Washington.

"I will not discuss the statement in detail at this time, but after careful study a complete answer will be prepared and issued."

LEGION TO OPEN SESSIONS TODAY; BONUS BIG ISSUE

50,000 Jam Portland for Convention.

Portland, Ore., Sept. 11.—(AP)—The feverish activity of a great peace time movement by the military and ex-military men of the nation swept through Portland today as the American Legion prepared to open its 14th national convention.

About 50,000 visitors participated in brilliant and noisy pre-convention festivities, with the legislative and political aspect of the meeting overshadowing all else as the grouped Legionnaires awaited the call to order by National Commander Henry L. Stevens Jr. tomorrow.

Bonus legislation, brought vividly before the world's eye by the unparaleled march on Washington, D. C., by the bonus army, held the spotlight of controversial questions, with a recommendation for immediate payment assured, leaders said.

Hanford MacNider, past national commander who has expressed opposition to immediate payment and upheld the administration viewpoint, arrived today, but was called back immediately because of the serious illness of one of his children at Mason City, Ia.

MacNider, before leaving, refused to discuss the bonus question, asserting he was here merely to visit old companions and associates, and that he was on "no special mission." To none of the officials of the Legion to whom he spoke did he mention the bonus, they said.

BRAZIL CAPTURES ENTIRE DISTRICT; REBELS RETREAT

RIO DE JANEIRO, Sept. 11.—(AP)—As the tenth week of military operations against rebel forces in the state of Sao Paulo opened, the government claimed almost the entire Mogyana district was within its grasp.

Federal army leaders said their forces were menacing Campinas as a result of the occupation of Amparo, Brumado, and Pantaleao. A government statement announced occupation by federal troops in the Mogymirim and Itapira sectors of the railway stations of Brumado and Pantaleao, 23 and 21 miles northward, respectively, from Campinas. It said the rebels had retreated to Amparo, 24 miles northwestward.

Another government announcement was that minor uprisings in the states of Cruzeiro and Santa Catherina, in sympathy with the Sao Paulo constitutionalists, had been squelched.

Shotgun Gang Holds Up Two Parties of Hunters

Four bandits, armed with shotguns, waylaid two parties of hunters driving to spots along the Illinois river for the opening of the hunting season yesterday, and stripped them of weapons, ammunition and cash. The robberies occurred along Archer avenue. At 95th street the bandits stopped John Ferra, 1010 East 79th street; Basilio Corba, 1010½ East 79th street, and Albert Sylvester, 642 West 61st street. At 131st street the same gang robbed Leo Nimergut and Arthur Wilkening of 3012 East 81st street; Albert Siebrandt, 2945 East 80th street, and John Kurowski, 8543 Colfax avenue.

16 Year Old Pilot and His Passenger Die in Air Crash

Greencastle, Ind., Sept. 11.—(AP)—William Linley, 16, reputed to have been the youngest licensed airplane pilot in Indiana, and his passenger, Dureame Gromer, 16, were injured fatally today in the fall of their craft near Cloverdale, south of here. Dropping from a low altitude, the plane crashed on the farm of Linley's father. Young Linley obtained his license last month.

Do Just These Two Simple Things

Fat Melts Away

Science has made important discoveries in fat reduction. The average fat person can now rip off fat a pound a day—four to seven pounds every week!—on a full stomach, with never a hungry moment. Thus it is foolish now to stay fat.

This is what you do: Take a teaspoonful ordinary Jad salts in a glass of water a half hour before breakfast every morning. This reduces moisture-weight instantly. Also cleanses the system of the waste matter and excess toxins that most fat people have, and banishes puffiness and bloat.

Then do this about eating. FILL YOUR STOMACH—eat your fill—of lean meats, vegetables like spinach, cauliflower, cabbage, tomatoes, etc., and lots of salads. Eat a lot. Eat all you can hold. Don't go hungry a minute. Cut down on fatty meats, starches and desserts. Eat any fruit for dessert.

That's all you do. Fat seems to melt away. The coarse lines of overweight give way to the refined ones of slenderness. You lose as much as a pound a day. You feel better than for years. For in this treatment you achieve two important results. The Jad Salts clear your system of toxins. *The diet takes off fat with food that turns into energy instead of weight.

If you're tired of being embarrassed by fat, try this way. You'll be glad that you did. You can get Jad Salts at any drug store.

*Note particularly—the salts are urged purely as a poison-banishing agent—not as a reducing. The change in food does the work.

Newest Robes Give Warmth to Early Riser

Fine French Flannel Used in Some Models.

BY RHEA SEEGER.

ALL the early risers who are compelled to dash about with numerous home duties in a frigid atmosphere have been warmly and decoratively remembered as well as planned for by a few humane negligee and house robe makers. These warm hearted designers have really evolved some things that will probably get more clothes hounds out of bed than a van load of plain and fancy alarm clocks. You will find robes, negligees, lounging pajamas and some Turkish harem looking affairs, all planned with the one desire to wrap the adventurous early riser in warmth and beauty.

Usually one spent a great amount of assorted shekels for a whimsical, misty, clinging get together, and the glow of the unwarranted extravagance wasn't enough to keep the average well chilled shopper at ease or even fashionably comfortable. The idea was, that with the conscience so hotly bothered the anatomy would be blissfully forgotten, but that was discouragingly unsuccessful. Now you can spend absolutely trifling sums and have the coziest, warmest and most decorative robes you have ever donned to battle with the playful nippy early breezes of sunrise.

Fine French flannel is used for one heart warming and eye filling creation . . . in three shades of fashionable deep rose, garnet and flesh pink. The yoke of these one-piece pajamas has these three tones in curving strips about four inches wide. The sleeves are long and wide and loose, with cuffs also in a three color combination to match the capacious pocket of the right side . . . the pajamas are not too wide but are made with plenty of freedom for active breakfast makers.

A blue flannel robe sounds as dull and innocuous as the same description used to tell the painful truth . . . but this year a blue flannel robe is positively siren in allure and appeal. A soft French blue shade of warm supple flannel is fashioned into a swagger-ish sort of a house robe. . . . the sort of a robe you plunge gayly into the wide sleeves, wrap it dashingly about your shivering silhouette and saunter out into the most crimping and airy room with all the casual nonchalance of the well dressed movie queen.

A square upstanding collar is a military frame around your face and has one wide stripe, and a narrower stripe on either side, of dark madonna blue for contrast.

Brocaded cashmere is very new, warm, and designed in a masculine tailored perfection with suitable feminine influence.

A white beauty is made of this thin wool cashmere brocaded with small shining satin squares . . . the inch wide binding on the rollover collar, the monogrammed pocket and the waist winding sash are a gorgeous shade of brilliant blue. Another is made of small bumpy brocaded dots on a cream ivory background. The collar and cuffs and pocket edge and the lovely double silk sash are of dusky pink combined with French blue.

But the doggiest robe of the newer arrivals is the model made of crinkled cream colored crêpe silk that is called metalese . . . one distinctive design shows this fashionable crinkled material made in a long and covering robe with edges bound in old blue and a soft salmon pink . . . a large hip pocket and a smaller breast pocket have appliqued Scotties of these two colors . . . the robe-conscious canines have been caught in a moment of quiet speculation and canny inquiry, for all four ears are exceedingly lifelike, raised in a high and questioning manner.

Illicit Love Holds Nothing for Young Girl

BY DORIS BLAKE.

"I am 21. About a year ago I met a married man of 35. Since then I have seen him a good deal and am madly in love with him.

"Although I go out with other men, he is the one I care most for, but since he has a wife, any future with him is absolutely out of the question.

"He just left for a six weeks' vacation. I received a letter from him promptly, telling me how he missed me and if I cared enough to write to him, to send the letter in care of a third party, a friend of his. I refuse to answer his letters because I feel that if he really cared for me, the least he would do would be to receive my letters directly, not caring about the consequences.

"I really don't see why I should lower my pride and dignity by writing in this manner to him. Do you think I'm right in acting this way?

"MISS H."

You know you're right not answering the letters under the conditions named. But, Miss H., where was that pride and dignity of yours a year ago, or when you first started giving the married man encouragement? Surely it is more important in the life of a young woman with a long future before her to be prideful and dignified about the kind of men she encourages.

About the lowest compliment a young woman can pay herself is to be party to such illicit romance. There's no trick whatever in that type of conquest. But a girl with pride rebels heartily at such a situation and leaves the man to his legal mate.

What she asks of life is something else again—people's respect, her own self-respect sustained. And happiness that isn't earned at the suffering of some other woman.

BY CHARLES COLLINS.

The Chicago company of "Another Language" had its première at the Harris theater last night, and a report of it must begin with the news that there is a hit in town. This interesting and appealing play—a document in the natural history of the American family—ought to stimulate the backward playgoing season like a shot of adrenalin.

The membership of the "I Saw It in New York" club, which attended the opening in large numbers, seemed to be of the opinion that the present cast equals that of the parent organization, still triumphantly resident on Broadway. Not being a regular member of this group of pilgrims, I cannot make the comparisons that are a part of its ritual; but I can testify, with enthusiasm, that this is an admirably balanced company of players, giving a fine performance.

"Another Language" is a closely observed study of an average middle-class family, typical of any American city, in which there are four adult sons, each with his attendant wife. Therefore, it is on its surface a comedy of sisters-in-law in their complicated reactions to the tribal spirit. Every sister-in-law, and for that matter every brother-in-law, will find this phase of "Another Language" shrewd, illuminating, and often gorgeously funny.

The small talk of this clan [it is called the Hallams], as it assembles for a dull, weekly supper party in the old-fashioned home of the parents, gives the first act a mellow glow of genial satire. The men are stodgy Hallams, cut to a pattern, and the women are friendly enemies in the ideal sister-in-law tradition. They nag, they razz, they bore each other in the manner to which they have been accustomed; and the party would have been just another night killed with Ma and Pa Hallam if two of the guests hadn't happened to be birds of another feather.

The exotics in the ancestral sitting room are the youngish wife of the youngest son, who happens to like painting and music and some of the other decorations of life that the Hallams regard as "nonsense"; and a nephew who wants to be an architect instead of a business man. These two, aliens to Hallam customs and subjects for crass Hallam jeers, bring the second and third acts of "Another Language" into the field of emotional drama.

Each is making a spiritual fight against absorption into the philistinism of the tribe; each is a romantic in quiet rebellion against the trampling Hallam herd. The young man falls wildly in love with his aunt-in-law, and she, although far from being the conventional siren of such theatrical situations, is not entirely free of sentimental thrills. Here you will find "Another Language" touching, appealing and, in a quiet way, exciting.

Patricia Collinge, returned to Chicago audiences after too long an absence, plays the romantic and sensitive sister-in-law, central character in the Hallam gallery, with a sure and delicate touch. She is a decidedly happy choice for this important and apparently difficult rôle. Tom Powers, recently of Theater Guild casts, makes a sharply etched characterization of the Hallam to whom this unusual heroine is wedded. Philip N. Faversham, son of the famous William, now entering the profession that his father adorned, is excellent as the high strung lad who gets a crush on his aunt. Other effective character studies are contributed by Ellen Lowe, Maidel Turner, Eleanor Hicks, and Lawrence Fletcher.

The Rev. Mr. Holt explained that wisdom is one's ability to relate himself to his environment.

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS.

The author of a recent article in one of our magazines asked herself whether she would have children, if she had it to do all over again. And she gave her own answer—No!

It was rather a shock to read this—until a perusal of the article made one agree with her. For she had failed signally to achieve that most difficult but necessary balance between being a parent and being a human being. She complained because she and her husband [the children are now grown up] could never have the car, as the young son had to take his girl to the movies or to a dance. Or she could not have her friends drop in for bridge because the young daughter wanted to be able to have the young fry in at all times. Or they could not listen to the broadcasting of symphonic music, which they loved, because the boy and girl always tuned in on jazz or dance music. And they are looking forward gratefully to the time when the children will be married.

We all have to make that fine adjustment between being parents and being human beings. We should not the former all the time, and we can't be the latter all the time.

I have some friends who have achieved this ideal balance. They are really devoted parents, and naturally most of their time and energy are given to their children. But they can leave them at home, with the oldest in charge, go off on a picnic and have a swell time, just as human beings. And to look at them you would not guess that their oldest child is a boy of 17. Instead, they seem to be a young married couple very much in love with each other, with a keen interest in people, music, and books.

It is an ideal combination—the father and mother who can get so much happiness and joy out of parenthood and who can also achieve pleasure and profit with their adult companions.

Group Backing Scout Concerts to Meet Today

Report on Benefits for Girls' Organizations.

BY JUDITH CASS.

MRS. WILLIAM S. MONROE, who finds it difficult to tear herself away from White Gates farm at Wayne long enough to come into the city for anything, comes in, however, whenever there is a meeting of the committee in charge of the concerts to be given this fall at Orchestra hall for the benefit of the Girl Scouts. She is chairman of that committee and she and her co-workers have been hard at work all summer selling the boxes and main floor seats.

This morning there is to be a meeting at the Girls Scouts' headquarters, 225 North Michigan avenue, and Mrs. Monroe will be there, of course, to make her own report and to hear those of her committee members about the success they have met with since the last meeting in midsummer.

Mrs. Monroe and her husband and son, Henry Monroe, plan to stay in the country just as late as they possibly can, perhaps not opening their town house at 64 East Elm street until around Dec. 1, but that will depend entirely upon the weather. The Monroes are noted for their hospitality, and many and varied are the delightful and informal parties they give each summer at their lovely farm, named for its thirty immaculate white gates.

Give Many Jolly Parties.

The house and all the other buildings, guest cottages, etc., and the fence also are spotless white, and the estate is one of the most trim and picturesque in the attractive township of Wayne. One of the jolliest parties they gave this season, and one which was enjoyed greatly by those who were fortunate enough to have been included in the list of guests, was one for some of the circus celebrities, including "Poodles" Hannaford and May Wirth, when the circus was in Aurora for a week.

Working with Mrs. Monroe on the committee in charge of the concerts, the first of which will be given by Lucrezia Bori on Monday evening, Oct. 17, is her Wayne neighbor, Mrs. Charles R. Lindsay Jr. and Mrs. Richard Bentley, Mrs. George J. Farnsworth, Mrs. Charles R. Lindsay III., Mrs. Jay Whipple, Mrs. James H. Douglas Jr., Mrs. Edison Dick, Mrs. Carroll H. Sudler Jr., Mrs. Paul Magnuson, Mrs. Britton I. Budd, Miss Harriet Clifford, Mrs. John B. Bremner, and a few others.

IN THE TRIBUNE—EVERY DAY!

By ALICE CAMPBELL.

In the month of May, 193—, at the Bristol Assizes, a young, half English girl was tried for the murder of her aunt, well known resident of the county of Somerset. The brutal circumstances of the crime roused profound feeling; the resulting verdict divided opinion into two warring camps. Many incidents connected with the case were witnessed by an American then engaged in compiling the life and letters of the victim's late father. It is our intention to follow events through his eyes, showing how submerged issues were dragged to the surface, and how the drama at last culminated in a violent denouement.

INSTALLMENT I.

A PROJECTED BIOGRAPHY.

It was the change in Miss Bundy herself which first excited Neil's curiosity, making him think something was amiss. Actually her home, Stoke Paulton, looked slightly different from his recollection of it, but that was because the stone lodge, for the time untenanted, now showed signs of habitation. In fact people were just moving in.

From the green grocer's cart blocking the gateway two corded boxes were being removed, together with household effects and, oddly enough, a big, professional looking camera. A man in a badly fitting suit was tugging at the latter, while from the cottage steps a woman, his wife no doubt, offered suggestions. She it was who percieved the visitor's attempts to steer his two seater round the obstruction, and beamed reassuringly.

"'Ere, Alf," she called in a flat Cockney voice. "You and 'Arry pull round a bit. Can't you see there's a gentleman wants to pass?"

Neil nodded thanks, whereat she smiled still more radiantly and chirped "Don't mention it." She was small, bustling and dreadfully bright, with a ruddy, rasped complexion and treacle colored hair braided in "ear phones."

"Beg pardon, sir," apologized the toiler addressed as Alf. "I never noticed you was there. Now, sir—can you manage?"

Standing civilly aside he favored Neil with a mildly vacant stare. He was an insignificant fellow, with a prim little waxed mustache, and coloring almost identical with the woman's. In his case the treacly hair was glued to his forehead in a low, sweeping curve, beneath which trickled rivulets of sweat. His manner was pleasant and by no means servile.

Who were these people? They had the air of petty shopkeepers—London sparrows, by the look of them. Neil thought it odd to find such a couple taking possession of the lodge, for they were hardly the type one would expect Caroline Bundy to employ. Moreover they seemed very curious about him, judging from the penetrating gaze which followed his progress along the drive.

Primroses clustered in the shelter of the dark green tunnel, daffodils on the lawn beyond tossed wildly in a boisterous gale. Here were the monkey puzzle trees flanking the half acre of shaven turf, and there between them the well remembered house, early Georgian, spacious, with the secure dignity of a generous epoch.

A tight lipped major domo admitted him. It was the same butler he had seen six months ago when the mistress of the place had proved so tiresome about coming to a decision. However, if he recognized Neil he showed no sign of it.

Neil hoped there would be no further difficulties. At all events the letter he had picked up in Marseilles expressed a desire to resume negotiations at once. At a loose end now he would be glad to settle on a program.

What a stubborn creature she was! His publishers had warned him what to expect. For ten years she had withstood every biographer's appeal, partly from absurd jealousy of her father's reputation, more, perhaps, because she enjoyed dominating the situation. One could not stir a step without her sanction, though, for she controlled all the data connected with the dead scientist's work.

Yes, she was dull witted and exasperating. A good sort, all the same, even tempered and dependable. Very forcibly he recalled both her stodginess and her physical vigor, facts to be emphasized in order to appreciate his next impression.

The drawing room he entered had all the grace its owner lacked, with beautiful paneling, serene glazed chintz, and treasures of Queen Anne furniture inherited, not personally chosen. Blossoming hyacinths filled the air with fragrance, a log fire cracked on the hearth, and on the right glass doors framed a picture of the garden.

As Neil stood looking about, a silky spaniel nosed its way in, lolloped over the carpet and flattened itself at his feet.

"Why!" he cried, "if it isn't my old friend Sally! But what have you been doing to get so muddy—chasing rabbits?"

By way of explanation the dog turned expectant eyes on the doors, through which, some distance off, Neil spied a stocky, tweed clad figure ambling towards him across the windy lawn. It was Miss Bundy, eyes shaded by an old felt hat, head bent with an air of intense pre-occupation. As she drew nearer he noticed with a shock how altered and even ill she looked—shrunken, withered, much older.

She came into the room unseeingly, and when she did finally look up at him it was without recognition. He was forced to speak first, to recall her to herself.

"How do you do, Miss Bundy? You see I've kept my appointment."

She gave a nervous start, blinked at him suspiciously with her small, near sighted eyes, and woke to the realization of who he was.

"Eh? O! It's Mr.—Mr. Starkey, of course," she muttered in a confused fashion. "Yes, yes, that's right. I wanted to see you."

She drew off a stained garden glove to shake hands in a perfunctory manner. About all her movements there was a sort of clumsiness, never more noticeable than now. She seemed not to know what to do with her guest now he was here, and pushing back her hat made an obvious effort to muster her faculties.

"Not feeling ill, I hope?" he ventured anxiously. "Perhaps you'd rather put off our interview till another day?"

"Ill?" She caught him up with disconcerting sharpness. "Nonsense—certainly not! I've been having some bad nights lately—nerves, I think, over—over certain matters; but that's nothing."

She sat down awkwardly, feet apart, and drummed with meditative fingers on a large alligator skin handbag. Her mind was evidently engrossed in other concerns, but after a moment's silence she assembled her thoughts.

"It seems unusual," she began jerkily, "to choose an American to write my father's life, when there are so many Englishmen clamoring to do it. But I've been going through the reviews of your previous books, and it strikes me you are less prejudiced, more open to new ideas, than most of our literary people. I've decided not to postpone this biography any longer. I want to see the work completed under my eye, and if I keep delaying it—that is to say ——" She floundered, and grew vague.

She was concerned about her condition, then. She was breaking up, and knew it. That was why she had hit on him, as the last person to approach her on the subject. He had little belief in her critical discrimination.

Aloud he answered: "You are right about its being the very moment to bring out a life of Theodore Bundy. There's a new valuation of his achievements on foot. Our later men look on him as much ahead of his time."

"Mr. Starkey," she said solemnly, "my father had great vision. Even you do not know how great. He was a seer. A man of science, but also a mystic. Ah, that astonishes you, doesn't it? I thought it would."

Neil was astonished. Bundy a mystic? None of his writings gave any indication of it.

"Few people recognized the real Bundy," she continued with triumph. "The great thing is to start immediately, do your preparation, and—but what are your present arrangements? Are you quite ready to begin?"

He declared himself at her command. He was free, and had put up the night before at a Glastonbury hotel.

"Glastonbury?" She shook her head. "That's three miles away. No, no, I propose you come and stay here, in my home. In that way you can spend long hours in my father's study, with all your material, letters, diary, notes, and so on, where you can live with them, so to speak."

"Really, Miss Bundy, that is extremely kind of you. Quite certain I shan't be in your way?"

"Not at all. I should never suggest it if—if—What is it, Crabbe?" She broke off peevishly to the butler who had just approached. "Why must you come on me suddenly like that? You know how I hate people creeping up behind me!"

"It's the new bailiff, Miss," explained the man imperturbedly. "Might he have a word with you outside?"

Vallee Affair Gets Place in 'Rain' Opening

BY ROSALIND SHAFFER.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Hollywood, Cal., Sept. 11.—Hollywood had its own private jest at the Rudy Vallee reconciliation at the opening of "Rain," when a clever impersonator, Eddie Gar, gave an imitation of Vallee singing his songs, and selecting lines that described the present Vallee marital situation.

Gar sang lines from "Blue Again—Blue Again—and you know darned well it's you again; for you said last night you were through again. And so I'm blue again," and went on with apt selections from other ditties sung by the crooner describing reconciliation and love after quarrels. It got a big laugh from the crowded house.

Joan Crawford, star of the film, gave the populace a thrill by appearing in person in a long blue coat fitted and fastening on the left side with silver buckles: and two huge leg o'mutton sleeves that were exactly like the ones Irene Dunne wore in "Cimarron."

"Rain," in spite of some mighty good acting on the part of Joan Crawford, proved a disappointment, mainly because the screen version muffed its chance to build up the situation which climaxes the story, when the Rev. Davidson gives way to the call of the flesh.

With the possibility of using the flashback, and other screen resources that the stage can't use, Milestone did less with the situation than the stage did and the biggest scene in the show fell flat.

Here, too, more development of this character would have made the screen play more persuasive.

Walter Huston did excellent restrained work with the footage allowed him: in such a film the difficulties of the star system become evident—the story suffers because of overbalanced emphasis on the one rôle of Sadie Thompson. William Gargan as the marine, Sergt. O'Hara, played the rôle as a sympathetic human person; and Hollywood already has approved of this young fellow in Hollywood's own way. He has been signed to a contract at RKO, where he will probably be Constance Bennett's leading man.

Constant repetition both in dialogue and panoramic shots made the picture drag in spots. The constant overflowing rain barrel, shell strewn sands and wet palm leaves were shown so many times it became tiresome. Considerable paring on the dialogue, with the footage thrown to Miss Bondi or Walter Huston, would have been an improvement.

When Barbara Babe Lyon had her first birthday party she gave little souvenirs to each small guest, besides receiving the gifts showered on herself. Guests included Darilyn Zanuck, Mary Elizabeth Brown, Joe E. Brown's daughter; Richard Gallagher, Skeets' son; Irving Thalberg Jr., escorted by his mother, Norma Shearer; Reginald Denny Jr.; Sheila and Patricia Fitzmaurice, daughters of George Fitzmaurice and Diana Kane; Carol Bergerman, Carl Laemmle's granddaughter; Gardner Sullivan Jr., and Martha King, Director Henry King's daughter.

English Critics Send Story to America.

"The Life and Adventures of Aloysius O'Callaghan," by T. Washington-Metcalfe. [Morrow.]

"THE Life and Adventures of Aloysius O'Callaghan" comes to us laden with the praise of the English critics, acclaimed for its vitality, full bloodedness and thrills. Such adjectives as "robust," "colorful," "extravagant," "vigorous," "adventurous" have been with justification applied to this book from the pen of the author of "One Night in Santa Anna."

The theme of the book lies in the quotation in the epilogue, "And, from what I read and hear, I gather that there is an overlarge number of people, young enough to be my grandchildren, whose minds would be improved, who would retain longer the youthfulness that every man should prize, if they would steep themselves in the spirit of adventure instead of all this damned atmosphere of disillusion, and the rest of it, which they say the war was responsible for."

Aloysius at the beginning of the story is a stable boy on an estate in Ireland. His parents during a drunken quarrel rolled yelling and scratching and fighting into the river and drowned, leaving him an orphan and penniless.

The young boy stays on at the stable, making friends with men and beasts alike until because of a minor theft of which he was innocent he runs away to sea to seek his fortune. For a year or so his life on the ship keeps him happy and thrilled by its adventure. His one enemy on the ship is the cook, an evil and incredibly villainous man who spends his spare time persecuting the boy. Then one day the ship explodes and every one on board is lost except Al and the pasty faced cook.

To a tropical island the two of them finally manage to steer their raft after days of horror, thirst, fear and hunger on the sea. Several times the cook tries to kill the boy, and the reader is led to assume that his purpose is to have food. After an incalculable time on this island, during which period a band of cannibals makes jolly sport of the cook, Aloysius manages to save himself and to join a freak troupe.

Next we see him in Alaska in the midst of the gold rush, making friends and enemies, taking his usual lusty swig from the bottle of life. From this adventure Aloysius steps suddenly into a fantastic fortune made through the process of pickling peaches, the recipe of which a dying friend bequeathed him. And finally with his fortune he returns to South America, participates in a revolution and becomes the veritable king of the state.

This book follows the tradition of the picturesque rogue stories so popular in the earlier periods of English literature. There is no unified plot and no structure, unless the rambling, disconnected, crude narrative may be said to have a curious structure (in that it is perfectly adapted to the subject matter). But the novel, or autobiography, or adventure story holds the attention of the reader because of its richness, its understanding of life, its sheer and many times beautiful nonsense.

"Inchin' Along," by Welbourn Kelley (Morrow), is a story of another order, though it, too, deals with man's adventure with life, and in its chosen field is extremely effective. It is the story of an Alabama Negro who loved the "good earth" and who fought for his self-respect and his meager successes in the face of his white neighbors. Though the Negro hero experienced disillusion and frustration, though his defeats were bitter and humiliating, he just inched along the same as usual, struggling for what freedom and joy he could squeeze from his life.

The story is poignant and beautiful, written with an admirable simplicity, with an appreciation of the Negro psychology that is both tender and compelling. M. D.

Two Favorites of Opera Close Outdoor Season

BY KATHLEEN M'LAUGHLIN.

Rustic Italy, under a bland September moon, formed the setting last night for the double bill that closed the season of the Chicago Open Air Opera company at Soldiers' field. The moon was genuine and a highly appreciated adjunct of the production of the perennial favorites of opera, "Cavalleria Rusticana" and "I Pagliacci," sung before an audience approximating 6,000 Chicagoans.

Optically and audibly the performance was a delight in many ways, even if slightly ragged musically at infrequent intervals. "Cavalleria" provided one scene of surpassing effectiveness in the playing of the intermezzo, during which the bells of the carillon in the Hall of Science beyond in the Century of Progress grounds chimed in with the orchestra in the stadium as the procession of crucifers, acolytes, clergy, and vividly garbed peasants paced across the stage and down a runway, off one side.

Honors of the evening were garnered primarily by Pasquale Amato in the rôle of Tonio, the clown, in the second part of the bill. His singing of the prologue ended in a perfect furore of applause and "bravos," as the poised and seasoned opera veteran bowed again and again and again before the clamor subsided.

Earlier in the evening Della Samoiloff, who has not appeared in Chicago for some years, proved tremendously popular in the part of Santuzza in "Cavalleria." Her dramatic fervor and highly adequate voice combined to stimulate a gratifying amount of applause. Of late years she has been winning laurels in South America and with the Royal Opera company in Rome.

Ralph Errole as the Turiddu, the philandering young soldier who can't forget his first love even though she has married another, repeated his excellent performance of the previous night in "Carmen."

"Pagliacci" presented Leola Turner, Chicago girl, as Nedda. Despite the lack of volume to her voice due to her youth, she drew a hearty response from the crowd.

Black and Blue New Combination from Couturiers

BY BETTINA BEDWELL.

PARIS.—[Special.]—The black and blue of the "shiner" has become of late a fashionable color scheme for evening ensembles in Paris.

The ensemble shown in our sketch today is one of the chic black and blue outfits being worn here.

The frock is a simple dinner gown in black velvet, with an ankle length skirt having pie-piece godets in front to give it a forward movement, and in back it has a black velvet and blue turquoise sash that falls to the hem. A cape jacket of turquoise blue satin is worn with this dress. Over a waist length satin jacket is placed a cape that is surpliced in front.

Good Morning!

Well, climb up on the roller coaster. It's time to be scared again!

"Dr. X," all in technicolor, mind you, gets right grisly at times; but in its effort to be so, thrusts aside appeal to the intelligence. It is overacted and directed with a heavy hand.

The picture, adapted from a play which, I believe failed, is concerned with a series of murders, all committed by the light of the moon near the research laboratory of a certain eminent Dr. Xavier.

Police search for the killer narrows down to suspicion of some one—or ones—connected with the institution. The condition in which the corpses have been found has caused to be whispered the awful word "cannibalism!" The doctor's professors haven't a blotless record among 'em.

Those portraying suspects and police look deep, dark, and desperate and talk in fearsome voices. Lee Tracy, as an indefatiguable and hapless newspaper reporter, does well by a rôle that had little to offer. Fay Wray is appealing as Xavier's pretty, frightened daughter.

If you liked "Dracula" and "White Zombie" you'll probably get a kick from "Dr. X." But don't X-pect too much! [Forgive me!]

Country club that helped to make the party there Saturday night such a great success. From 6 to 8 o'clock the latest in fall and winter fashions were paraded around the pool by slim young women, and judging by the ohs and ahs of admiration which were heard on all sides probably the husbands and fathers who were there will find that the party was an expensive one for them, for certainly every woman there was visualizing just how she would look in one or more of the chic ensembles.

The cerulean blue of the pool deepened as the shadows fell and by the time it was dark enough to make it necessary for the lights around the pool and in the cabanas to be lighted the daytime clothes had been shown and the gorgeous evening ones appeared. A plane passing overhead with lights on its wingtips added to the picture which was as lovely and gay a one as could be found anywhere, even on the far famed Riviera.

The particular star of the fashion show, at least from the point of view of some of the younger members of the audience, was Puddles, the John P. Kellogg's scottie, who displayed the smartest thing in canine fashion, a plaid coat that matched the coat and hat of the pretty young woman who held his leash. Puddles, who is one of the best known and most popular pets in Lake Forest, was left in the Weymouth Kirklands' care when they took the Kellogg house this summer, and now that the Kelloggs are coming home from abroad and the Kirklands are coming back to town the Kirkland family, Mr. and Mrs. and Eleanor and "Red" are finding it very difficult to say good-by to the friendly little scottie.

Give Diving Exhibition.

After the show there was an exhibition of swimming and diving and then the guests, numbering more than five hundred, walked across the lawn to the huge marquee, where a buffet supper was served and there was music for dancing.

A few of those at the party were Mr. and Mrs. Wilbur E. MacFarlane [she was chairman of the committee in charge of the evening's entertainment], Mr. and Mrs. Ronald P. Boardman, the John N. Lees, Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Templeton, the Herbert Campbells, the "Freddy" Baileys, Mr. and Mrs. James Norris Jr., Mr. and Mrs. Ewing Webb, Mr. and Mrs. Franklin G. Clement, and Mr. Clement's mother, Mrs. Allan M. Clement; Mr. and Mrs. Horatio B. Hackett, the Everett Wymans, the William B. Freers, Mrs. John R. Thompson and her son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. "Dave" Owen; the Junior John R. Thompsons, the Burt Massees, Mr. and Mrs. Charles N. McNear and their son-in-law and daughter, Lieut. and Mrs. Warren Towle Jr.; the Richard Flemings, Miss Sophia Harrington and her fiancé, Jacob Bischof; the James L. Marshalls, the "Bert" Crowders, Mrs. Franklin P. Smith, the Stanley Morrills, the David Pecks, the "Ed" Fargos, the Clarence T. Seipps, and Mr. and Mrs. Elliott Donnelley.

Mrs. Borden to Return.

Mrs. Waller Borden, who has had a house for the summer at Pride's Crossing, one of the most exclusive of the resorts on Massachusetts' fashionable north shore, is returning to town the middle of this week. She was here for a day or two at the time of Mrs. Rockefeller McCormick's death, and from here she went to Maine to get a good view of the eclipse, but, like most of those who went far from home for this spectacle, she was not as thrilled as she had hoped to be.

Miss Lucy Proctor Trumbull, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles L. Trumbull of Winnetka, will leave the end of the month for her second year at Sarah Lawrence college. She will make her debut during the Christmas holidays.

Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Kelley [Hortense Henry] are planning to move into town from Lake Forest for the winter about Nov. 1.

Mrs. Gardiner Hammond will close her Lake Geneva residence next weekend and move into an apartment at the Drake hotel.

Mrs. Clyde G. Stevens and Miss Jean Stevens of 1412 Astor street will return the middle of this week from a brief trip to New York.

Mrs. William D. McIlvaine of 1100 Lake Shore drive left yesterday for a ten days' visit with her sister, Mrs. Charles Loughridge, in Denver.

Mr. and Mrs. Ira Nelson Morris have gone to Europe after a month's sojourn at their country estate in New York. Mr. Morris is in Paris at present and will join his wife shortly at Baden Baden, where she is taking the cure. Later they will visit Mrs. Morris' sister, Mme. Enrique de Paats of Paris, at her summer place at Biarritz.

The board of directors of Holiday home will hold its annual meeting on Wednesday morning at the Lake Geneva Country club.

The Chicago Stadium Grand Opera company is giving a luncheon on Friday at the Casino to which fifty women who have been interested in grand opera have been invited. Mrs. Ralph J. Sherman, who sends out the invitations, says the luncheon "will not be an appeal for funds, time or energy, but is intended to outline in detail the elaborate plans being made to give Chicago genuine, artistic and worthy grand opera at popular prices until such time as it will be possible to revive the famous Chicago Civic Opera company."

Miss Jane Willett has invited this season's debutantes and some of the older members of the Service club to a tea that she is to give on Tuesday, Sept. 20, for Mrs. Stanley Zaring, the Service club president, and her board of directors, from 4 until 6 o'clock at the Willett penthouse residence, 2130 Lincoln Park West.

The Death Watch

By Edgar Wallace

INSTALLMENT XIX.

THE INSPECTOR'S REWARD.

"There's nothing much more to explain," said Peter Dunn that night when he had told his story ostensibly to Mr. Hannay, actually to Mr. Hannay's daughter. "The first thing they did was to frighten away all the servants and substitute their own crowd. That was at the back of all the ghost business.

"They thought it would be easy. They had already made an abortive attempt to reach the cellar through a tunnel which they drove under the earth. It must have taken two months of hard work, and they used the time while you were in the south of France. They got into the house, but they didn't relish taking on the caretaker you left there, a policeman from the neighborhood, if I remember rightly.

"Once they'd staffed the house with their own people, their job was to get rid of you and Pat. They did the honorable thing—they offered to rent your house."

"When that failed," Peter went on, "they used the method by which they had terrorized the servants to get you to give up your occupation. If you'd done that it would have been as simple matter, they could have opened up their treasure house at leisure. As it was, they could only work for a few hours a night, and they had to cart the earth away in sacks. You'll find two or three full sacks near your gardener's shed.

"What puzzled me was the maid, Joyce. I didn't know until this afternoon that Lee Smitt had a daughter who had been an actress. When she pretended that she'd seen a man walk through her room she acted pretty well. Anyway, she deceived you, Mr. Hannay, and I should imagine that you would take a whole lot of deceiving."

"It is very remarkable how things came about," said Mr. Hannay. "Something told me that in no circumstances ought I to give up possession of this house—which shows you, Mr. Dunn, how the path of duty can also be—um—the path of glory. If I had taken the easier path we should not have captured these criminals. We might have saved ourselves a little trouble, and perhaps a little danger—and I don't think any of you realize how near I was to choking myself with that beastly gag the fellow put into my mouth—but we should not have had the satisfaction of having placed two miscreants in gaol. By the way, I suppose my evidence will be necessary?"

"Undoubtedly," said Peter, with great gravity. "Your evidence will possibly be the most vital of all."

When her father had gone, Pat asked:

"Am I to go into that awful court?"

"You are not," said Peter Dunn emphatically. "There are quite enough people taking credit for this little group. I will give all the evidence required, and if I'm asked I shall mention the fact that my wife was present."

"But I'm not your wife," said Pat.

"You will be by then," said Peter.

Even in the days when Marcus Aurelius and Lucullus stretched their luxuriant selves along dining benches and adroitly ate from their elbows—there were turnips. In fact, or so assert the cook book historians, this husky rotund vegetable was such a favorite in the days when Rome flourished that a royal banquet was hardly complete without its bowl of yellow or white odoriferous turnips to boost imperial appetites with its pungent strength. One good old Cæsarian recipe called for "turnips seasoned with cummin, rue, and pennoin powdered in a mortar and mixed with honey, vinegar, boiled grapes, and oil"!

Today, though we prefer to take ours sitting up, turnips and their near relatives, the rutabagas, though lower in food value than parsnips, carrots, and beets, are still valuable as an excellent source of bulk for regulating uneasy digestive systems, and also as a moderate source of minerals and vitamins. Moreover, turnips are easily grown and therefore cheap, and—though too many cooks fail to appreciate the fact—they are nearly as versatile as Pat potato in the guises they can assume in preparation.

To present turnips in their simplest form, scrub and cook the young ones whole, having cut off what fibrous material there may be. They will require a bare half hour's boiling in salted water. Skin them and serve whole with melted butter or white or cheese sauce. The older fellows may be peeled, cut once for cooking, cooked till just tender, and mashed with butter for serving.

There are really two varieties of turnips. The mild white turnips are found most often on the market during the summer and may be used as a double dish, the turnip greens being served one meal and the turnips proper another. The rutabagas or "Swedes" are large, most often yellow, strongly flavored and on the market in the fall and winter.

It is well when cooking turnips to use an excess of water to tame down the taste a bit. If they have been cut before cooking the liquor may then be used in soup stock and will add a most pleasing flavor.

But turnips boiled and mashed are just starters. If you would have your family wax fairly jubilant, vary your service with creamed turnip balls, glazed rutabagas, turnip croquettes, turnip pie, or the following fluffy turnip and carrot luncheon loaf:

TURNIP AND CARROT LUNCHEON LOAF.

Scrub three medium sized carrots and slice one-fourth inch thick. Plunge these into boiling salted water and cook until just tender. Butter a loaf pan and arrange the cooked carrot slices in a layer on the bottom and sides. Now to two cups of cooked, sieved turnips add one-half teaspoon salt, a dash of white pepper, and one-third cup of cream. Fold into this the stiffly beaten whites of four eggs and season with nutmeg if desired. Turn into the pan lined with the carrots and bake in a shallow pan of hot water about forty minutes in a moderate oven (350 degrees F.). Unmold and serve in slices with a creamy meat gravy.

"Have a Heart" Tag Sale Today to Aid Charity

Chicago will go bustling about its business and its amusements today with tiny crimson pennants of mercy fluttering from thousands of coat lapels. It's "Have a Heart" day for the Chicago Federated Charities.

Today is the day to remember the folks life didn't provide for in the usual channels—the white haired mother who hasn't any one left to make her a home; the old man whose days of usefulness are ended and whose nearest and dearest are too unfortunate or too forgetful to give him shelter; the youngsters from broken homes.

Each of these vivid red pasteboard hearts represents a donation to help give the wards of forty of the city's most worthy institutions assurance of food and clothing and housing for another year. As they dangle from shoulders in theater lobbies and elevated trains, up on the girders of the new postoffice building, or down in the maze of tunnels under the city, the little red hearts reveal Chicago's concern for the helpless and sacrifices none the less appreciated because unrecorded.

Simple Remedy Brings Relief to Tired Feet

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

What aching feet can do to a disposition, to say nothing of the looks, is indicated in a communication from a former foot martyr. She tells of how she snapped at everybody that came within her domestic range. She looked cross as a bear the whole summer through. She didn't know, herself, it was her feet that were making life miserable for her beloved ones. She knew her feet hurt, to be sure. There was an aggravated sweating condition that threatened to make her socially embarrassed, which added to her irritability. All of the time her feet were hot and swollen and when her shoes were off they throbbed and ached.

She tells of discovering through a noted physician the simplest remedy in the world for all her foot and disposition ailments. And what do you think it was? Nothing but cold, cold water. Not hot water, not tepid water—but cold—as cold as she could stand it.

The excessive sweating, or more dignifiedly called hyperidrosis, is something to be attended to at once. It causes a maceration of the skin of the foot and makes it a favorable place for the germ that causes athlete's foot, which is a most painful affliction. No one knows exactly the cause of hyperidrosis, but it is not a natural condition to which one must remain resigned. Bathing the feet twice and perhaps thrice a day in cold water is the trick. Just bathe them. Don't soak them.

After each bath swab them with an astringent lotion and you may use a salicylic acid lotion, or the same astringent lotion you use under the arms to check perspiration. Finally, keep the feet well dusted with a dusting powder. Dust it into the shoes before putting them on. Dust it over the feet before putting on stockings.

HARTNETT'S HOME RUN WINS FOR CUBS, 3 TO 1

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.

The second edition of the White Sox's Walsh-Sullivan battery, introduced to 12,000 at Comiskey park yesterday in the second game of a double header, will have to rehearse the act made famous by their dads—Ed Walsh Sr. and Billy Sullivan Sr.—26 years ago. Its initial showing was cut short as the third place Senators thumped their way to a 9 to 4 victory over the Sox after stealing a 2 to 1 decision from the aged Sam Jones in the first game.

CARL REYNOLDS.

Jones, matched against Fred Marberry, was more abused by his own mates than enemy bats. Only one of the half dozen hits made off the leisurely foolers he throws was legitimate. The others were merely popups that, with a little more fielding skill, could have been properly handled. These caused untold damage. Two of them conspired against Jones for a run in the opening inning, and two more resulted in the winning run in the sixth. The Sox didn't enjoy any bargains like that.

Walsh Goes Away.

If there was any sentiment attached to the revival of the Walsh-Sullivan combination in the second game it wasn't shared by the Senators. They swooped on the offerings of Ed Walsh Jr., the pitching son of a one time pitching father, in the first inning. Three runs were hammered home, two the result of a home run by Carl Reynolds, a south side alumnus. That took away all the glamour, and finally, when Walsh was retired at the end of the fifth with two more runs eclipsing his 1932 debut, there were no complaints. The pitching then was handled by Fabian Kowalik, late of the Texas league, but the change failed to lull the enemy. They hit the young man and also profited by errors.

Monte Weaver, the pitching professor of mathematics, threw victory No. 21 as the result of the Walsh fadeout, but didn't have the pleasure of going the full route. After he had set down a couple of men in the ninth he used his bare hand to stop a drive by Bob Seeds, who beat it for a hit. He rubbed the bruised paw, threw a few to determine his condition and decided to continue. But just then Lloyd Brown ran out from the dugout with orders to take over the assignment. He personally threw out Berry to end the show.

Errors Lose First Game.

The Sox were the victims of their own deeds in the first inning, the Senators thereby coming into possession of a run. Kuhel opened the afternoon's show with a fly to left, but it became a double when Kress lost it in the sun. Myer popped up behind the infield, but Selph couldn't make the catch, Myer getting credited for a single, putting Kuhel on third. Manush's fly to center permitted Kuhel to score. The Sox retrieved the run in their half when Seeds tripled to right center after two were out and Sullivan singled through second.

After his misfortune in the first inning Jones pitched hitless ball until the sixth, when the second bundle of bad luck disturbed him. Kuhel opened the inning with a tall fly to the left field line, and it fell for a double. Myer's bunt sent him to third. The infield drew in for a play at the plate and the outfield went back, because Mr. Manush frequently hits 'em far. This time Heinie fooled everybody with a short fly too far out for Selph and too close in for Seeds. The ball dropped for a double, scoring Kuhel with the winning run.

Walsh in Trouble Early.

Walsh's unhappy introduction began after Kuhel had opened the game with a pop to Rothrock. Myer lined a single over short. Manush hit one safely

BY WESTBROOK PEGLER.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Sept. 11.—They will not get around to the next defense of the heavyweight championship until next year and no doubt the customers will be quite as willing to wait as the gladiators. The last fight for the title, which is also known as the highest bauble in fistiana's realm, was not the sort of spectacle which the customers would wish to see two of, or even one of, in the course of a year.

However, another defense is inevitable and in the meantime several clean limbed, lean flanked white bodies, as they are called in the radio accounts, are fighting for the official runner-uptcy and the chance to meet Jack Sharkey, who retreated to victory against Max Schmeling.

Both Beat Sharkey, but ——

At the present time the clean limbed, lean flanked white body of Mickey Walker is going through exercises at a camp in New Jersey and Schmeling's body is doing likewise at Speculator, N. Y.. They are engaged to fight in the Garden corporation's big depression in Long Island City on Sept. 23. The fight yesterday was postponed from Sept. 19 because of a boil on Walker's arm. If prize fighting were a sport, the championship, or bauble, would be at stake because both of them beat Sharkey within the last year.

That is, both of them beat Sharkey but neither of them won, because it is one thing to beat him but quite another to win from him in New York, where the heavyweight championship is a political perquisite of Tammany Hall. When the clean limbed, lean flanked bodies of Walker and Sharkey met last year Sharkey received a draw; when Schmeling faced Sharkey for fame and fortune [again quoting from radio] Sharkey won the decision.

Baer Hits Too Hard.

Meanwhile Max Baer's magnificent, finely trained body has knocked out Ernie Schaaf, who was Sharkey's understudy for some time and once posed for the figure of the champion which surmounts the famous Tunney-Muldoon tombstone, symbolic of all that is fine and admirable in the prizefighting racket. This practically rules Baer out of the competition on the ground that he hits too hard, and about the only way he can get himself reinstated as a contender is to get himself knocked out.

Sharkey has been manifesting a very savage attitude toward Schaaf since Baer knocked him out, and he may be expected to come out almost any day now with a list of gladiators toward whom he feels equally savage. Such a list would include Diving Dan O'Doud, Fainting Philip Scott, and Frostrate Pat Redmond, the human horizon line.

Wanted Spirit to Carry On.

Sharkey's attitude toward Schaaf since Baer knocked him out presents a very interesting problem in prizefighting ethics, inasmuch as Sharkey is the owner of an undivided one-half of one-third of Schaaf. Sharkey and his manager, Johnny Buckley, a noted Boston sportsman and one of the finest characters in the prizefight racket, purchased Schaaf a few years ago and operated him under a partnership agreement, in the hope that when Sharkey should be forced to retire from pugilism his spirit would carry on in the clean limbed, lean flanked body of Ernie Schaaf.

But Sharkey was slow about retiring and Schaaf became impatient as he wished to fulfill his own destiny. In pursuit of this ambitious and rather obstinate course, Schaaf met Baer and after he had been knocked out it developed that he and Sharkey were no longer bound together by their beautiful understanding.

It Is Slander, Ernie?

Schaaf thought that Sharkey had stood in the way of his advancement, and Sharkey, although still the proprietor of an undivided one-half of one-third of Ernie, was moved to criticize his own property. He suggested that he could lick Schaaf, himself, which was a statement bordering close onto slander, as tending to hold Schaaf up to ridicule and injure his earning capacity. It is a serious thing to say that Jack Sharkey can lick any heavyweight, as that suggests that the heavyweight in question must be a very terrible fighter.

Before he can fight Schaaf ethically, Sharkey, of course, must assign his property interest in him to some one else, lest the contest come under suspicion of being one of those things. I cannot exactly define one of those things to you, but there are so many of those things being performed in pugilism nowadays that I am sure you will know what those things are.

My, O My! This Is Tough.

If the sale of the Sharkey interest should be a wash sale or mock transaction, Sharkey would be under a difficult pull in the performance of his start. He would not wish to do anything to damage his property, because that would be bad business and Sharkey is an astute business man. On the other hand, he would not want to take any chances, because even if Schaaf is as bad as Sharkey thinks he is, Ernie might happen to slap him around. It is hard to imagine a heavyweight who would not have a chance to slap Mr. Sharkey around.

Well, this is all very complicated, but that is the way it is, nevertheless, and if you think the present political situation is complicated you have only to consider the heavyweight runner-uptcy situation to realize how simple the political situation really is by comparison.

How They'll Pick Challenger.

At any rate, Max Baer, by his faux pas in slapping down Ernie Schaaf in Chicago, seems to have eliminated his clean limbed, lean flanked white body definitely from the problem. Walker, on the other hand, is a great figure in the case, because he was recently beaten by old Johnny Risko in a one night revival. Now if Schmeling should knock out Walker, Mickey would be practically tied with Schaaf for the runner-uptcy, and the loser of a subsequent Walker-Schaaf fight would be selected as the outstanding challenger for the heavyweight championship of the world.

AMATEURS START DRIVE TODAY FOR OUIMET'S CROWN

Baltimore, Md., Sept. 11.—[Special.]—Francis Ouimet national amateur golf championship, won a year ago, seventeen years to the very day after his former triumph in the event, will be at stake during the coming week on the Five Farms course of the Baltimore Country club.

Beginning tomorrow over the course where golfing history was made by Leo Diegel in 1928 when he brought to a finish Walter Hagen's four year tenure as P. G. A. champion, the 39 year old Bostonian will be called upon to defend or relinquish the title he gained at Beverly last year by beating Jack Westland.

One hundred sixty-one of the foremost golfers in the world are ready today, waiting and eager to succeed the man who astounded the golf world nineteen years ago by beating the two British professional stars, Vardon and Ray, in a playoff for the national open crown.

Test for Youths.

These players, survivors of the preliminary rounds held throughout the country, together with a majority of the members of the British Walker cup team, are prepared for the final qualifying test tomorrow and Tuesday, which will determine the makeup of the championship flight to begin match play at 18 holes on Wednesday and at 36 holes from then on through Saturday.

The tourney will definitely establish the caliber of the youngsters who flashed into view at Beverly a year ago, completely stealing the show from the veterans until the day before the finish. It will also determine whether the veterans, Jess Sweetser, George Voigt, Harrison Johnston, Max Marston, Chick Evans, and others who failed in their attempt to hold the line against youth in the last championship, merely had an off year or are in a decline.

There also is the threat presented by the appearance, for the first time since 1928, of a solid band of British golfers, among whom are the British amateur champion, Johnny De Forest, and the runner up, Eric Fiddian.

Three Vets Are Favorites.

There are three favored players among the veterans—Ouimet, Sweetser, and Voigt; and there are three favored players among the more youthful golfers — Gus Moreland, George Dunlap, and Charley Seaver.

From almost any point of view the one who will bear most watching and attract most attention is the brilliant young Texan, Moreland, winner of the Trans-Mississippi and the Western. Dunlap, former Princeton star, was in invincible form at Brookline, where he shot a 66 against McRuvie in the singles, defeating the Scottish star on the 27th hole.

There is Maurice J. McCarthy Jr., a fine match player. There is Billy Howell, the young Virginian who carried Ouimet to the 35th green at Beverly, the veteran even then having to hole a long putt to stifle the opposition. And there is Don Moe, who, two years ago, was looked upon as Jones' successor.

Other youthful possibilities include Jack Fischer, the University of Michigan ace who won the intercollegiate title this year; Johnny Goodman, the Omaha star who beat Jones at Pebble Beach in 1929; Westland, last year's runner up; Bud Eichelberger of Los Angeles, former Stanford football player, who has been moving along at a fast pace since golf came to be his main diversion; and Johnny Lehman of Chicago.

Law Stops Golf on First 9 Holes, but Not Second

Charlotte, N. C., Sept. 11.—(AP)—The spectacle of a municipal golf course dotted with players over its last nine holes, while the first nine lay closed by Sunday blue laws presented itself here today.

The city council recently enacted a law, aimed originally at Sunday baseball, which bars any sort of sport inside the city on Sunday. A half dozen tennis players and golfers were arrested last Sunday and fined $25 each in Recorder's court. The fines were remitted on the grounds they were first offenders, but they appealed to the state Supreme court in an announced effort to have the ordinance declared unconstitutional.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Brooklyn, N. Y., Sept. 11.—The Chicago Cubs this afternoon went one game ahead of the .500 ratio they set as their quota on their final trip of the season.

When the Cubs left home last Sunday night all their pennant compilations were based on winning as many games as they lost. In their first six games of the current journey, however, they lost four while winning two. So, just to ease fluttery hearts, the boys stepped out and won three straight, of which this afternoon's triumph was the third.

The Cubs tonight are leading the league by six games. They and the Pirates each have 15 more games to play.

If the Pirates win all their remaining games the Cubs can take five losses and still be the pennant winners, with this standing:

Chicago	93	61	.604
Pittsburgh	92	62	.597

If the Pirates win two out of every three they play the rest of the season, the Cubs can lost 10 out of their remaining 15 and win the pennant. This would be the final standing:

	W.	L.	Pct.
Pittsburgh	87	67	.565

If the Pirates win eight and lose seven, the Cubs can clinch the pennant by winning three more games. If the Pirates lose to the Phillies tomorrow, drop two out of three in Boston and two out of three in New York, the Cubs will have to win five out of their remaining eight eastern games to clinch the pennant before heading homeward via Cincinnati. In that event the standing of the two teams as they leave the east will be:

	Won.	Lost.	Pct.	Games to play.
Pirates	79	67	.541	8

The most reasonable hypothesis, however, indicates that the Cubs will clinch the pennant in the presence of their chief adversaries, in the competition which opens with a double header at Wrigley field on Sept. 20.

CANADIAN TURF BODY SUSPENDS 6 IN RINGER CASE

TORONTO, Ont., Sept. 11.—(AP)—Six persons have been suspended by the Canadian Racing association in connection with the ringer episode at Fort Erie on Aug. 6. The ringer, supposedly Janie G., later was identified as a filly named Voltagreen.

At the same time the C. R. A. ordered the horses Janie G., Hostage, Black Bunny, Fire God, and the ringer, Voltagreen, barred from C. R. A. tracks.

The game was called in the first of the ninth inning, with one out, because of darkness, the score reverting to the eighth inning. Score:

St. Mary's	330	000	02—9 11 2
St. George	400	300	13—11 10 6

Chattanooga Wins Title in Southern Association

Knoxville, Tenn., Sept. 11.—(AP)—Chattanooga won the 1932 Southern association pennant today with a 5 to 0 victory over Knoxville in the final game of the season. Meanwhile Memphis, which has been in a seesaw battle with the Lookouts for several weeks, finished in second place by defeating New Orleans, 1 to 0, in ten innings. Memphis and Chattanooga were only two percentage points apart in the final standings.

SCORES BEHIND GRIMM; BUSH STOPS DODGERS

BY EDWARD BURNS.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Brooklyn, N. Y., Sept. 11.—Gabby Hartnett's ninth home run of the season and his second in three days this afternoon supplied the Cubs the margin of victory in a 3 to 1 triumph over the Brooklyn Dodgers. Hartnett's homer came in the fourth inning with Manager Grimm on base. The Chicagoans thus restored their lead over the idle second place Pirates to six games, with both the Cubs and Pirates facing 15 more games on their 1932 calendar.

GABBY HARTNETT.

Guy Bush pitched a handsome game for his 18th victory of the season and missed a shutout because a crazy bounce gave Wright a triple and a subsequent score in the seventh inning. Otherwise Guy was the master of the situation whenever a threat developed. The Dodgers made eight hits, but in only two innings were they able to group two of them. On these two occasions Bush put on the clamps with great decisiveness.

Fifth in Row Over Brooklyn.

Today's victory was the second of the series and the fifth in a row the Cubs have taken from the team once feared as the most serious menace to their pennant hopes. The season series between Chicago and Brooklyn now stands at 12 victories for the Cubs to nine for the third placers.

Tomorrow afternoon the two teams will wind up their 1932 affairs with a single game.

Freddie Heimach, an able left hander who gave the Cubs a surprise tanning the last time they were here, was effective at all times except his brief lapse at the start of the fourth inning, when he was nicked for a single by Grimm and Hartnett's homer, a drive of monster proportions.

The run the Cubs scored in the preceding inning, though mighty welcome at the time it was made, was unearned, and its final accomplishment was a bit scratchy, which takes nothing from the Cub victory, especially since the Grimm and Hartnett efforts in the fourth were not aided by luck in the slightest degree.

Waste Hits in First.

Each team wasted a pair of hits in the first inning. Herman led off with a single to center. English fanned, but Cuyler singled to center, putting Herman on third. The rally ended when Stephenson hit into a double play. With one out in the Dodger first, Stripp singled to left and was forced by O'Doul. Frederick's single to right put O'Doul on third. Jurges then threw out Cuccinello.

The Cubs got the first run in the third and had the bases full when the inning closed. Jurges opened with a single to left. Bush fouled to Lopez in an attempt to sacrifice, and Herman flied to Taylor. English's grounder went between Wright's heels, Jurges racing to third. Cuyler then caromed a single off Heimach's instep, Jurges scoring. Stephenson walked, filling the bases, but Demaree fouled to Clancy.

Hartnett Drives in 2 Runs.

It didn't take long to get a couple of Cub runs home in the fourth. Grimm lined one of his center field specials and trotted home when Hartnett socked the ball into the upper deck in the left field stands. Jurges, Bush, and Herman then went out in order.

In their end of the fourth the Dodgers showed signs of wanting to do things. Frederick opened with his second hit, a single to center, and stopped at second on Cuccinello's single to right. Wright then hit into a double play, Jurges to Herman to Grimm, and Clancy flied to Moore.

The Cubs developed minor threats

New York, Sept. 11.—(AP)—Babe Ruth's condition remained unchanged today and there still was no definite word as to when the home run king will resume his place in the New York Yankees' lineup. At his home it was said that Ruth was running a slight fever, but that there was nothing in his condition to cause alarm.

GERMAN DRIVER BREAKS RECORD IN ITALIAN RACE

MONZA, Italy, Sept. 11.—(AP)—Rudolph Caracciola of Germany, driving an Alfa-Romeo, set a record in the annual Monza automobile race today. He covered the 200 kilometer course in one hour seven minutes 15 seconds, an average of 178.40 kilometers an hour. The former record of 1:09:11.5 was held by the Italian, Luigi Fagioli. Fagioli finished second today.

Leon Duray, American pilot, dropped out before the finish. He had expected the race to be run entirely on a track, whereas a portion of it was on the public roads and Duray's car, unequipped with front brakes, was forced to proceed slowly once the cars left the track.

PROS SHUN NEW RULES; SAY THEY CURTAIL ACTION

Keep Mass Interference, Reject Dead Ball.

[This is third of a series of articles on football rules and explanations of the principles of the game. Questions pertaining to football also will be answered in this column. Send your letters to the Football Editor, sports department, Chicago Tribune.]

BY WILFRID SMITH.

For the first time the National Professional Football league has failed to accept the entire code of rules under which the sport is played by the colleges.

The "dead ball" regulation, kickoff requirement, and use of the hands by the defense are thrown out. However, the league will conform to the new rules on protective equipment and substitutions, which now permit a player withdrawn from the game to return in any other quarter.

"Football is a game whose greatest attraction is body contact. We do not wish to give the impression that we court injuries by refusing to accept regulations which the rules committee says it has designed to prevent injuries. But we do not believe there is great physical danger in the kickoff which permits the players of the receiving team to mass in interference around the receiver.

Sees No Reason for Change.

"Certainly this kickoff rule and the ban on the use of hands would be adopted by us if we thought they were necessary, for it is obvious that injury to star players is disastrous to a professional sport depending on the drawing power of those stars. We have declined to adopt the rule which says the ball carrier is down when any part of his body, except his feet or hands, touches the ground, because we believe the public wants action. Action will not cease in our league when the ball carrier falls and no one is near him.

"As for the use of the hands, we will play by the 1931 rule with the general provision that unnecessary roughness must be checked."

Expect Bigger Attendance.

The professional league believes attendance will increase this season just as it did last year. The federal tax, which the colleges now pay for the first time, is an old story to the professionals and they will pass along the tax to the customers. Although the colleges have reduced the price of admission in most cases, the pros still charge less.

The "dead ball" rule, it is pointed out, will eliminate the fake place kick in college football. On the kickoff and when a field goal is attempted the player holding the ball for the kicker generally kneels on the ground to receive the center's pass. In that case the man with the ball may touch the ground with other than his feet or hands and the ball is not declared dead.

But in the fake place kick play, in which a back either runs with the ball or forward passes it, the ball cannot be put in play because it has been in possession of player who violated the dead ball rule.

It will be possible, of course, to assume the place kick formation and then pass the ball all the way back to the man who apparently is ready to kick. He then can pass or run, but the effectiveness of the play, which depends on deception, obviously is decreased.

Here's the Way to Keep from Game Wardens

BY BOB BECKER

Do Uncle Sam's hunting regulations on migratory game birds supersede state laws or can states reduce seasons as decreed by the department of agriculture? Many Illinois hunters are all mixed up these days because of two sets of laws affecting the hunting of migratory game birds.

The answer to this situation which is puzzling to hunters is found in the following illustration: The department of agriculture says: "The open season on doves shall be as follows: In Kentucky, Illinois, Minnesota, Missouri [and many other states] it shall be from Sept. 1 to Dec. 15."

This is the government migratory bird regulation which prescribes the maximum length of seasons in certain sections of the United States.

States Can Shorten Season.

No state can permit dove hunting outside of those dates. However, states can prescribe SHORTER shooting seasons for their hunters. In such cases [Illinois comes in this class] hunters must heed the state game laws.

Although the government says that it is permissible to hunt doves to the middle of December the state of Illinois says the dove season opens Sept. 1 and closes Sept. 30. In other words, state laws cannot extend beyond the open limits of federal regulations, but they can place additional restrictions on open seasons, thereby curtailing the federal regulations.

The Illinois state statute concerning dove shooting reads as follows:

"It shall be unlawful to hunt or kill mourning doves except between the first day of September and the 30th day of September, both inclusive, of each year."

Must Heed State Law.

Therefore Illinois dove hunters should regulate their dove hunting to this law, even though the government regulation is a broader one as far as the extent of the open season is concerned.

The same holds true of rail shooting. The government specifies Sept. 1 to Nov. 30 as the maximum season. Illinois cuts that to Sept. 16 for opening day and Nov. 30 closing. The jacksnipe season brings a different kind of mixup. The government says we must not shoot jacks until Oct. 1. That ruling stands even though copies of the Illinois game code may specify Sept. 16 as the opening day of the snipe season. In this case the federal law should be followed by all hunters if they wish to avoid unpleasant contacts with wardens.

Taking advantage of the early dove season Illinois sportsmen have been tuning up their shooting eyes against these fast flying birds and making some good bags within 75 miles of Chicago. The Kankakee region especially has provided excellent sport for some of these early hunters.

Notre Dame's Grid Crowds Up 50,000

Notre Dame, Ind., Sept. 11.—[Special.]—J. Arthur Haley, business manager of athletics, today predicted that the total attendance at Notre Dame football games in 1932 will be at least 50,000 more than attendance in 1931.

The biggest increase will be at the Southern California game in the now completed Los Angeles coliseum which holds 105,000. A crowd of 53,000 saw the game at Notre Dame stadium last year. Reports from the coast say the coming game will be a sellout.

Many Plan Trip to Coast.

"The number of Notre Dame fans who plan to take advantage of the special low rate trains to the coast this fall is surprising," Haley said.

Another big gain, Haley believes, will come on the Navy game in Cleveland's new municipal stadium. The game was moved to Cleveland after an invitation to both teams from Mayor Ray Miller, a Notre Dame alumnus. The new bowl, which holds 80,000, probably will be sold out, making an increase of 15,000 over the 65,000 who saw the game at Baltimore last year.

The Pittsburgh game at Notre Dame stadium drew 35,000 last year. At Pittsburgh this year Pitt officials predict a 55,000 or 65,000 crowd. The Kansas stadium at Lawrence holds 7,000 more than saw the Pennsylvania game here last season.

N. U. Attendance to Fall.

The gross gain in these four games will be from 92,000 to 102,000, depending on the Pitt crowd.

Drake should hold its own with 15,000 at Notre Dame stadium, and the crowd for the Haskell game should be equal to the gathering of 15,000 which saw the Indiana game here last year.

Another sellout that Haley believes likely is for the Northwestern game here Nov. 12. A crowd of 55,000 may see the game if both teams have good seasons, but even so the total will be off 15,000 from the 70,000 crowd which attended the charity game at Soldiers' field last year. Carnegie Tech will draw from 20,000 to 40,000 here, Haley believes. This will represent a loss of from 5,000 to 25,000 over last year's game at Pittsburgh. This is a gross loss of from 20,000 to 40,000.

INDIAN RUNNER AND PIGEON HOLE ESCAPE HEADLEY

Horses Start Winning as Soon as Sold.

BY FRENCH LANE.

Both the major mistakes of western racing this season seem to have been made by Hal Price Headley, noted Kentucky breeder who, despite the errors, is still ranked as one of the shrewd young horsemen of the country.

The blunders which have made Mr. Headley quite famous lately came when he let the race horses Indian Runner and Pigeon Hole slip out of his barn in exchange for little more than a song.

Pigeon Hole, which Mr. Headley sold for $500 "on the cuff," has just wound up a winning streak of seven straight. And Indian Runner has improved so much since he quit eating Mr. Headley's oats that you hear talk at Lincoln Fields of matching him with Hygro, from the Nevada Stock Farm stable, in a battle for the western 3 year old championship.

He'll Bring Up Some Others.

The loss of these horses probably hasn't robbed Mr. Headley of much sleep. For each year from his breeding place in the blue grass country he brings up enough young horses to provide replacements for any racing stable. If his friends would quit chilling him about the deals which sent Pigeon Hole and Indian Runner away from him he would forget all about it and charge it to profit and loss.

Pigeon Hole's loss probably doesn't mean nearly as much to Headley as the loss of Indian Runner. This colt last year was regarded as one of our best juveniles and during the winter Mr. Headley dreamed more than once that he had watched Indian Runner sweep down the stretch to victory in the Derby, the Preakness, the Classic, and other great stakes.

D. A. Wood Claims Horse.

But all through the early part of this season Indian Runner couldn't win. One failure after another jolted the dreams of his owner until Headley came to the conclusion that he would be in a better state of mind if he got rid of the scalawag. So he dropped him into a cheap claiming race at Arlington and, sure enough, he got rid of him. D. A. Wood, whose racing interests are quite small in comparison to Mr. Headley's, led Indian Runner away to his barn.

Since then Indian Runner has been everything Mr. Headley expected him to be. He appeared as a possible late season champion at Lincoln Fields the other day when he smashed the track record at seven furlongs with a mark of 1:22 4-5. He was pulled up at the finish or might have clipped another second off it.

Talk of Match Race.

There's only one horse at Lincoln Fields that has ever shown such dazzling speed. That one is Hygro, which is of Indian Runner's age. So the match race has been discussed and it is understood the owner of each colt is willing to make quite a side wager on the outcome. The race would be either at 6, 6½, or 7 furlongs.

Tennis World Finds Tilden's Shoes Fit Vines

New York, Sept. 11.—(AP)—Ellsworth Vines, gangling 20 year old youngster from Pasadena, has moved into the throne room of world tennis, dominating the picture much as did Big Bill Tilden a decade ago.

When the tall Californian, with the same type of terrific drives as Tilden used to employ, blasted Henri Cochet into straight set defeat in the final round of the national singles championship yesterday, he climaxed the most successful season any American player has enjoyed since Big Bill was in his prime.

He captured the British championship in his first appearance on Wimbledon's famous courts; he gave Cochet his first Davis cup defeat since the trophy left this country; won the national doubles crown with Keith Gledhill, and won the Newport singles title, the only grass court tournament in which he competed in the United States this year. His feat of winning the American singles title two years in a row has not been accomplished since Tilden scored his sixth successive victory in 1925.

His victory over Cochet in the Davis cup challenge round was discounted by many observers on the score that France already had clinched the cup and that Cochet, therefore, did not give his best efforts. But there was no possible ground on which to minimize his amazing triumph over the French ace at Forest Hills yesterday, 6-4, 6-4, 6-4. The withering drives Vines shot into Cochet's court left the great Frenchman without a defense, although his has been considered the best all around game in world tennis for several years.

MACCABEES BEAT SWEDES, 3-1, FOR SECOND VICTORY

The Maccabee All Stars yesterday defeated the Swedish-Americans, International league champions, 3 to 1, at Kuppenheimer stadium for their second victory of the new Chicago soccer season. O'Donnell and Timmons each scored in the first period to give the Maccabees a lead which the Swedes failed to overcome. The Swedes scored in the second period when Stanley got past Schlenger. De Pratt kicked the final Maccabee goal near the end of the period.

Sparta defeated the Norwegian-Americans, 6 to 0, in another interleague game at Sparta stadium. The Spartas booted in five goals in the opening period. Vleck collected four of Sparta's goals and Vidano two.

The Vienna team of the International league and Milwaukee battled to a 4 to 4 tie. Hansa and the Chicago fought to a scoreless tie.

In other International league games the Vikings beat the Danish-Americans, 5 to 1; Judean Leaders beat Sparta Seconds, 2 to 1, and the Sparta Old Boys beat Freedman, 5 to 0.

Capture Opener, 13-3; Win Second, 10-1.

Boston, Mass., Sept. 11.—(AP)—The Braves sent Cincinnati deeper into the National league cellar today by winning a doubleheader, 13 to 3, and 10 to 1. Cantwell aided his own cause in the nightcap with three hits, while Randy Moore and Wally Berger were making four each. Detroit, Mich., Sept. 11.—(AP)—Jimmy Foxx's 52d home run of the season in the seventh inning with Haas on base enabled the Philadelphia Athletics to defeat the Tigers, 5 to 4, today.

Rube Walberg, who went the route for the A's, walked eight men, but was spared a defeat by timely hitting and sparkling fielding in which Al Simmons starred with four extraordinary catches. INDIANS, 5; YANKS, 4.

Cleveland, O., Sept. 11.—(AP)—Wesley Ferrell came back from a 10 day suspension today to lead the Cleveland Indians to a 5 to 4 victory over the New York Yankees.

The temperamental pitcher, who promised his boss to behave himself after being benched at Boston for a display of temper on the field, was applauded by the 25,000 who witnessed the game. It was Ferrell's 21st win of the season.

A New York eighth inning rally failed when both Lazzeri and Ruffing, pinch batters, went hitless. Score:

INGLES CAPTURES EVANSTON AUTO SPEED SERIES

Bob Ingles of Dayton, O., won the weekly series of auto races at the Evanston motor speedway, Lincoln and Devon, yesterday. Ingles turned in the fastest qualifying trial, beat Emil Andrews of Chicago and Virgil Livingood of Evanston in the three cornered match race, and won the 80 lap feature.

Livingood was second in the 80 lap event, followed by Forest Hart and Jimmy Roselle. Gordon Chard, winner of last week's meet, was able to gather only two third places.

Cubs Depend on Root to Sweep Dodgers' Series

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Brooklyn, N. Y., Sept. 11.—Charley Root will do the pitching tomorrow in the efforts of the Cubs to effect their second successive sweep of a Brooklyn series. William Watson Clark will oppose him.

Hack Wilson was benched today in favor of Johnny Frederick, who has been doing great things as a pinch hitter. Johnny rewarded Manager Carey's judgment by making singles his first two times up.

Manager Grimm, who made four singles to center in four times at bat during yesterday's game, made two more singles today. Both of them were liners to center.

About 15,000 saw the game. It is said that more than twice as many would have turned out, had President William Veeck of the Cubs consented to move up tomorrow's game to make a Sabbath double header.

The talkie fellows were out in force today making sound pictures of the several members of the Cub cast. The players read their lines with great naturalness, no one ever suspecting they had been told what to say.

The weekly averages printed in the New York papers showed Bush to have won only 15 games up to date. If Bush and Chicago statisticians can count, the New York press is under estimating Guy by two victories.

in the sixth and seventh innings. Grimm got his second single to center with one out in the sixth, but Hartnett filed to Taylor and Jurges fanned. In the seventh, Herman walked with one down and stopped at second on English's single to left. Then Cuyler hit into a double play.

Triple Gives Dodgers Run.

The Dodgers broke their goose egg chain in the seventh. Wright tripled to right center, lingering there while Clancy was being retired, and came home while Lopez was being thrown out. Wilson batted for Heimach and bounced to Jurges.

A little tenseness developed in the eighth after Taylor had launched the inning with a strikeout. Stripp doubled to left and O'Doul served notice he was going for a homer to tie the score. Lefty did not get the homer, but instead rolled out to Herman, Stripp taking third. Frederick also had homer notions, but he ended the inning with a long fly to Moore.

Thurston, who had succeeded Heimach at the start of the eighth, struck out the side in the ninth. He sank Jurges and Bush. Then Herman singled to center and English fanned. In the Dodgers' ninth Cuccinello fanned and Jurges threw out Wright. Selbert batted for Clancy and singled to center. Lopez then bounced to Herman to end the game.

Senators Beat White Sox in DoubleHeader into center, putting Myer on third. Myer scored on Cronin's fly to Norman. Then Reynolds blasted his homer against the front of the upper deck in left field and Walsh was three runs in arrears.

The Sox employed three hits to get back into the argument with a pair of runs in the second inning. With one out Appling singled to center. Kress filed to center, but Norman delivered a two bagger in the same direction, Appling halting at third. Both fellows scored on Rothrock's single over short.

Walsh assisted the Senators with a wild pitch in the third. Myer scratched a hit past Hayes and was forced by Manush, who went to third on Cronin's single to center. The wild pitch appeared at this point, Manush scoring and Cronin going to second. Walsh was able to suppress the next two men. The Senators got after him again in the fifth to the extent of one run. Myer walked, stole second, and scored on a single by Manush.

Senators Have Lapse.

Kowalik's appearance in the sixth added one more to the enemy total. The Texas league youngster walked West, the first man to face him. The next two were retired, and Weaver bounced one into deep short for what should have been a single, but an error was recorded because Appling's hurried throw went wild. West scored on the play. Business was even better for the Senators in the seventh. A double by Myer, Rothrock's three base wild toss after a diving stop of Manush's drive and Cronin's long fly, produced two more runs.

After doing a vast amount of high powered fielding all afternoon, the Senators finally fell apart for a few moments in the eighth and during the excitement the Sox scored a couple of runs. Berry, who had supplanted Sullivan, singled through short with one out. Appling fouled to Kuhel and Kress walked, Norman grounded to short, but the ball seeped through Cronin's hands. Berry scored and Kress arrived at the plate just as Spencer let West's return go to the stands. Norman went as far as third on the two errors, but no farther. The Senators compensated for this by picking up a final run in the ninth on singles by Myer and Cronin.

DEMOCRATS PLAN TO URGE WALKER NOT TO RUN AGAIN

Fear Split in Party if He Does.

New York, Sept. 11.—[Special.]—On the heels of James J. Walker's abrupt departure for Italy, it became known today that efforts on the part of influential Democrats to persuade the former mayor not to run for reelection this fall will be made on his return to the city.

It was said that the consent of the former mayor to the dropping of his candidacy was highly important, as he left the mayoralty chair with the understanding that there was a commitment to him on the part of Tammany Leader John F. Curry and Brooklyn Leader John H. McCooey to nominate him, so that he could run for "vindication."

Refuse to Show Hands.

Both Mr. Curry and Mr. McCooey have steadfastly refused to indicate whether they had committed themselves to the renomination of the former mayor during the conferences of political leaders that preceded the abrupt end to the removal proceedings that were pending before Gov. Roosevelt. Friends of Mr. McCooey have indicated, however, that the Brooklyn leader did not consider himself so bound.

The situation would be far better for the organization all around, it was said, if it could be spared the Walker candidacy this fall through a voluntary withdrawal on the part of Mr. Walker.

Fear Opposition Strength.

Mr. Walker's candidacy, it was pointed out, would draw on the Manhattan and Brooklyn organizations the united fire of a considerably augmented anti-Walker element in the city, turning it into an anti-Tammany element that might work to the organization's disadvantage in the campaign of 1933, when the four year term for mayor will be at stake.

The stand to be taken by Alfred E. Smith in the local situation is still a mystery.

HAROLD TEEN—HE GETS A QUICK RETURN

JAILED FOR PETTY FRAUD; HE ONCE STOLE A KINGDOM

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

DESSAU, Germany, Sept. 11.—For five days undisputed king on a European throne, Otto Witte, 60 year old adventurer of Dusseldorf, now is in a Dessau jail awaiting trial for petty fraud. For some years past "his royal highness" had earned a living by selling signed photographs showing himself in glittering uniform on the throne of Albania.

Otto's life has been an adventurous rise and fall. At 9 he performed as a lion tamer in a circus. Next he was a sword swallower and fire eater. As an itinerant conjurer he drifted into Albania in 1913. There he heard that Tirana, the capital, was making elaborate preparations for the coronation of the first king of Albania, the Turkish prince, Halim Eddin.

This gave Otto an idea that was to be the coup of his life. He lavished his small capital on a dazzling uniform with numerous glittering medals and decorations. He sent telegrams announcing the impending arrival of the future king of Tirana. When he entered the capital resplendent in his new outfit, every inch a king, the entire population turned out for an enthusiastic welcome.

With due pomp and circumstance, Otto Witte ascended the throne of Albania and for five days reigned serene. Then came Prince Halim Eddin, the genuine candidate, to claim his electorate. But, before he could recover from his surprise at finding the throne already occupied, the Turk was apprehended as an imposter and thrown into jail.

With true cunning of the adventurer, Otto knew it was time to vamose. Before his "subjects" realized that they had been duped by a clever magician, he disappeared.

For almost two decades nothing was heard of him, until he was trapped committing petty frauds in Dessau. Running back along Otto's story, old and dusty court records reproduced the amazing and unique fact that Herr Witte, in truth, had ruled over a European country for five days.

SPAIN SENDS 55 NOBLES INTO AFRICAN EXILE

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

MADRID, Sept. 11.—The first group of 55 monarchists implicated in the rebellion against the Spanish republic left Madrid tonight for their African exile. The group was taken from prison in auto buses under heavy guard to Aranjuez, near Madrid, and put aboard a night train for Cadiz. Among the prisoners were the duke of Grimaldi and two relatives of former King Alfonso, Francisco de Bourbon, who is the duke of Seville, and Lieut. Alfonso de Bourbon. The travelers board the freighter Hispana tomorrow morning.

The fanciest titles caught in the roundup after the rebellion are still in prison, such as Duke Medinaceli, greatest feudal land owner of Spain. He has been so confident of his exile that he has had casks of drinking water shipped to Villa de Cisneros, Africa, from the Canary islands.

Cries of "bandits! assassins!" were raised by the crowd outside the prison as the aristocrats, seated between policemen armed with rifles, departed. The arrival at the prison gates of relatives and valets, who were notified at the last minute to bring lunches and traveling kits, was the first indication Madrid had that the first deportations were under way.

LARGE SUPPLIES LOWER PRICES OF CHIEF GRAINS

All Show Losses for Last Week.

BY CHARLES MICHAELS.

Larger receipts of wheat in the Canadian northwest, greatly in excess of last year, were combined last week with an absence of export demand for American wheat.

Small export clearances, as well as heavy hedging pressure on the Chicago and Winnipeg markets, were other factors that brought liquidation by holders of wheat futures, thus lowering prices. The week's close was about at the inside prices.

Eastern interests apparently did more selling than buying, because of the erratic action of the stock and cotton markets. A break of $6 in cotton on Thursday, due to the government report showing a larger crop than expected, precipitated a selling movement in all grains.

Losses Over Cent a Bushel.

Harvesting of wheat in western Canada is rapidly nearing completion. An official report given out on Saturday estimated all Canada's crop at 467,000,000 bu, and the three western provinces at 446,000,000. The latter figure is practically the same as that adopted by many traders nearly two months. Threshing of wheat in Canada is progressing rapidly and the heavy marketing was a depressing factor, resulting in hedging sales in Winnipeg and Chicago.

Canada was more fortunate than the United States as its export sales of wheat averaged about 1,000,000 bu a day for the last two weeks, while American hard winters have been practically unsalable.

It is said there were no export clearances of American wheat last week, which is considered a bearish factor.

Enough to Feed Europe.

The United States and Canadian government reports were given the traders at the close of the week. They furnished interesting statistics. With the crop and carryover, the United States and Canada have 1,698,000,000 bu of wheat as against 1,673,000,000 bu last year. The surplus is 765,000,000 bu, about the same as a year ago.

Corn Supplies Large.

A corn crop of 2,854,000,000 bu, as given by the government report for September, increased 34,000,000 bu over the August returns and compared with 2,563,000,000 bu last year. The eleven surplus states have 2,161,000,000 bu compared with 1,808,000,000 bu last year.

The corn crop is virtually made and is spotted in some sections owing to drought. There is a large supply of old corn in the country. That is being marketed in a liberal way. September corn broke to 29⅝c at the close on Saturday, the lowest of the season and for recent years. There is a carrying charge from nearby to distant futures with a 5c spread between December and May. December closed at 32⅛@32¼c and May 37⅛@37¼c. Prices for the week follow:

Pressure from liquidators carried September oats down to 15½c at the close Saturday, and spread the difference between that month and December to practically 3c.

Marshall Field Business Gains, McKinlay Says

The business of Marshall Field & Co. is showing a steady and marked improvement, John McKinlay, president, said yesterday. The largest gains, he declared, are in the wholesale and manufacturing divisions.

JOHN McKINLAY.

"Current wholesale sales are substantially ahead of last year in dollars," Mr. McKinlay said. "Some of the mills are running on full schedule for the first time in many months. Two of them are running twenty-four hours a day. Textile production, generally, throughout the principal eastern cities is on the increase.

"The recent rise in commodity prices, notably in cotton, wool and silk, has naturally accelerated the movement of merchandise and helped to create a much healthier market condition.

Sees Upward Trend.

"I believe that from now on business, generally, will improve. There will be fluctuations, of course, but the tendency will be for the better.

"By this I do not mean that we will have clear sailing. There are still many bad conditions to correct and serious difficulties to overcome. We must make every effort to maintain our vigilance and the higher standards of efficiency and economy we have achieved.

Finds No Panacea.

"There are many who speak of a new economic era and some who feel that somehow business operation may be controlled in the future so that peaks of prosperity and depths of depression may be avoided. So far I have not seen a program for such regulation that has interested me very much. Human nature will continue to be pretty much as it is now, and if we attain a new and higher degree of prosperity the chances are that we will indulge in greater excesses than ever before and again relapse into a period of readjustment and liquidation."

Collections and Sales Better, Credit Group Finds

A slight betterment in collection and sales conditions throughout the country, continuing the pickup in August, is reported in the September survey of business conditions in the official publication of the National Association of Credit Men.

DELEGATES TO FINANCIAL ADV. MEETING ARRIVE

Banking representatives from the leading industrial and trade centers of the United States and Canada began arriving in Chicago yesterday for a series of conferences and discussions as to how they can most effectively assist in accelerating the general business upturn which they feel has definitely started

Meetings will begin today and last through Thursday at the Congress hotel, under auspices of the Financial Advertisers' association. Charles H. McMahon of Detroit, president of the association, was among the early arrivals. New York will be represented by a large group, most of whom arrived in a special section of the Lake Shore Limited yesterday afternoon, including H. A. Lyon, Bankers Trust company; Robert Sparks, Bowery Savings bank; Walter Tresckow, Central Hanover bank; Frank Burrows, Irving Trust company; and Merle Selecman of the American Bankers' association.

Proper presentation to the public of the actual facts regarding industry and banking, is of basic importance in expediting economic recovery, Mr. McMahon declared last night. Public confidence, he said, is the rock upon which business is built, and united public confidence can be achieved most effectively through consistent advertising.

Bright Spots of Day's Business News

In the last two weeks loans and investments of New York City banks have increased $102,000,000, while gain from the year's low, established July 20, has been $290,000,000.

Several textile plants of North Carolina have placed orders for 115,000 new spindles for replacement.

About 500 members of car repair forces of Louisville and Nashville in Louisville and other points are to be put to work immediately.

INCREASE IN NATION'S STEEL REQUIREMENTS REGARDED AS CERTAIN

The iron and steel industry made a satisfactory showing last week and sentiment continues strong with an increase in the nation's steel requirements regarded as certain, the magazine Steel says.

The week following Labor day brought a two point rise in the steel operating rate, a slight but general expansion of inquiry and bookings, price advances in those scrap grades and districts which have lagged behind the leaders and structural steel lettings somewhat below the weekly average for the year.

The magazine added "the next two weeks are viewed as critical ones, which must record substantial improvement if recent high expectations are realized.

"Every operating district but one bettered its production in the week ended Sept. 10, despite the holiday: the exception was Birmingham where a 25 per cent rate was maintained Pittsburgh mills stepped up from 13 per cent to 15, Chicago from 12 to 13½, eastern Pennsylvania from 12½ to 13, Youngstown from 13 to 20, Cleveland from 14½ to 23, Buffalo from 11 to 20.

"The national average in the week thus was 15-16 per cent. Cleveland and eastern Pennsylvania operations will expand this week; Buffalo will be off.

"A firming tendency is manifest in steel prices. Some sheet mills have announced fourth quarter prices which rescind recent shading. Rivet makers also are restoring third quarter levels.

"Woven wire fencing manufacturers have adopted new discounts which supersede the former spring and fall datings. Plate, shape, bar, strip and bolt and nut prices have generally been extended."

CHICAGO TRADE KEEPS PACE WITH NATION'S GAINS

Chicago business conditions during the last week kept pace with the general increase noted all over the country, following the Labor day holiday. Commodity prices still mounted; consumer sentiment was reported showing continued improvement, and, most noticeable, was the upturn in the following three lines: Car loadings, steel operations, and electric power consumption, according to the Chicago Association of Commerce.

Favorable reports came from wholesalers and retailers of general merchandise in the Chicago area, especially in advance sales by traveling men on the road. Sales last week were 15 per cent ahead of the same period last year, and trade leaders are looking for a steady improvement that will carry throughout the balance of the year. At retail the demand for seasonal merchandise, especially in outfitting children for the resumption of school activities, was noticeably good.

Steel ingot production, according to a weekly survey, rose to 14½ per cent from 13 per cent in the preceding week. Officials stated that further gains in September would depend almost entirely upon the volume of incoming business for immediate requirements, as steel mills have virtually no backlog on their books. In the scrap iron business there was some increase in activity with the reported result that pay rolls have been increased substantially.

While actual orders in the drug business gave no indication of better business conditions, the increase in commodity prices has caused several dealers to rebuild inventories with the expectation of some pickup in the early future.

2 NEW GROUPS ORGANIZED TO REVIVE TRADE

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Sept. 11. — Two newly created organizations, both of them formed for the purpose of speeding the country's economic recovery, announced their purposes today. One of them, known as the committee for the consideration of intergovernmental debts, under the temporary chairmanship of Alfred P. Sloan Jr., president of the General Motors corporation, will attempt to solve the problem of intergovernmental debts by mobilizing "practical business opinions" and by studying the situation with "coolness and detachment."

A. P. SLOAN JR.

The other organization has not limited its scope but is to be known as the National Citizens' League for Economic Recovery and will attempt to organize men and women representatives of all groups of American life in an aggressive campaign to break the back of the depression. It will hold an organization meeting Thursday night at the Town Hall here.

76 Leaders on Committee.

Seventy-six leaders in industry, agriculture and labor formed the organizing committee sponsoring the committee for the consideration of inter-governmental debts. This group has sent invitations signed by Mr. Sloan to several thousand representative business men and farm and labor leaders throughout the country, asking them to become members.

The 12 vice chairmen of the committee include Dr. Nicholas Murray Butler, president of Columbia university; James M. Cox, former governor of Ohio; John W. Davis, former ambassador to Great Britain; Henry P. Fletcher, former ambassador to Italy; Frank O. Lowden, former governor of Illinois; Edward A. O'Neal, president of the American Farm Bureau federation; D. B. Robertson, president of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Enginemen; Alfred E. Smith, former governor of New York; Louis J. Taber, master of the National Grange; Henry A. Wallace, editor of Wallace's Farmer of Iowa; A. F. Whitney, president of the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen; George W. Wickersham, former attorney general.

Sloan Issues Statement.

In making public the plan to form such a national committee Mr. Sloan said:

"The problem of inter-governmental debts is a problem of dollars and cents. It can be solved only by hard straightforward business calculations. The American people cannot afford to leave a question so vital to their economic interests unsettled any longer.

"If business reasoning decides that insistence on payment is the best course, that then is the solution we want. If reduction or even outright cancellation is the answer, that on the other hand, is the answer that will be welcomed."

Stockholders of General Motors Increase Again

The total number of General Motors corporation common and preferred stock holders for the third quarter of 1932 was 364,401, compared with 359,046 for the second quarter of 1932 and with 293,714 for the third quarter of 1931. There were 346,763 holders of common stock and the balance of 17,638 represents holders of preferred stock. These figures compare with 341,490 common stock holders and 17,556 preferred for the second quarter of 1932.

WESTINGHOUSE HEAD MAPS PLANS TO PUSH REHABILITATION WORK

New York, Sept. 11.—(AP)—A. W. Robertson of Pittsburgh, chairman of the committee on industrial rehabilitation, one of the groups set up at the recent White House business conference, announced plans today for an extensive organization to accomplish his committee's assignment.

Robertson, who is chairman of the board of the Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing company, said he would announce the membership of his committee next week. Its first step, he announced, will be to organize subcommittees in each of the federal reserve districts, each with a chairman and vice chairman.

Each federal reserve district committee and industrial area subcommittee will approach its job with a general knowledge of the replacement needs of the manufacturer and will be equipped with ample evidence proving that modernization is the right step to take without further delay.

The committee will point out to factory owners, Robertson said, that rundown machinery can best be replaced now because financial and credit conditions are improved and purchase and installation costs for machinery are low.

Robertson said that in industries devoted to the making of machinery and equipment approximately 1,620,000 workers had been deprived of employment since 1929, at a total loss of income of more than $3,000,000,000 annually.

"The fact that in these last three years there has been more rapid improvement in equipment design than in any other period in our industrial history makes the condition that much more urgent. Replacement has not kept pace with this engineering advance."

GERMAN CREDIT GROUP DELAYS NEXT MEETING

Finds Little Pressing for Solution.

New York, Sept. 11.—(AP)—Albert H. Wiggin, chairman of the German credit [standstill] committee of 1932, today announced that its next meeting, scheduled for Oct. 1, had been adjourned indefinitely.

This marked the first time since the committee was formed to effect the gradual thawing out of approximately $1,200,000,000 of short term credits advanced to Germany that it has been able to enjoy a breathing spell. Wiggin's statement indicated there was no need for a further consultation over Germany's credits at this time.

Await Future Calls.

"As no matters of particular importance have been presented for discussion at the meeting which, under the German credit agreement of 1932, was scheduled to take place on Oct. 1," he said, "the various creditor committees, in accord with the German committee, have decided to adjourn the meeting subject to call by the chairman at such later date as he may consider suitable or at the request of any one of the committees."

The German Creditors committee, known as the standstill committee, is composed of banking representatives of Germany, as the debtor, and of the United States, Great Britain, France, Italy Holland and six smaller European countries, as creditors.

The standstill agreement, which was designed to lift the pressure of world creditors on Germany until that nation could nurse its financial affairs back into something like normal vigor, was originally signed in February, 1931. On its expiration, last February, a new agreement was drawn to run until next Feb. 23, and it was announced that despite her foreign exchange difficulties, Germany had contrived in the previous year to pay off about 10 per cent of her original indebtedness.

Small Repayments Made.

This left a balance of $1,275,000,000 of short term credits still tied up in Germany seven months ago. Some repayment has been made since then, but the amount has been small.

Wiggin, as chairman of the International committee, also represents 14 American banks which participated in the extension of short term credits to Germany.

Holding of a meeting in New York would be the first time that the committee had conferred away from Europe. It would probably bring together on American soil the most powerful array of international banking talent ever to assemble in this country.

TRADERS PAUSE TO TAKE STOCK OF SITUATION

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Sept. 11.—Having outrun the most sanguine hopes of early autumn business improvement, the share market now appears to have entered a stage of uncertainty. The long advance which has been instrumental in elevating prices more than 100 per cent above their July lows has slowed up. Traders of both camps are taking stock of the situation in an effort to decide whether the outlook is for a resumption of the upward trend or not.

Selling Sets In.

After having established a new high for the recovery last Thursday morning the market turned reactionary and with the exception of an occasional short lived rally, selling operations predominated for the remainder of the week. As a result the week-end averages show a net decline for the five days since Labor day—the first week of the new fall season. The fifty representative issues figuring in THE TRIBUNE'S average table show a loss of nearly 3½ points from Saturday a week ago.

There is no doubt in the minds of well informed students of the situation that the market by its own determination has done much to encourage business enterprise. Some commentators are admittedly disappointing to many who had looked forward to a really miraculous turnabout after Labor day and this chagrin is to blame for the present check of the upward price sweep.

Study Steel Figures.

Thus, keen eyed observers were quick to point out that while figures on steel output for last month reflected an advance from 13 per cent to 14½ per cent of capacity, the daily average production really declined 1,000 tons in the month, the higher total being entirely due to the fact that August had more working days than July.

The car loadings gain, it was pointed out, represented no more than a seasonal gain—if that—and motor car production hit a new low since the depression of 1921. Building continues slack and farm and railroad equipment makers virtually idle.

Pacific Mutual Life Insurance.

I have read your analysis of Equitable Insurance and Prudential. I would like an analysis of Pacific Mutual Life, in which I am about to take out a policy. The agent said that this company was founded in 1868.—L. M. S.

Pacific Mutual Life Insurance Company of California [Los Angeles] was incorporated in 1867. It began business in the following year. It is controlled by its stockholders, but dividends on the stock are paid exclusively from the accident division and the nonparticipating division of the life department.

Growth has been fairly rapid. Insurance in force more than doubled in the eleven years through 1931. Policyholders' surplus is regarded as ample and the reserve basis is strong. Expenses are moderate and the mortality rate is favorable.

In 1931 income was $48,962,000 and disbursements, including $14,375,000 dividends to policyholders, were $36,923,000.

Total assets at the close of 1931 were $190,324,000. Of these, 4 per cent was in real estate, 38 per cent in mortgage loans, 4 per cent in collateral loans, 20 per cent in policy loans, 15 per cent in bonds [amortized value] and 1 per cent in preferred stocks [June 30, 1931, values].

Mortgages on farm properties were $5,566,000 and other mortgages were $85,150,000. Of these $71,303,000 were in California, $2,595,000 in Oregon, and $9,144,000 in Texas.

The company has $5,248,000 invested in government bonds, $716,000 in state bonds, $278,000 in railroad bonds, $15,786,000 in public utility bonds, and $13,580,000 in miscellaneous bonds.

It is licensed to conduct life insurance business in all states except Connecticut, Maine, Massachusetts, New Hampshire, New York, Vermont, and Wisconsin.

The company has an excellent reputation.

How to Buy Stocks.

Just how does an inexperienced person, living in a small town, proceed to buy stocks or bonds listed on the Chicago or New York exchanges? I am thinking of buying some in a small way, so am writing you for information.—L. G. T.

About the most convenient method is to let your local banker handle the mechanics of your dealings. If you have had no previous experience, you can probably secure information from him.

You can also get in touch with a brokerage house in the nearest large city. We urge you to exercise caution in the selection of a broker, and suggest you submit his name to us for our comments on his reputability before intrusting him with funds.

Out of Work Three Years.

I have a two flat, $6,500 first mortgage [only], interest due Oct. 1, $195 to be paid at Bryar & Blish real estate office. Been out of work now almost three years. Have not paid 1929 or 1930 taxes, and the way things look right now I will not be able to pay my interest. More hard luck having a city policeman for a tenant, who owes me five months' rent, $300. Please advise me on the following questions: Will they foreclose on me for not paying interest on time? Can I expect any help from the home loan bank? Do the people holding the mortgage have to listen to the federal government asking for a sixty day moratorium for small home owners?—M. S. M.

They can foreclose for being delinquent on interest, as provided in the trust deed. The Federal Home Loan bank plans to be in operation in about sixty days. We have no definite information as to their policy in making loans. Individuals holding mortgages do not have to abide by the moratorium issued by the federal government. In view of the fact that you have a city employé who is delinquent $300, your inability to pay your interest is not entirely your fault; however, you have obligations that must be paid. We suggest you clear up your taxes at the first opportunity.

Owes Interest and Taxes.

I have noticed you have been giving some good advice in your new column and wonder if you could help me out. I have an 8 room house near 61st and Western, with $5,000 mortgage due in four years, but I owe the interest Oct. 1, 1932, of $150, and the last taxes, about $270. There is a 2 car garage from which I receive $10 a month, and this is my only income, as I have been a widow for four years and have used up my savings.

I made an even trade with my bungalow for this house amounting to $12,500, as I thought I could rent the rooms and perhaps have boarders, but have not been able to do so. I am trying to sell the house, or trade on a smaller place and get some cash, but I don't seem to be able to find a smaller place without big morigages also that will trade and give me some cash. Any advice you can give me will be greatly appreciated.—H. R.

You fully realize you are carrying too great a load under present conditions. We know it is difficult to negotiate a trade at this time. However, we know of the following case: The home building department of one of our large mail order houses has a number of repossessed homes located in small towns outside Chicago. They have been known to trade a small property clear of incumbrance for the equity in a property located in Chicago. [We are sending you the name of this company.] If such a deal can be made you are at least provided with one of the three essentials in life—food, clothing, and shelter.

TAX WARRANT TRADING.

Chicago, Sept. 6.—A recent article, appearing Sept. 2, in THE TRIBUNE, headed "Brokers Tell Value Tests of Tax Warrants," included a statement pertaining to the west Chicago park commissioners' issues, viz.: "As regards west park warrants there has been some question regarding the legality of the 1931 issue. That raises some doubt in the minds of the potential buyers. This point should be cleared up shortly."

No person, firm, or corporation has ever pointed out where any of the west Chicago park commissioners' issues of tax warrants for the years 1928, 1929, 1930, and 1931 have ever failed to meet the legal requirements of such documents. Before issuance of these instruments the opinion of reputable bond house attorneys has been received and can be supplied to prospective purchasers.

The quoted statement made will no doubt have the desired effect of further beating down the price of 1931 warrants, already unreasonably low on account of statements made or attempts made on the part of agencies having no right whatever to quote prices or make sales below normal market conditions.

Since June of 1930 the commissioners have been beset by rumors eminating from unauthorized persons and quotations made to bond houses far below par by unauthorized persons, until even reputable firms dealing in the tax warrant market, believe that there is some legal insufficiency in the commissioners' warrants. Only the other day the city of Chicago felt the effect of the same character of meddling with its warrants.

It is about time that some one in authority called a halt to this nefarious practice of beating down the actual values.

The effect of such practice is that the employés of the west park system, already in dire need of financial relief, sell their warrants at prices far below their actual value, suffering a loss out of necessity, while the tax paying public must pay one hundred cents on the dollar for redemption of the warrants so sold.

DANIEL A. ROBERTS,

A BRIGHT SPOT IN BUSINESS.

Chicago, Sept. 11.—Among the "Bright Spots in Day's Business News" we submit:

A new top of $11 for this season was paid for a baby beeve at a sale of boys' and girls' club calves at the Chicago Union Stockyards this week. The entire string of 222 steers realized an average of $9.45. According to Col. Carey M. Jones, who conducted the auction, there were thirty-four animals which sold for as much or more as the previous top price of $10.50 obtained one week previously. M. S. PARKHURST,
